Civil Action No. 1:25-cv-00573-MSM-AEM

REPLY TO GOVERNMENT'S ABBREVIATED RESPONSE TO HABEAS PETITION

Petitioner Julio Efrain Criollo Ayavaca, by and through his undersigned counsel, respectfully submits this Reply to Respondents' Abbreviated Response to Habeas Petition and Request to Proceed without Additional Briefing or Argument. Mr. Criollo Ayavaca submits this Reply pursuant to Rule 5(e) of the Federal Rules governing Section 2254 cases.

Because the Government's response is abbreviated, the Petitioner offers an abbreviated reply to the response as well, in the interest of having the court adjudicate the habeas petition and release him from unlawful detention in an expedited fashion.

1. Petitioner is Not Required to Exhaust Administrative Remedies

The Government contends that Mr. Criollo Ayavaca should be required to exhaust his administrative remedies before bringing a habeas challenge in court. No. ECF 4. Because there is no statutory requirement of administrative exhaustion, the Government's exhaustion argument is measured by the “more permissive” common law exhaustion standard. See Brito v. Garland, 22 F.4th 240, 256 (1st Cir. 2021); Portela-Gonzalez v. Sec’y of the Navy, 109 F.3d 74, 77 (1st Cir. 1997). As this Court has recently found, waiving the exhaustion requirement is especially appropriate where the petitioner may suffer irreparable harm, and being detained pending exhaustion of administrative remedies is, in fact, irreparable harm. Ayala Casun v. Hyde, No. 25-cv-427-JJM-AEM, 2025 WL 2806769, at *3 (D.R.I. Oct. 2, 2025) (citing Sampiao v. Hyde, No. 1:25-cv-11981-JEK, 2025 WL 2607924, at *6 (D. Mass. Sept. 9, 2025)).

Waiver of the exhaustion requirement is warranted here because Mr. Criollo Ayavaca is likely to experience irreparable harm if he is unable to seek habeas relief unless and until the BIA decides an appeal of his request for release on bond. According to data released by the Executive Office for Immigration Review, the average processing time for bond appeals exceeded 200 days in 2024. See Ayala Casun, 2025 WL 2806769, at * 3 (citing Rodriguez v. Bostock, 779 F. Supp.3d 1239, 1239, 2025 WL 1193850, at *5 (W.D. Wash. Apr. 24, 2025)). The Immigration Judge denied Petitioner’s request for release on bond on September 11, 2025. Assuming the BIA is processing appeals at the same rate as last year, any appeal that Mr. Criollo Ayavaca would file before the BIA would likely not be resolved until 2026, giving rise to the possibility that he would endure more than six additional months of detention that may be unlawful. Such a prolonged loss of liberty would, in these circumstances, constitute irreparable harm. Id.

Moreover, waiver of any exhaustion requirement is appropriate for the independent reason “the BIA made its position on the scope of § 1225(b)(2) crystal clear in [Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025)] such that ‘further agency proceedings would be futile[.]’” Guerrero Orellana v. Moniz, No. 25-CV-12664-PBS, 2025 WL 2809996, at *4 (D. Mass. Oct. 3, 2025)(quoting Portela-Gonzalez, 109 F.3d at 78).

2. Petitioner’s detention is governed by § 1226(a), not § 1225(b)(2)

The Respondents assert that Petitioner is lawfully detained pursuant to 8 USC § 1225(b)(2) and “acknowledge that questions of law in this case, and the challenges to the government’s policy and practice, substantially overlap with those at issue in Doe [v. Moniz, No. 25-cv-12094-IT, 2025 WL 2576819 (D. Mass. Sept. 5, 2025)] and Escobar [v. Hyde, 25-cv-12620-IT, 2025 WL 2823324 (D. Mass. Oct. 3, 2025)].” In Doe, the court noted that “[w]hereas Section 1225(b) authorizes the Government to detain certain aliens seeking admission into the country, Section 1226 authorizes the Government to detain certain aliens already in the country pending the outcome of removal proceedings.” Doe, 2025 WL 2576819 at *5 (citation modified). Since there is no dispute that Mr. Criollo Ayavaca has been living in the United States for several years when the Government detained him, Section 1225 does not apply to Petitioner. Doe, 2025 WL 2576819 at *5. And as the Court found in Escobar, the Board of Immigration Appeals’ decision in Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025), is unpersuasive and does not change the analysis. See Escobar, 2025 WL 2823324, at *3 (citing cases reaching the same conclusion).

In its abbreviated response, the Government entirely ignores the plain text of 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Section 1226 provides the “default rule” for the detention of individuals, like Mr. Criollo Ayavaca, who are “already in the country.” Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 288-89 (2018). Section 1226(a) states that, “[e]xcept as provided in subsection (c),” detained noncitizens may be released on bond pending a decision in their removal proceedings. 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Subsection (c) specifically exempts from § 1226(a)'s default rule individuals who have been arrested for, charged with, or convicted of certain crimes. As the Supreme Court has recognized, when Congress creates "specific exceptions" to a statute's applicability, it "proves that absent those exceptions, the statute generally applies. See Shady Grove Orthopedic Assocs., P.A. v Allstate Ins. Co., 559 U.S. 393, 400 (2010). Here, there is no allegation that Mr. Criollo Ayavaca falls within the exemptions set forth in 8 U.S.C. §1226(c), and thus, the Government's argument that Mr. Criollo Ayavaca is subject to mandatory detention and not entitled to a bond hearing contradicts the plain language of § 1226(a).

More than two dozen courts across the country have rejected the Governments' reinterpretation of the INA in a way that deprives individuals, like Mr. Criollo Ayavaca, of their liberty without any opportunity to seek bond. See Guerrero Orellana v. Moniz, 2025 WL 280996, at *5 (D. Mass. Oct. 3, 2025) (collecting cases). In doing so, the Government has (and continues to) unconstitutionally deprive Mr. Criollo Ayavaca of his Fifth Amendment right to due process by holding him without a proper bond hearing.

Accordingly, the Petitioner requests that the Court order Mr. Criollo Ayavaca's release immediately and order a bond hearing, in accordance with 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a)(2), to be held within the next ten (10) days. Because there is nothing in the record to suggest that Mr. Criollo Ayavaca is a danger to society, the only proper interim release condition should be directed at assuring his appearance at the bond hearing. See Chang Barrios v. Shepley, 2025 WL 2772579, at *12 (D. Me. Sept. 29, 2025).
