CARLOS ALBERTO IZQUIERDO-MATOS,

CIVIL CASE NO.: '25CV2979 BJC BLM

Petitioner.

Petition for Writ
of Habeas Corpus

[28 U.S.C. § 2241]

KRISTI NOEM, Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, PAMELA JO BONDI, Attorney General, TODD M. LYONS, Acting Director, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, JESUS ROCHA, Acting Field Office Director, San Diego Field Office, CHRISTOPHER LAROSE, Warden at Otay Mesa Detention Center,

Respondents.

¹ Mr. Izquierdo-Matos is filing this petition for a writ of habeas corpus with the assistance of the Federal Defenders of San Diego, Inc., who drafted the instant petition. That same counsel also assisted the petitioner in preparing and submitting his request for the appointment of counsel, which has been filed concurrently with this petition, and all other documents supporting the petition. Federal Defenders has consistently used this procedure in seeking appointment for immigration habeas cases.

INTRODUCTION

Mr. Izquierdo-Matos, who fled Cuba in 1980, was ordered removed from the United States in 2008. But he could not be physically removed to Cuba. Although there was a 2017 repatriation agreement with Cuba, the United States continued to categorize Cuba as uncooperative following that agreement. Mr. Izquierdo-Matos was released from immigration custody and placed on an order of supervision.

In June of this year, ICE sent a letter to Mr. Izquierdo-Matos to report to ICE offices on July 11, 2025 for purpose of a general check-in. Mr. Izquierdo-Matos arrived at the check-in and was detained. He has now been detained for almost 4 months.

Mr. Izquierdo-Matos has had no information about whether ICE has sought a travel document or even begun the process of seeking his deportation to Cuba. Worse yet, on July 9, 2025, ICE adopted a new policy permitting removals to third countries with no notice, six hours' notice, or 24 hours' notice depending on the circumstances, providing no meaningful opportunity to make a fear-based claim against removal.

Mr. Izquierdo-Matos's detention violates his statutory and regulatory rights, Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001), and the Fifth Amendment. His detention violates his statutory and regulatory rights, Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001), and the Fifth Amendment. Courts in this district have agreed in similar circumstances as to each of his claims. Specifically:

(1) Zadvydas violations: Petitioner must also be released under Zadvydas because—having proved unable to remove him in the past—the government cannot show that there is a “significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.” Id. at 701. See, e.g., Conchas-Valdez, 2025 WL 2884822, No. 25-cv-2469-DMS (S.D. Cal. Oct. 6, 2025); Alic v. Dep’t of Homeland Sec./Immigr. Customs Enft, No. 25-CV-01749-AJB-BLM, 2025 WL 2799679

2 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 25, 2025) (granting habeas petitions releasing noncitizens due to 3 Zadvydas violations).

4 (2) Regulatory and due process violations: Petitioner must be released
5 because ICE's failure to follow its own regulations about notice and an 6 opportunity to be heard violate due process. See, e.g., See Tran v. Noem, 25-cv-
7 02391-BTM-BLM (S.D. Cal. Oct. 27, 2025); McSweeney v. Warden, 25-cv-

17 BAS-BLM, ECF 11 (Oct. 10, 2025) (all either granting temporary restraining
18 orders releasing noncitizens, or granting habeas petitions outright, due to ICE
19 regulatory violations during recent re-detentions of released noncitizens 20 previously ordered removed).

21 (3) Statutory violations of the removal statute: As the Supreme Court has 22 made clear, 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(2) "provides four consecutive removal commands."
23 Jama v. Immigr. & Customs Enf't, 543 U.S. 335, 341 (2005). First, "the Attorney
24 General shall remove the alien to the country the alien so designates." 8 U.S.C.
25 § 1231(b)(2)(A)(ii). The designated country is Cuba. The Attorney General may 26 "disregard [that] designation" only if certain criteria are met. 8 U.S.C.
27 § 1231(b)(2)(C)(i). Here, ICE did not follow the consecutive commands of § 28

1 1231(b)(2) by seeking to removal of Mr. Izquierdo-Matos to a third country prior
 2 the designated country of Cuba. See Farah v. I.N.S., No. CIV. 02-4725DSDRLE,
 3 2002 WL 31866481, at *4 (D. Minn. Dec. 20, 2002) (granting a habeas petition and 4 prohibiting removal in violation of § 1231(b)(2)).

5 (4) Third-country removal due process violations: This Court should enjoin
 6 ICE from removing Petitioner to a third country without providing an opportunity
 7 to assert fear of persecution or torture before an immigration judge. See, e.g.,
 8 Rebenok v. Noem, No. 25-cv-2171-TWR at ECF No. 13; Van Tran v. Noem, 2025
 9 WL 2770623 at *3; Nguyen Tran v. Noem, No. 25-cv-2391-BTM, ECF No. 6
 10 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 18, 2025); Louangmilith v. Noem, 2025 WL 2881578, No. 25-cv-
 11 2502-JES, *4 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 9, 2025); Ho v. Noem, 25-cv-02453-BAS-BLM, 12 ECF 11 (Oct. 10, 2025) (all either granting temporary restraining orders or habeas 13 petitions ordering the government to not remove petitioners to third countries 14 pending litigation or reopening of their immigration cases).

15 This Court should grant this habeas petition and issue appropriate
 16 injunctive relief on all four grounds addressed below.

17 STATEMENT OF FACTS

18 I. Mr. Izquierdo-Matos is ordered removed, released on supervision, 19 until he walks into ICE for a general check-in.

20 Mr. Izquierdo-Matos was born in Cuba in 1956 and entered the United 21 States in 1980. Exh. A, Izquierdo-Matos Decl. at ¶ 1. In 2008, an immigration
 22 judge ordered him removed to Cuba. Id. at ¶ 2.² He was detained in immigration
 23 custody for many months but then released because Cuba did not accept him. Id.
 24 He was then placed on an order of supervision. Id.

25 In June of this year, he received a notice in the mail stating that he needed
 26 to report to ICE offices in San Diego on July 11, 2025 for purposes of a general

27

1 check in. Id. at ¶ 3. Mr. Izquierdo-Matos reported to ICE on July 11. Id. He was 2 placed under arrest and sent to the Otay Detention Center. Id. at ¶ 4-5. He has 3 never given any reasons as to what has changed to make my removal significantly 4 likely. He has not been given the chance to contest his re-detention with ICE. Id.
5 at ¶¶ 4-6.

6 A few weeks ago, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos was told to change into his own
7 clothes and to take all of his property. Id. at ¶ 8. He believed that he was going 8 home. Id. But he was then placed in a van with other detainees and told that they 9 were going to Mexico. Id. ICE took Mr. Izquierdo-Matos to the border with 10 Mexico. Id. He felt intimidated, but he said he did not want to go. Id. He was then 11 placed back in the van and taken back to the Otay Detention Center. Id.

12 No immigration officer has come to him to talk about travel documents to 13 Cuba. Id. at ¶ 7.

14 II. The repatriation agreement with Cuba allows it to use its discretion 15 in accepting Cuban nationals that entered the United States prior to 16 2017 on a case-by-case basis.

17 Prior to 2017, there was no repatriation agreement between the United 18 States and Cuba. Clark v. Martinez, 543 U.S. 371, 386 (2005). On January 12, 19 2017, the United States and Cuba signed a joint statement (“2017 Joint 20 Statement”) by which Cuba agreed to the repatriation of some Cuban nationals.
21 *Cuba (17-112) – Joint Statement Concerning Normalization of Migration
22 Procedures*, Jan. 12, 2017, available at <https://www.state.gov/17-112/>. The 2017
23 Joint Statement required Cuba to accept some Cuban nationals but allowed it to 24 use its discretion to accept others on a case-by-case basis.

25 Specifically, under the agreement Cuba “shall receive back all Cuban 26 nationals who after the signing” of the 2017 Joint Statement “found by the 27 competent authorities of the United States to have tried to irregularly enter or 28 remain in that country in violation of United States law.” Id. at 2. The agreement

1 also stated that Cuba “shall accept individuals included in the list of 2,746 to be 2 returned in accordance with the Joint Communiqué of December 14, 1984,” who
3 came to the United States in 1980 via the Port of Mariel. Id. Cuba is not required
4 to accept a third group of Cuban Nationals. Under the 2017 Joint Statement, Cuba
5 agrees to “consider and decide on a case-by-case basis the return of other Cuban 6 nationals presently in the United States of America who before the signing of this 7 Joint Statement had been found by the competent authorities of the United States
8 to have tried to irregularly enter or remain in that country in violation of United 9 States law.” Id. Mr. Izquierdo-Matos falls into this last group of Cuban Nationals 10 since he was found to “have tried to irregularly enter or remain in that country”
11 prior to the 2017 Joint Statement.

12 Moreover, despite the 2017 Joint Statement, a 2019 report by the Office of 13 Inspector General classified Cuba as an “uncooperative country” in 2017, 2018, 14 and 2019 based on its failure to provide travel documents on a timely basis.
15 Department of Homeland Security, Office of Inspector General, Report No. OIG-
16 19-28, ICE Faces Barriers in Timely Repatriation of Detained Aliens (Mar. 11, 17 2019), available at <https://www.oig.dhs.gov/sites/default/files/assets/2019-03/OIG-19-28-Mar19.pdf> at pages 6-7, 10, 29. In May of 2018, Cuba was one of 18 nine countries with the uncooperative categorization. Id. at 10.
19

20 As of the filing of this petition, Petitioner cannot find available numbers of 21 pre-2017 Cuban nationals who have been repatriated to Cuba.
22

23 Based on the facts of Mr. Izquierdo-Matos’s individual case, it is evident 24 that ICE has not obtained travel documents from Cuba. This is evident because 25 ICE has had 17 years to obtain travel documents and has not done so. What’s 26 more, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos has now been in ICE custody for almost four months
27
28

1 and there is no indication that ICE anticipates receiving travel documents from 2 Cuba any time in the reasonably foreseeable future.

3 III. The government is carrying out deportations to third countries 4 without providing sufficient notice and opportunity to be heard.

5 When immigrants cannot be removed to their home country—including 6 Cuban immigrants—ICE has begun deporting those individuals to third countries
7 without adequate notice or a hearing. The Trump administration reportedly has 8 negotiated with at least 58 countries to accept deportees from other nations.

9 Edward Wong et al, *Inside the Global Deal-Making Behind Trump's Mass
10 Deportations*, N.Y. Times, June 25, 2025. On June 25, 2025, the New York
11 Times reported that seven countries—Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, 12 Kosovo, Mexico, Panama, and Rwanda—had agreed to accept deportees who are 13 not their own citizens. Id. Since then, ICE has carried out highly publicized third 14 country deportations to South Sudan and Eswatini.

15 The Administration has reportedly negotiated with countries to have many 16 of these deportees imprisoned in prisons, camps, or other facilities. The 17 government paid El Salvador about $5 million to imprison more than 200
18 deported Venezuelans in a maximum-security prison notorious for gross human 19 rights abuses, known as CECOT. See id. In February, Panama and Costa Rica 20 took in hundreds of deportees from countries in Africa and Central Asia and 21 imprisoned them in hotels, a jungle camp, and a detention center. Id.; Vanessa
22 Buschschluter, Costa Rican court orders release of migrants deported from U.S., 23 BBC (Jun. 25, 2025). On July 4, 2025, ICE deported eight men to South Sudan.
24 See Wong, supra. On July 15, ICE deported five men to the tiny African nation of 25 Eswatini where they are reportedly being held in solitary confinement. Gerald 26 Imray, 3 Deported by US held in African Prison Despite Completing Sentences,
27 Lawyers Say, PBS (Sept. 2, 2025). Many of these countries are known for human 28 rights abuses or instability. For instance, conditions in South Sudan are so

1 extreme that the U.S. State Department website warns Americans not to travel
 2 there, and if they do, to prepare their will, make funeral arrangements, and appoint
 3 a hostage-taker negotiator first. See Wong, supra.

4 On June 23 and July 3, 2025, the Supreme Court issued a stay of a national 5 class-wide preliminary injunction issued in D.V.D. v. U.S. Department of 6 Homeland Security, No. CV 25-10676-BEM, 2025 WL 1142968, at *1, 3 (D.
 7 Mass. Apr. 18, 2025), which required ICE to follow statutory and constitutional 8 requirements before removing an individual to a third country. U.S. Dep't of 9 Homeland Sec. v. D.V.D., 145 S. Ct. 2153 (2025) (mem.); id., No. 24A1153, 2025
 10 WL 1832186 (U.S. July 3, 2025).³ On July 9, 2025, ICE rescinded previous 11 guidance meant to give immigrants a ““meaningful opportunity” to assert claims
 12 for protection under the Convention Against Torture (CAT) before initiating 13 removal to a third country” like the ones just described. Exh. B (“Third Country 14 Removal Policy”).

15 Under the new guidance, ICE may remove any immigrant to a third country
 16 “without the need for further procedures,” as long as—in the view of the State
 17 Department—the United States has received “credible” “assurances” from that 18 country that deportees will not be persecuted or tortured. Id. at 1. If a country fails 19 to credibly promise not to persecute or torture releasees, ICE may still remove 20 immigrants there with minimal notice. Id. Ordinarily, ICE must provide 24 hours’
 21 notice. But “[i]n exigent circumstances,” a removal may take place in as little as

24 ³ Though the Supreme Court’s order was unreasoned, the dissent noted that the 25 government had sought a stay based on procedural arguments applicable only to 26 class actions. Dep't of Homeland Sec. v. D.V.D., 145 S. Ct. 2153, 2160 (2025)
 27 (Sotomayor, J., dissenting). Thus, “even if the Government [was] correct that 28 classwide relief was impermissible” in D.V.D., Respondents still “remain[] obligated to comply with orders enjoining [their] conduct with respect to individual plaintiffs” like Mr. Izquierdo-Matos. Id. In short, the Supreme Court’s decision does not override this Court’s authority to grant individual injunctive relief. See Nguyen v. Scott, No. 2:25-CV-01398, 2025 WL 2419288, at *20–23 (W.D. Wash.
 Aug. 21, 2025).

1 six hours, “as long as the alien is provided reasonably means and opportunity to 2 speak with an attorney prior to the removal.” Id.

3 Upon serving notice, ICE “will not affirmatively ask whether the alien is 4 afraid of being removed to the country of removal.” Id. (emphasis original). If the 5 noncitizen “does not affirmatively state a fear of persecution or torture if removed 6 to the country of removal listed on the Notice of Removal within 24 hours, [ICE]
7 may proceed with removal to the country identified on the notice.” Id. at 2. If the 8 noncitizen “does affirmatively state a fear if removed to the country of removal”
9 then ICE will refer the case to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services 10 (“USCIS”) for a screening for eligibility for withholding of removal and 11 protection under the Convention Against Torture (“CAT”). Id. at 2. “USCIS will 12 generally screen within 24 hours.” Id. If USCIS determines that the noncitizen
13 does not meet the standard, the individual will be removed. Id. If USCIS
14 determines that the noncitizen has met the standard, then the policy directs ICE to 15 either move to reopen removal proceedings “for the sole purpose of determining 16 eligibility for [withholding of removal protection] and CAT” or designate another 17 country for removal. Id.

18 CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

19 This Court should grant this petition and order two forms of relief.

20 First, it should order Mr. Izquierdo-Matos’s immediate release. ICE failed 21 to follow its own regulations requiring changed circumstances before re-22 detention, as well as a chance to promptly contest a re-detention decision. And 23 Zadvydas v. Davis holds that immigration statutes do not authorize the 24 government to detain immigrants like Mr. Izquierdo-Matos, for whom there is “no 25 significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.” 533 U.S.
26 678, 701 (2001).

27

28

1 Second, it should enjoin the Respondents from removing Mr. Izquierdo-
2 Matos to a third country without first complying with the removal process set
3 forth in 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(2) and without first providing notice and a sufficient 4 opportunity to be heard before an immigration judge.

5 I. Claim 1: Mr. Izquierdo-Matos's detention violates Zadvydas and 8
6 U.S.C. § 1231.

7 A. Legal background

8 In Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001), the Supreme Court considered 9 a problem affecting people like Mr. Izquierdo-Matos: Federal law requires ICE to 10 detain an immigrant during the “removal period,” which typically spans the first 11 90 days after the immigrant is ordered removed. 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)-(2). After 12 that 90-day removal period expires, detention becomes discretionary—ICE may 13 detain the migrant while continuing to try to remove them. Id. § 1231(a)(6).
14 Ordinarily, this scheme would not lead to excessive detention, as removal
15 happens within days or weeks. But some detainees cannot be removed quickly.
16 Perhaps their removal “simply require[s] more time for processing,” or they are 17 “ordered removed to countries with whom the United States does not have a 18 repatriation agreement,” or their countries “refuse to take them,” or they are 19 “effectively ‘stateless’ because of their race and/or place of birth.” *Kim Ho Ma v.
20 Ashcroft*, 257 F.3d 1095, 1104 (9th Cir. 2001). In these and other circumstances, 21 detained immigrants can find themselves trapped in detention for months, years, 22 decades, or even the rest of their lives. If federal law were understood to allow for 23 “indefinite, perhaps permanent, detention,” it would pose “a serious constitutional 24 threat.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 699. In Zadvydas, the Supreme Court avoided the 25 constitutional concern by interpreting § 1231(a)(6) to incorporate implicit limits.
26 Id. at 689.

27 Zadvydas held that § 1231(a)(6) presumptively permits the government to 28 detain an immigrant for 180 days after his or her removal order becomes final.

After those 180 days have passed, the immigrant must be released unless his or her removal is reasonably foreseeable. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. After six months have passed, the petitioner must only make a prima facie case for relief—there is “good reason to believe that there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.” Id. Then the burden shifts to “the Government [to] respond with evidence sufficient to rebut that showing.” *Id.*⁴ Using this framework, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos can make all the threshold showings needed to shift the burden to the government.

B. The six-month grace period has expired.

The six-month grace period has long since ended. The Zadydas grace period is linked to the date the final order of removal is issued. It lasts for “six months after a final order of removal—that is, three months after the statutory removal period has ended.” Kim Ho Ma v. Ashcroft, 257 F.3d 1095, 1102 n.5 (9th Cir. 2001). Indeed, the statute defining the beginning of the removal period is linked to the latest of three dates, all of which relevant here are tied to when the removal order is issued. 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)(B).⁵

Here, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos's order of removal was entered in May 2008. Exh. A at ¶ 2.⁶ Accordingly, his 90-day removal period began then. 8 U.S.C.

⁴ Further, even before the 180 days have passed, the immigrant must still be released if he rebutts the presumption that his detention is reasonable. See, e.g., Trinh v. Homan, 466 F. Supp. 3d 1077, 1092 (C.D. Cal. 2020) (collecting cases on rebutting the Zadvydas presumption before six months have passed); Zavvar, 2025 WL 2592543 at *6 (finding the presumption rebutted for a person who was released and, years later, re-detained for less than six months).

⁵ Those dates are, specifically, (1) “[t]he date the order of removal becomes administratively final;” (2) “[i]f the removal order is judicially reviewed and if a court orders a stay of the removal of the alien, the date of the court’s final order;” or (3) “[i]f the alien is detained or confined (except under an immigration process), the date the alien is released from detention or confinement.” Id.

⁶ EOIR, Automated Case Information, <https://acis.eoir.justice.gov/en/>.

1 § 1231(a)(1)(B). The Zadvydas grace period thus expired in November 2008,
2 three months after the removal period ended. See, e.g., Tadros v. Noem, 2025 WL
3 1678501, No. 25-cv-4108(EP), *2-*3. ICE will also, of course, have had 17 years
4 since his removal order was issued to remove him.⁷

5 C. The history of Cuba being uncooperative with repatriation
6 provides very good reason to believe that Mr. Izquierdo-Matos
7 will not likely be removed in the reasonably foreseeable future.

8 Because the six-month grace period has passed, this Court must evaluate 9 Mr. Izquierdo-Matos's Zadvydas claim using the burden-shifting framework. At 10 the first stage of the framework, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos must "provide[] good 11 reason to believe that there is no significant likelihood of removal in the

14 ⁷ The government has sometimes argued that release and rearrest resets the 15 six-month grace period completely, taking the clock back to zero.
16 "Courts . . . broadly agree" that this is not correct. Diaz-Ortega v. Lund, 2019 WL
17 6003485, at *7 n.6 (W.D. La. Oct. 15, 2019), report and recommendation
18 adopted, 2019 WL 6037220 (W.D. La. Nov. 13, 2019); see also Sied v. Nielsen,
No. 17-CV-06785-LB, 2018 WL 1876907, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 19, 2018)
(collecting cases).

19 It has also sometimes argued that rearrest creates a new three-month grace 20 period. As a court explained in Bailey v. Lynch, that view cannot be squared with 21 the statutory definition of the removal period in 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)(B). No. CV
22 16-2600 (JLL), 2016 WL 5791407, at *2 (D.N.J. Oct. 3, 2016). "Pursuant to the 23 statute, the removal period, and in turn the [six-month] presumptively reasonable 24 period, begins from the latest of 'the date the order of removal becomes 25 administratively final,' the date of a reviewing court's final order where the 26 removal order is judicially removed and that court orders a stay of removal, or the 27 alien's release from detention or confinement where he was detained for reasons 28 other than immigration purposes at the time of his final order of removal." Id.
None of these statutory starting points have anything to do with whether or when an immigrant is detained. See id. Because the statutorily-defined removal period has nothing to do with release and rearrest, releasing and rearresting the immigrant cannot reset the removal period.

1 reasonably foreseeable future.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. This standard can be 2 broken down into three parts.

3 “Good reason to believe.” The “good reason to believe” standard is a
4 relatively forgiving one. “A petitioner need not establish that there exists no
5 possibility of removal.” Freeman v. Watkins, No. CV B:09-160, 2009 WL
6 10714999, at *3 (S.D. Tex. Dec. 22, 2009). Nor does “[g]ood reason to 7 believe’ . . . place a burden upon the detainee to demonstrate no reasonably 8 foreseeable, significant likelihood of removal or show that his detention is 9 indefinite; it is something less than that.” Rual v. Barr, No. 6:20-CV-06215 EAW, 10 2020 WL 3972319, at *3 (W.D.N.Y. July 14, 2020) (quoting Senor v. Barr, 401
11 F. Supp. 3d 420, 430 (W.D.N.Y. 2019)). In short, the standard means what it says:
12 Petitioners need only give a “good reason”—not prove anything to a certainty.

13 “Significant likelihood of removal.” This component focuses on whether 14 Mr. Izquierdo-Matos will likely be removed: Continued detention is permissible
15 only if it is “significant[ly] like[ly]” that ICE will be able to remove him.
16 Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. This inquiry targets “not only the existence of 17 untapped possibilities, but also [the] probability of success in such possibilities.”
18 Elashi v. Sabol, 714 F. Supp. 2d 502, 506 (M.D. Pa. 2010) (second emphasis 19 added). In other words, even if “there remains some possibility of removal,” a 20 petitioner can still meet its burden if there is good reason to believe that 21 successful removal is not significantly likely. Kacanic v. Elwood, No. CIV.A. 02-
22 8019, 2002 WL 31520362, at *4 (E.D. Pa. Nov. 8, 2002) (emphasis added).

23 “In the reasonably foreseeable future.” This component of the test
24 focuses on when Mr. Izquierdo-Matos will likely be removed: Continued 25 detention is permissible only if removal is likely to happen “in the reasonably 26 foreseeable future.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. This inquiry places a time limit on 27 ICE’s removal efforts. If the Court has “no idea of when it might reasonably 28 expect [Petitioner] to be repatriated, this Court certainly cannot conclude that his

1 removal is likely to occur—or even that it might occur—in the reasonably
2 foreseeable future.” Palma v. Gillis, No. 5:19-CV-112-DCB-MTP, 2020 WL
3 4880158, at *3 (S.D. Miss. July 7, 2020), report and recommendation adopted,
4 2020 WL 4876859 (S.D. Miss. Aug. 19, 2020) (quoting Singh v. Whitaker, 362 F.
5 Supp. 3d 93, 102 (W.D.N.Y. 2019)). Thus, even if this Court concludes that Mr.
6 Izquierdo-Matos “would eventually receive” a travel document, he can still meet
7 his burden by giving good reason to anticipate sufficiently lengthy delays. Younes
8 v. Lynch, 2016 WL 6679830, at *2 (E.D. Mich. Nov. 14, 2016).

9 Mr. Izquierdo-Matos readily satisfies this standard for two reasons.

10 First, as explained above, the 2017 Joint Statement between the United 11 States and Cuba gives Cuba the discretion to accept individuals on a case-by-case
12 basis. Even following the 2017 Joint Statement, the United States has categorized 13 Cuba as uncooperative in providing travel documents in a timely manner.

14 Second, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos’s own experience bears this out. ICE has now 15 had 17 years to deport him. He has been previously been detained in ICE for 16 many months and is now again re-detained for almost four months. Ex. A, Decl.
17 Izquierdo-Matos at Id. at ¶ 4. Yet ICE has not informed Mr. Izquierdo-Matos of 18 any communication with Cuba or the likelihood of obtaining travel documents 19 from Cuba. Instead, immigration has only asked if Mr. Izquierdo-Matos would 20 agree to be removed to Mexico. Id. at ¶ 8.

21 Thus, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos has met his initial burden, and the burden shifts 22 to the government. Unless the government can prove a “significant likelihood of 23 removal in the reasonably foreseeable future,” Mr. Izquierdo-Matos must be 24 released. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701.

25 D. Zadvydas unambiguously prohibits this Court from denying Mr.
26 Izquierdo-Matos’s petition because of his criminal history.

27 If released on supervision, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos poses no risk of danger or 28 flight. He has been on supervision for 17 years. Exh. A at ¶ 2-4. Even if the

1 government did try to argue that Mr. Izquierdo-Matos posed a danger or flight
2 risk, however, Zadvydas squarely holds that those are not grounds for detaining an 3 immigrant when there is no reasonable likelihood of removal in the reasonably 4 foreseeable future. 533 U.S. at 684–91.

5 The two petitioners in Zadvydas both had significant criminal history.
6 Mr. Zadvydas himself had “a long criminal record, involving drug crimes,
7 attempted robbery, attempted burglary, and theft,” as well as “a history of flight,
8 from both criminal and deportation proceedings.” Id. at 684. The other petitioner, 9 Kim Ho Ma, was “involved in a gang-related shooting [and] convicted of 10 manslaughter.” Id. at 685. The government argued that both men could be detained 11 regardless of their likelihood of removal, because they posed too great a risk of 12 danger or flight. Id. at 690–91.

13 The Supreme Court rejected that argument. The Court appreciated the 14 seriousness of the government’s concerns. Id. at 691. But the Court found that the 15 immigrant’s liberty interests were weightier. Id. The Court had never 16 countenanced “potentially permanent” “civil confinement,” based only on the 17 government’s belief that the person would misbehave in the future. Id.

18 The Court also noted that the government was free to use the many tools at 19 its disposal to mitigate risk: “[O]f course, the alien’s release may and should be 20 conditioned on any of the various forms of supervised release that are appropriate 21 in the circumstances, and the alien may no doubt be returned to custody upon a 22 violation of those conditions.” Id. at 700. The Ninth Circuit later elaborated, “All 23 aliens ordered released must comply with the stringent supervision requirements
24 set out in 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(3). [They] will have to appear before an immigration 25 officer periodically, answer certain questions, submit to medical or psychiatric 26 testing as necessary, and accept reasonable restrictions on [their] conduct and 27 activities, including severe travel limitations. More important, if [they] engage[] 28 in any criminal activity during this time, including violation of [their] supervisory

1 release conditions, [they] can be detained and incarcerated as part of the normal
2 criminal process." Ma, 257 F.3d at 1115.

3 These conditions have proved sufficient to protect the public for 17 years.
4 They will continue to do so while ICE keeps trying to deport Mr. Izquierdo-
5 Matos.

6 II. Claim 2: ICE failed to comply with its own regulations before re-
7 detaining Mr. Izquierdo-Matos, violating his rights under the Fifth Amendment and the Administrative Procedures Act.

8 Two regulations establish the process due to someone who is re-detained in 9 immigration custody following a period of release. 8 C.F.R. § 241.4(l) applies to 10 all re-detentions, generally. 8 C.F.R. § 241.13(i) applies as an added, overlapping 11 framework to persons released upon good reason to believe that they will not be 12 removed in the reasonably foreseeable future, as Mr. Izquierdo-Matos was. See 13 Phan v. Noem, 2025 WL 2898977, No. 25-CV-2422-RBM-MSB, *3-*5 (S.D.
14 Cal. Oct. 10, 2025) (explaining this regulatory framework and granting a habeas 15 petition for ICE's failure to follow these regulations); Rokhfirooz, No. 25-CV-
16 2053-RSH-VET, 2025 WL 2646165 at *2 (same).

17 These regulations permit an official to "return [the person] to custody" only 18 when the person "violate[d] any of the conditions of release," 8 C.F.R.
19 §§ 241.13(i)(1), 241.4(l)(1), or, in the alternative, if an appropriate official 20 "determines that there is a significant likelihood that the alien may be removed in 21 the reasonably foreseeable future," and makes that finding "on account of 22 changed circumstances," § 241.13(i)(2).

23 No matter the reason for re-detention, the re-detained person is entitled to 24 certain procedural protections. For one, "[u]pon revocation,' the noncitizen 'will 25 be notified of the reasons for revocation of his or her release or parole.'" Phan, 26 2025 WL 2898977 at *3, *4 (quoting §§ 241.4(l)(1), 241.13(i)(3)). Further, the 27 person "'will be afforded an initial informal interview promptly after his or her 28 return' to be given 'an opportunity to respond to the reasons for revocation stated

1 in the notification.”” Id.

2 In the case of someone released under § 241.13(i), the regulations also 3 explicitly require the interviewer to allow the re-detained person to “submit any 4 evidence or information that he or she believes shows there is no significant 5 likelihood he or she be removed in the reasonably foreseeable future, or that he or 6 she has not violated the order of supervision.” § 241.13(i)(3).

7 ICE is required to follow its own regulations. United States ex rel. Accardi
8 v. Shaughnessy, 347 U.S. 260, 268 (1954); see Alcaraz v. INS, 384 F.3d 1150, 9 1162 (9th Cir. 2004) (“The legal proposition that agencies may be required to 10 abide by certain internal policies is well-established.”). A court may review a re-11 detention decision for compliance with the regulations, and “where ICE fails to 12 follow its own regulations in revoking release, the detention is unlawful and the 13 petitioner’s release must be ordered.” Rokhfirooz, 2025 WL 2646165 at *4
14 (collecting cases); accord Phan, 2025 WL 2898977 at *5.

15 ICE followed none of its regulatory prerequisites to re-detention here.

16 First, there was apparently no determination before or at his arrest that there 17 are “changed circumstances” such that there is “a significant likelihood that [Mr.
18 Izquierdo-Matos] may be removed in the reasonably foreseeable future.”
19 § 241.13(i)(2).

20 Second, ICE did not notify Mr. Izquierdo-Matos of the reasons that would 21 make his removal significantly likely and in the reasonable future. See 22 §§ 241.4(l)(1), 241.13(i)(3). He was re-detained on July 11, 2025 when he went to 23 ICE offices to do a general check-in. Exh. A at ¶ 3-4.

24 Third, Mr. Izquierdo-Matos has yet to receive the informal interview 25 required by regulation. Nor has he been afforded a meaningful opportunity to 26 respond to the reasons for revocation or submit evidence rebutting his re-27 detention. Exh. A at ¶ 5-7. No one from ICE has ever invited him to contest his 28 detention. Id.

1 Numerous courts have released re-detained immigrants after finding that 2 ICE failed to comply with applicable regulations this summer and fall. See, e.g.,
3 Bui v. Warden, 25-cv-02111-JES-DEB, Dkt. No. 18 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 23, 2025);
4 Khambounheuang v. Noem, 25-cv-02575-JO-SBC, Dkt. No. 17 (S.D. Cal. Oct.
5 23, 2025); Phan, 2025 WL 2898977 at *5; Rokhfirooz, 2025 WL 2646165;
6 Grigorian, 2025 WL 2604573; Delkash v. Noem, 2025 WL 2683988; *Ceesay v.

8 Supp. 3d 451, 463 (S.D.N.Y. 2018); Rombot v. Souza, 296 F. Supp. 3d 383, 387
9 (D. Mass. 2017); Zhu v. Genalo, No. 1:25-CV-06523 (JLR), 2025 WL 2452352,
10 at *7–9 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 26, 2025); M.S.L. v. Bostock, No. 6:25-CV-01204-AA, 11 2025 WL 2430267, at *10–12 (D. Or. Aug. 21, 2025); Escalante v. Noem, No.
12 9:25-CV-00182-MJT, 2025 WL 2491782, at *2–3 (E.D. Tex. July 18, 2025);
13 Hoac v. Becerra, No. 2:25-cv-01740-DC-JDP, 2025 WL 1993771, at *4 (E.D.
14 Cal. July 16, 2025); Liu, 2025 WL 1696526, at *2; M.Q. v. United States, 2025
15 WL 965810, at *3, *5 n.1 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 31, 2025).

16 “[B]ecause officials did not properly revoke petitioner’s release pursuant to 17 the applicable regulations, that revocation has no effect, and [Mr. Izquierdo-
18 Matos] is entitled to his release (subject to the same Order of Supervision that 19 governed his most recent release).” Liu, 2025 WL 1696526, at *3.

20 III. Claim 3: ICE may not remove Mr. Izquierdo-Matos to a Third 21 country without following the mandatory consecutive procedures of 22 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(2).

23 The government may not legally pursue its plan to remove Mr. Izquierdo-
24 Matos to a third country, because 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(2) requires that ICE first seek 25 removal to the Cuba.

26 “Th[at] statute . . . provides four consecutive removal commands.” *Jama v.
27 Immigr. & Customs Enf’t*, 543 U.S. 335, 341 (2005). First, “the Attorney General
28 shall remove the alien to the country the alien so designates.” 8 U.S.C.

1 § 1231(b)(2)(A)(ii). Here, the designated country is Cuba.

2 The Attorney General may “disregard [that] designation if” one of four 3 criteria are met, but none are here. Mr. Izquierdo-Matos did not “fail[] to designate 4 a country promptly.” 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(2)(C)(i). ICE also has not presented any 5 evidence that Cuba has failed to respond to a request to remove Mr. Izquierdo-
6 Matos to that country. § 1231(b)(2)(C)(ii)-(iv).

7 This Court should therefore order that Mr. Izquierdo-Matos cannot be 8 removed to a third country prior to the government making efforts for his 9 removal to Cuba. See Farah v. I.N.S., No. CIV. 02-4725DSDRLE, 2002 WL
10 31866481, at *4 (D. Minn. Dec. 20, 2002) (granting a habeas petition and 11 prohibiting removal in violation of § 1231(b)(2)); see also Jama, 543 U.S. at 12 338 (reviewing a § 1231(b)(2) argument set forth in a habeas petition).

13 IV. Claim 4: ICE may not remove Mr. Izquierdo-Matos to a third 14 country without adequate notice and an opportunity to be heard.

15 In addition to unlawfully detaining him and the failure to comply with 16 regulations and statute, ICE’s policies threaten his removal to a third country
17 without adequate notice and an opportunity to be heard. These policies violate the 18 Fifth Amendment, the Convention Against Torture, and implementing regulations.

19 E. Legal background

20 U.S. law enshrines protections against dangerous and life-threatening 21 removal decisions. By statute, the government is prohibited from removing an 22 immigrant to any third country where they may be persecuted or tortured, a form 23 of protection known as withholding of removal. See 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(3)(A). The 24 government “may not remove [a noncitizen] to a country if the Attorney General 25 decides that the [noncitizen’s] life or freedom would be threatened in that country 26 because of the [noncitizen’s] race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular 27 social group, or political opinion.” Id.; see also 8 C.F.R. §§ 208.16, 1208.16.

1 Withholding of removal is a mandatory protection.

2 Similarly, Congress codified protections enshrined in the CAT prohibiting 3 the government from removing a person to a country where they would be tortured.
4 See FARRA 2681-822 (codified as 8 U.S.C. § 1231 note) (“It shall be the policy of 5 the United States not to expel, extradite, or otherwise effect the involuntary return 6 of any person to a country in which there are substantial grounds for believing the 7 person would be in danger of being subjected to torture, regardless of whether the 8 person is physically present in the United States.”); 28 C.F.R. § 200.1; id.
9 §§ 208.16-208.18, 1208.16-1208.18. CAT protection is also mandatory.

10 To comport with the requirements of due process, the government must 11 provide notice of the third country removal and an opportunity to respond. Due 12 process requires “written notice of the country being designated” and “the statutory 13 basis for the designation, i.e., the applicable subsection of § 1231(b)(2).” Aden v.
14 Nielsen, 409 F. Supp. 3d 998, 1019 (W.D. Wash. 2019); accord D.V.D. v. U.S.
15 Dep’t of Homeland Sec., No. 25-cv-10676-BEM, 2025 WL 1453640, at *1 (D.
16 Mass. May 21, 2025); Andriasian v. INS, 180 F.3d 1033, 1041 (9th Cir. 1999).

17 The government must also “ask the noncitizen whether he or she fears 18 persecution or harm upon removal to the designated country and memorialize in 19 writing the noncitizen’s response. This requirement ensures DHS will obtain the 20 necessary information from the noncitizen to comply with section 1231(b)(3) and 21 avoids [a dispute about what the officer and noncitizen said].” Aden, 409 F. Supp.
22 3d at 1019. “Failing to notify individuals who are subject to deportation that they 23 have the right to apply for asylum in the United States and for withholding of 24 deportation to the country to which they will be deported violates both INS
25 regulations and the constitutional right to due process.” Andriasian, 180 F.3d at 26 1041.

27 If the noncitizen claims fear, measures must be taken to ensure that the 28 noncitizen can seek asylum, withholding, and relief under CAT before an

1 immigration judge in reopened removal proceedings. The amount and type of 2 notice must be “sufficient” to ensure that “given [a noncitizen’s] capacities and 3 circumstances, he would have a reasonable opportunity to raise and pursue his 4 claim for withholding of deportation.” Aden, 409 F. Supp. 3d at 1009
5 (citing Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 349 (1976) and Kossov v. I.N.S., 132
6 F.3d 405, 408 (7th Cir. 1998)); cf. D.V.D., 2025 WL 1453640, at *1 (requiring the 7 government to move to reopen the noncitizen’s immigration proceedings if the 8 individual demonstrates “reasonable fear” and to provide “a meaningful 9 opportunity, and a minimum of fifteen days, for the non-citizen to seek reopening 10 of their immigration proceedings” if the noncitizen is found to not have 11 demonstrated “reasonable fear”); Aden, 409 F. Supp. 3d at 1019 (requiring notice 12 and time for a respondent to file a motion to reopen and seek relief).

13 “[L]ast minute” notice of the country of removal will not suffice, Andriasiyan, 14 180 F.3d at 1041; accord Najjar v. Lunch, 630 Fed. App’x 724 (9th Cir. 2016), and 15 for good reason: To have a meaningful opportunity to apply for fear-based 16 protection from removal, immigrants must have time to prepare and present
17 relevant arguments and evidence. Merely telling a person where they may be sent,
18 without giving them a chance to look into country conditions, does not give them a 19 meaningful chance to determine whether and why they have a credible fear.

20 F. The June 6, 2025 memo’s removal policies violate the Fifth 21 Amendment, 8 U.S.C. § 1231, the Conviction Against Torture, and 22 Implementing Regulations.

23 The policies in the June 6, 2025 memo do not adhere to these requirements.
24 First, under the policy, ICE need not give immigrants any notice or any opportunity
25 to be heard before removing them to a country that—in the State Department’s 26 estimation—has provided “credible” “assurances” against persecution and torture.
27 Exh. B. By depriving immigrants of any chance to challenge the State Department’s 28 view, this policy violates “[t]he essence of due process,” “the requirement that a

1 person in jeopardy of serious loss be given notice of the case against him and
2 opportunity to meet it." Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 348 (1976) (cleaned 3 up).

4 Second, even when the government has obtained no credible assurances 5 against persecution and torture, the government can still remove the person with 6 between 6 and 24 hours' notice, depending on the circumstances. Exh. B.
7 Practically speaking, there is not nearly enough time for a detained person to assess 8 their risk in the third country and martial evidence to support any credible fear—let 9 alone a chance to file a motion to reopen with an IJ. An immigrant may know
10 nothing about a third country, like Eswatini or South Sudan, when they are 11 scheduled for removal there. Yet if given the opportunity to investigate conditions, 12 immigrants would find credible reasons to fear persecution or torture—like patterns 13 of keeping deportees indefinitely and without charge in solitary confinement or 14 extreme instability raising a high likelihood of death—in many of the third
15 countries that have agreed to removal thus far. Due process requires an adequate 16 chance to identify and raise these threats to health and life. This Court must prohibit 17 the government from removing Mr. Izquierdo-Matos without these due process 18 safeguards.

19

20 V. This Court must hold an evidentiary hearing on any disputed facts.

21 Resolution of a prolonged-detention habeas petition may require an 22 evidentiary hearing. Owino v. Napolitano, 575 F.3d 952, 956 (9th Cir. 2009). Mr.
23 Izquierdo-Matos hereby requests such a hearing on any material, disputed facts.

24 VI. Prayer for relief

25 For the foregoing reasons, Petitioner respectfully requests that this Court:

26 1. Order Respondents to immediately release Petitioner from custody;

27

28

- 1 2. Enjoin Respondents from re-detaining Petitioner under 8 U.S.C.
2 § 1231(a)(6) unless and until Respondents obtain a travel document for 3 his removal;
- 4 3. Enjoin Respondents from re-detaining Petitioner without first following
5 all procedures set forth in 8 C.F.R. §§ 241.4(l), 241.13(i), and any other 6 applicable statutory and regulatory procedures;
- 7 4. Enjoin Respondents from removing Petitioner to any country other than 8 Cuba, without first following the consecutive procedures of 8 U.S.C. § 9 1231(b)(2).
- 10 5. Enjoin Respondents from removing Petitioner to any country other than 11 Cuba, unless they provide the following process, see D.V.D. v. U.S. Dep't
12 of Homeland Sec., No. CV 25-10676-BEM, 2025 WL 1453640, at *1 (D.
13 Mass. May 21, 2025):
 - 14 a. written notice to both Petitioner and Petitioner's counsel in a 15 language Petitioner can understand;
 - 16 b. a meaningful opportunity, and a minimum of ten days, to raise a 17 fear-based claim for CAT protection prior to removal;
 - 18 c. if Petitioner is found to have demonstrated "reasonable fear" of 19 removal to the country, Respondents must move to reopen
20 Petitioner's immigration proceedings;
 - 21 d. if Petitioner is not found to have demonstrated a "reasonable fear"
22 of removal to the country, a meaningful opportunity, and a 23 minimum of fifteen days, for the Petitioner to seek reopening of his 24 immigration proceedings.
- 25 6. Order all other relief that the Court deems just and proper.

Conclusion

For those reasons, this Court should grant this habeas petition.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

CARLOS ALBERTO IZQUIERDO-
MATOS,

CIVIL CASE NO.:

Petitioner,

v.

DECLARATION OF
IZQUIERDO-MATOS

KRISTI NOEM, Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security,
PAMELA JO BONDI, Attorney General,
TODD M. LYONS, Acting Director,
Immigration and Customs Enforcement,
JESUS ROCHA, Acting Field Office
Director, San Diego Field Office,
CHRISTOPHER LAROSE, Warden at
Otay Mesa Detention Center,

Respondents.

I, Carlos Alberto Izquierdo-Matos, declare:

1. I was born in Cuba in 1956. I entered the United States in 1980 as a refugee.
2. I was ordered removed from the United States in May of 2008. After the order of removal, I was detained in immigration custody for many months, but they released me because Cuba did not accept me. I was placed on an order of supervision.

- 1 3. In June of this year, I received a notice in the mail to report to ICE on July
- 2 11, 2025. The notice stated that the reason to report was for a general check-
- 3 in.
- 4 4. On July 11, 2025, I went to the ICE office for the general check-in. I was
- 5 detained.
- 6 5. I was then brought to the Otay Mesa Detention Center where I have been
- 7 ever since.
- 8 6. ICE did give me any reasons as to what has changed to make my removal to
- 9 Cuba easier. I have never gotten a chance to tell ICE why I should not be re-
- 10 detained.
- 11 7. No immigration officer has talked to me about travel documents for my
- 12 removal to Cuba.
- 13 8. A few weeks ago, I was told to change into my own clothes and to take all
- 14 of my property. I thought I was going home. But then I was put in a van and
- 15 was told I was going to Mexico. There were several people in the van from
- 16 different countries. They took us to the border. I felt intimidated but I said I
- 17 did not want to go to Mexico. I was placed back in the van and sent back to
- 18 Otay Detention Center.
- 19 9. I have anxiety. I am very stressed and get anxiety attacks from being in here.
- 20 10. I have little education and no legal education. I do not have unrestricted
- 21 access to the internet at my detention facility, so I cannot use the internet to
- 22 research. I could not file a habeas petition on my own.
- 23 11. I do not have money to pay for an attorney. Prior to being detained, I worked
- 24 as a carpenter for about 10 years making an hourly rate. But I have not
- 25 worked since I was detained almost four months ago and my bills are piling
- 26 up, including my rent. I cannot afford to pay an attorney.
