1                   I. INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

2           Petitioner has filed a habeas petition under 28 U.S.C. § 2241. Petitioner is 3 currently in removal proceedings under 8 U.S.C. § 1229a and is charged with 4 inadmissibility under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i), as an alien present in the United 5 States who has not been admitted or paroled. As an applicant for admission, Petitioner
6 is mandatorily detained in Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) custody
7 pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2). Based on the arguments set forth below, the Court 8 should deny any requests for relief and dismiss the petition.

9                   II. STATUTORY BACKGROUND

10 A. Individuals Seeking Admission to the United States

11           For more than a century, this country’s immigration laws have authorized 12 immigration officials to charge noncitizens as removable from the country, arrest those 13 subject to removal, and detain them during removal proceedings. See Abel v. United 14 States, 362 U.S. 217, 232–37 (1960). “The rule has been clear for decades: ‘[d]etention 15 during deportation proceedings [i]s ... constitutionally valid.’” Banyee v. Garland, 16 115 F.4th 928 (8th Cir. 2024) (quoting Demore v. Kim, 538 U.S. 510, 523 (2003)), 17 rehearing by panel and en banc denied, Banyee v. Bondi, No. 22-2252, 18 2025 WL 837914 (8th Cir. Mar. 18, 2025); see Carlson v. Landon, 342 U.S. 524, 19 538 (1952) (“Detention is necessarily a part of this deportation procedure.”); Demore, 20 538 U.S. at 523 n.7 (“In fact, prior to 1907 there was no provision permitting bail for 21 any aliens during the pendency of their deportation proceedings.”). The Supreme Court 22 even recognized that removal proceedings ““would be [in] vain if those accused could 23 not be held in custody pending the inquiry into their true character.”” Demore, 538 U.S.
24 at 523 (quoting Wong Wing v. United States, 163 U.S. 228, 235 (1896)). Over the 25 century, Congress has enacted a multi-layered statutory scheme for the civil detention 26 of aliens pending a decision on removal, during the administrative and judicial review 27 of removal orders, and in preparation for removal. See generally 8 U.S.C. §§ 1225, 28 1226, 1231. It is the interplay between these statutes that is at issue here.

1 B. Detention Under 8 U.S.C. § 1225

2 “To implement its immigration policy, the Government must be able to decide 3 (1) who may enter the country and (2) who may stay here after entering.” Jennings v.
4 Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 286 (2018). Section 1225 governs inspection, the initial step 5 in this process, id., stating that all “applicants for admission . . . shall be inspected by 6 immigration officers.” 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(3). The statute—in a provision entitled 7 “ALIENS TREATED AS APPLICANTS FOR ADMISSION”—dictates who “shall be 8 deemed for purposes of this chapter an applicant for admission,” defining that term to 9 encompass both an alien “present in the United States who has not been admitted or 10 [one] who arrives in the United States . . . .” Id. § 1225(a)(1) (emphasis added). Section 11 1225(b) governs the inspection procedures applicable to all applicants for admission.
12 They “fall into one of two categories, those covered by § 1225(b)(1) and those covered 13 by § 1225(b)(2).” Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287.

14 Section 1225(b)(1) applies to arriving aliens and “certain other” aliens “initially 15 determined to be inadmissible due to fraud, misrepresentation, or lack of valid 16 documentation.” Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287; 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(i), (iii). These 17 aliens are generally subject to expedited removal proceedings. See 18 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(i). But if the alien “indicates an intention to apply for asylum 19 . . . or a fear of persecution,” immigration officers will refer the alien for a credible fear 20 interview. Id. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(ii). An alien “with a credible fear of persecution” is 21 “detained for further consideration of the application for asylum.” Id.
22 § 1225(b)(1)(B)(ii). If the alien does not indicate an intent to apply for asylum, express 23 a fear of persecution, or is “found not to have such a fear,” they are detained until 24 removed from the United States. Id. §§ 1225(b)(1)(A)(i), (B)(iii)(IV).

25 Section 1225(b)(2) is “broader” and “serves as a catchall provision.” Jennings, 26 583 U.S. at 287. It “applies to all applicants for admission not covered by § 1225(b)(1).” 27 Id. Under § 1225(b)(2), an alien “who is an applicant for admission” shall be detained 28 for a removal proceeding “if the examining immigration officer determines that [the]

1 alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted.”
2 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A); see Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216, 3 220 (BIA 2025) (“[A]liens who are present in the United States without admission are 4 applicants for admission as defined under section 235(b)(2)(A) of the INA, 5 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), and must be detained for the duration of their removal 6 proceedings.”); Matter of Q. Li, 29 I. & N. Dec. 66, 68 (BIA 2025) (“for aliens arriving 7 in and seeking admission into the United States who are placed directly in full removal 8 proceedings, section 235(b)(2)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), mandates 9 detention ‘until removal proceedings have concluded.’”) (citing Jennings, 583 U.S. at 10 299). However, DHS has the sole discretionary authority to temporarily release on 11 parole “any alien applying for admission to the United States” on a “case-by-case basis 12 for urgent humanitarian reasons or significant public benefit.” Id. § 1182(d)(5)(A); see 13 Biden v. Texas, 597 U.S. 785, 806 (2022).

14 C. Detention Under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a)

15 Section 1226 provides for arrest and detention “pending a decision on whether 16 the alien is to be removed from the United States.” 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Under § 1226(a), 17 the government may detain an alien during his removal proceedings, release him on 18 bond, or release him on conditional parole. By regulation, immigration officers can 19 release an alien who demonstrates that he “would not pose a danger to property or 20 persons” and “is likely to appear for any future proceeding.” 8 C.F.R. § 236.1(c)(8). An 21 alien can also request a custody redetermination (i.e., a bond hearing) by an IJ at any 22 time before a final order of removal is issued. See 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a); 23 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(d)(1), 1236.1(d)(1), 1003.19.

24 At a custody redetermination, the IJ may continue detention or release the alien 25 on bond or conditional parole. 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a); 8 C.F.R. § 1236.1(d)(1). IJs have 26 broad discretion in deciding whether to release an alien on bond. In re Guerra, 27 24 I. & N. Dec. 37, 39-40 (BIA 2006) (listing nine factors for IJs to consider). But 28 regardless of the factors IJs consider, an alien “who presents a danger to persons or 1 property should not be released during the pendency of removal proceedings.” Id. at 38.

2 Section 1226(a) does not grant “any right to release on bond.” Matter of D-J-, 3 23 I. & N. Dec. at 575 (citing Carlson v. Landon, 342 U.S. 524, 534 (1952)). Nor does 4 it address the applicable burden of proof or particular factors that must be considered.
5 See generally 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Rather, it grants DHS and the Attorney General broad 6 discretionary authority to determine, after arrest, whether to detain or release an alien 7 during his removal proceedings. See id. If, after the bond hearing, either party disagrees 8 with the decision of the IJ, that party may appeal the decision to the BIA. See 9 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(d)(3), 1003.19(f), 1003.38, 1236.1(d)(3).

10 Included within the Attorney General and DHS’s discretionary authority are 11 limits on the delegation to the immigration court. Under 8 C.F.R. § 1003.19(h)(2)(i)(B), 12 the IJ does not have authority to redetermine the conditions of custody imposed by DHS 13 for any arriving alien. The regulations also include a provision that allows DHS to 14 invoke an automatic stay of any decision by an IJ to release an individual on bond when 15 DHS files an appeal of the custody redetermination. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.19(i)(2) (“The 16 decision whether or not to file [an automatic stay] is subject to the discretion of the 17 Secretary.”).

18 D. Review Before the Board of Immigration Appeals

19 The BIA is an appellate body within the Executive Office for Immigration 20 Review (EOIR) and possesses delegated authority from the Attorney General.
21 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.1(a)(1), (d)(1). The BIA is “charged with the review of those 22 administrative adjudications under the [INA] that the Attorney General may by 23 regulation assign to it,” including IJ custody determinations. 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.1(d)(1), 24 236.1, 1236.1. The BIA not only resolves particular disputes before it, but is also 25 directed to, “through precedent decisions, [] provide clear and uniform guidance to 26 DHS, the immigration judges, and the general public on the proper interpretation and 27 administration of the [INA] and its implementing regulations.” Id. § 1003.1(d)(1).
28 Decisions rendered by the BIA are final, except for those reviewed by the Attorney

1 General. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(7).

2 If an automatic stay of a custody decision is invoked by DHS, regulations require 3 the BIA to track the progress of the custody appeal “to avoid unnecessary delays in 4 completing the record for decision.” 8 C.F.R. § 1003.6(c)(3). The stay lapses in 90 days, 5 unless the detainee seeks an extension of time to brief the custody appeal, 6 8 C.F.R. § 1003.6(c)(4), or unless DHS seeks, and the BIA grants, a discretionary stay.
7 8 C.F.R. § 1003.6(c)(5).

8 If the BIA denies DHS’s custody appeal, the automatic stay remains in effect for 9 five business days. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.6(d). DHS may, during that five-day period, refer 10 the case to the Attorney General under 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(h)(1) for consideration. Id.
11 Upon referral to the Attorney General, the release is stayed for 15 business days while 12 the case is considered. The Attorney General may extend the stay of release upon 13 motion by DHS. Id.

14 III. ARGUMENT

15 A. Claims and Requested Relief Jurisdictionally Barred

16 Petitioner bears the burden of establishing that this Court has subject matter 17 jurisdiction over asserted claims. See Ass’n of Am. Med. Coll. v. United States, 18 217 F.3d 770, 778-79 (9th Cir. 2000); Finley v. United States, 490 U.S. 545, 19 547-48 (1989).

20 In general, courts lack jurisdiction to review a decision to commence or 21 adjudicate removal proceedings or execute removal orders. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) 22 (“[N]o court shall have jurisdiction to hear any cause or claim by or on behalf of any 23 alien arising from the decision or action by the Attorney General to commence 24 proceedings, adjudicate cases, or execute removal orders.”); Reno v. Am.-Arab Anti- 25 Discrimination Comm., 525 U.S. 471, 483 (1999) (“There was good reason for 26 Congress to focus special attention upon, and make special provision for, judicial 27 review of the Attorney General’s discrete acts of “commenc[ing] proceedings, 28 adjudicat[ing] cases, [and] execut[ing] removal orders”—which represent the initiation

1 or prosecution of various stages in the deportation process.”); Limpin v. United States, 2 828 Fed. App’x 429 (9th Cir. 2020) (holding district court properly dismissed under 3 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) “because claims stemming from the decision to arrest and detain an 4 alien at the commencement of removal proceedings are not within any court’s 5 jurisdiction”). In other words, § 1252(g) removes district court jurisdiction over “three 6 discrete actions that the Attorney may take: [his] ‘decision or action’ to ‘commence 7 proceedings, adjudicate cases, or execute removal orders.’” Reno, 525 U.S. at 8 482 (emphasis removed). Congress has explicitly foreclosed district court jurisdiction 9 over claims that necessarily arise “from the decision or action by the Attorney General 10 to commence proceedings [and] adjudicate cases,” over which. 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g).

11 Section 1252(g) also bars district courts from hearing challenges to the method 12 by which the government chooses to commence removal proceedings, including the 13 decision to detain an alien pending removal. See Alvarez v. ICE, 818 F.3d 1194, 14 1203 (11th Cir. 2016) (“By its plain terms, [§ 1252(g)] bars us from questioning ICE’s 15 discretionary decisions to commence removal” and bars review of “ICE’s decision to 16 take [plaintiff] into custody and to detain him during his removal proceedings”).

17 Other courts have held, “[f]or the purposes of § 1252, the Attorney General 18 commences proceedings against an alien when the alien is issued a Notice to Appear 19 before an immigration court.” Herrera-Correra v. United States, 20 No. 08-2941 DSF (JCx), 2008 WL 11336833, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 11, 2008). “The 21 Attorney General may arrest the alien against whom proceedings are commenced and 22 detain that individual until the conclusion of those proceedings.” Id. at *3. “Thus, an 23 alien’s detention throughout this process arises from the Attorney General’s decision to 24 commence proceedings” and review of claims arising from such detention is barred 25 under § 1252(g). Id. (citing Sissoko v. Rocha, 509 F.3d 947, 949 (9th Cir. 2007)); Wang, 26 2010 WL 11463156, at *6; 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g).

27 Moreover, under 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9), “[j]udicial review of all questions of law 28 and fact . . . arising from any action taken or proceeding brought to remove an alien

1 from the United States under this subchapter shall be available only in judicial review
2 of a final order under this section.” Further, judicial review of a final order is available 3 only through “a petition for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals.” 4 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(5). The Supreme Court has made clear that § 1252(b)(9) is “the 5 unmistakable ‘zipper’ clause,” channeling “judicial review of all” “decisions and 6 actions leading up to or consequent upon final orders of deportation,” including 7 “non-final order[s],” into proceedings before a court of appeals. Reno, 525 U.S. at 483, 8 485; see J.E.F.M. v. Lynch, 837 F.3d 1026, 1031 (9th Cir. 2016) (noting § 1252(b)(9) 9 is “breathtaking in scope and vise-like in grip and therefore swallows up virtually all 10 claims that are tied to removal proceedings”). “Taken together, § 1252(a)(5) and 11 § 1252(b)(9) mean that any issue—whether legal or factual—arising from any 12 removal-related activity can be reviewed only through the [petition for review] PFR 13 process.” J.E.F.M., 837 F.3d at 1031 (“[W]hile these sections limit how immigrants can 14 challenge their removal proceedings, they are not jurisdiction-stripping statutes that, by 15 their terms, foreclose all judicial review of agency actions. Instead, the provisions 16 channel judicial review over final orders of removal to the courts of appeal.”) (emphasis 17 in original); see id. at 1035 (“§§ 1252(a)(5) and [(b)(9)] channel review of all claims, 18 including policies-and-practices challenges . . . whenever they ‘arise from’ removal 19 proceedings”).

20 Critically, “1252(b)(9) is a judicial channeling provision, not a claim-barring 21 one.” Aguilar v. ICE, 510 F.3d 1, 11 (1st Cir. 2007). Indeed, 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(D) 22 provides that “[n]othing . . . in any other provision of this chapter . . . shall be construed 23 as precluding review of constitutional claims or questions of law raised upon a petition 24 for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals in accordance with this section.” 25 See also Ajlani v. Chertoff, 545 F.3d 229, 235 (2d Cir. 2008) (“[J]urisdiction to review 26 such claims is vested exclusively in the courts of appeals[.]”). The petition-for-review 27 process before the court of appeals ensures that noncitizens have a proper forum for 28 claims arising from their immigration proceedings and “receive their day in court.”

1 J.E.F.M., 837 F.3d at 1031–32 (internal quotations omitted); see also Rosario v. Holder, 2 627 F.3d 58, 61 (2d Cir. 2010) (“The REAL ID Act of 2005 amended the [INA] to 3 obviate . . . Suspension Clause concerns” by permitting judicial review of 4 “nondiscretionary” BIA determinations and “all constitutional claims or questions of 5 law.”). These provisions divest district courts of jurisdiction to review both direct and 6 indirect challenges to removal orders, including decisions to detain for purposes of 7 removal or for proceedings. See Jennings, 583 U.S. at 294–95 (section 1252(b)(9) 8 includes challenges to the “decision to detain [an alien] in the first place or to seek 9 removal”).

10 In evaluating the reach of subsections (a)(5) and (b)(9), the Second Circuit has 11 explained that jurisdiction turns on the substance of the relief sought. Delgado v.
12 Quarantillo, 643 F.3d 52, 55 (2d Cir. 2011). Those provisions divest district courts of 13 jurisdiction to review both direct and indirect challenges to removal orders, including 14 decisions to detain for purposes of removal or for proceedings. See Jennings, 15 583 U.S. at 294–95 (section 1252(b)(9) includes challenges to the “decision to detain 16 [an alien] in the first place or to seek removal[.]”). Here, Petitioner challenges the 17 government’s decision and action to detain, which arises from DHS’s decision to 18 commence removal proceedings, and is thus an “action taken . . . to remove [him/her] 19 from the United States.” See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9); see also, e.g., Jennings, 583 U.S. at 20 294–95; Velasco Lopez v. Decker, 978 F.3d 842, 850 (2d Cir. 2020) (finding that 21 8 U.S.C. § 1226(e) did not bar review in that case because the petitioner did not 22 challenge “his initial detention”); Saadulloev v. Garland, No. 3:23-CV-00106, 23 2024 WL 1076106, at *3 (W.D. Pa. Mar. 12, 2024) (recognizing that there is no judicial 24 review of the threshold detention decision, which flows from the government’s decision 25 to “commence proceedings”).

26 Accordingly, this Court lacks jurisdiction over this petition under 27 8 U.S.C. § 1252.<sup>1</sup>See Acxel S.Q.D.C. v. Bondi, No. 25-3348 (PAM/DLM), 28

<sup>1</sup> On an alternative basis, the Court should ensure Petitioner properly exhausts
Return to Petition 9 25-cv-3027-JO-KSC

1 2025 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 175957 (D. Minn. Sept. 9, 2025).

2 B. Petitioner is Lawfully Detained

3 Petitioner’s claims for alleged statutory and constitutional violations fail because 4 Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225.

5 Based on the plain language of the statute, Petitioner’s detention is governed by 6 § 1225. Section 1225(b)(2)(A) requires mandatory detention of “an alien who is an 7 applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien 8 seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted[.]” Chavez
9 v. Noem, No. 3:25-cv-02325, 2025 WL 2730228, at *4 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 24, 2025)
10 (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A)) (emphasis in original). Section 1225(a)(1) 11 “expressly defines that ‘[a]n alien present in the United States who has not been 12 admitted ... shall be deemed for purposes of this Act an applicant for admission.” Id.
13 (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1)) (emphasis in original). Here, Petitioner is an “alien 14 present in the United States who has not been admitted.” Thus, as found by the district 15 court in Chavez v. Noem and as mandated by the plain language of the statute, Petitioner 16 is an “applicant for admission” and subject to the mandatory detention provisions of 17 § 1225(b)(2).

18 When the plain text of a statute is clear, “that meaning is controlling” and courts 19 “need not examine legislative history.” Washington v. Chimei Innolux Corp., 20 659 F.3d 842, 848 (9th Cir. 2011). But to the extent legislative history is relevant here, 21 nothing “refutes the plain language” of § 1225. Suzlon Energy Ltd. v. Microsoft Corp., 22 671 F.3d 726, 730 (9th Cir. 2011). Congress passed the Illegal Immigration Reform and 23 _____

24 administrative remedies. The Ninth Circuit requires that “habeas petitioners exhaust 25 available judicial and administrative remedies before seeking relief under § 2241.” 26 Castro–Cortez v. INS, 239 F.3d 1037, 1047 (9th Cir. 2001). “When a petitioner does 27 not exhaust administrative remedies, a district court ordinarily should either dismiss the 28 petition without prejudice or stay the proceedings until the petitioner has exhausted remedies, unless exhaustion is excused.” Leonardo v. Crawford, 646 F.3d 1157, 1160 (9th Cir. 2011); see also Alvarado v. Holder, 759 F.3d 1121, 1127 n.5 (9th Cir. 2014)
(issue exhaustion is a jurisdictional requirement); Tijani v. Holder, 628 F.3d 1071, 1080 (9th Cir. 2010) (no jurisdiction to review legal claims not presented in the petitioner’s administrative proceedings before the BIA).

1 Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996 (IIRIRA) to correct “an anomaly whereby 2 immigrants who were attempting to lawfully enter the United States were in a worse
3 position than persons who had crossed the border unlawfully.” Torres v. Barr, 4 976 F.3d 918, 928 (9th Cir. 2020) (en banc), declined to extend by, United States v.
5 Gambino-Ruiz, 91 F.4th 981 (9th Cir. 2024); see Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N 6 Dec. at 223-34 (citing H.R. Rep. No. 104-469, pt. 1, at 225 (1996)). It “intended to 7 replace certain aspects of the [then] current ‘entry doctrine,’ under which illegal aliens 8 who have entered the United States without inspection gain equities and privileges in 9 immigration proceedings that are not available to aliens who present themselves for 10 inspection at a port of entry.” Id. (quoting H.R. Rep. 104-469, pt. 1, at 225). A contrary 11 interpretation would put aliens who “crossed the border unlawfully” in a better position 12 than those “who present themselves for inspection at a port of entry.” Id. Aliens who 13 presented at a port of entry would be subject to mandatory detention under § 1225, but 14 those who crossed illegally would be eligible for a bond under § 1226(a). See Matter of 15 Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. at 225 (“The House Judiciary Committee Report makes 16 clear that Congress intended to eliminate the prior statutory scheme that provided aliens 17 who entered the United States without inspection more procedural and substantive 18 rights that those who presented themselves to authorities for inspection.”). The court 19 should “‘refuse to interpret the INA in a way that would in effect repeal that statutory 20 fix’ intended by Congress in enacting the IIRIRA.” Chavez, 2025 WL 2730228, at 21 *4 (quoting Gambino-Ruiz, 91 F.4th at 990).

22 The plain language of the § 1225(b)(2) does not contradict nor render § 1226(a) 23 superfluous. In Chavez v. Noem, the Court noted that § 1226(a) “‘generally governs the 24 process of arresting and detaining’ certain aliens, namely ‘aliens who were inadmissible 25 at the time of entry or who have been convicted of certain criminal offenses since 26 admission.’” Chavez, 2025 WL 2730228, at *5 (quoting Jennings, 583 U.S. at 288) 27 (emphasis in original). In turn, individuals who have not been charged with specific 28 crimes listed in § 1226(c) are still subject to the discretionary detention provisions of

1 § 1226(a) as determined by the Attorney General. See 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) (“On a
2 warrant issued by the Attorney General, an alien may be arrested and detained pending 3 a decision on whether the alien is to be removed from the United States.”) (emphasis 4 added). Therefore, heeding the plain language of § 1225(b)(2) has no effect on 5 § 1226(a). Similarly, the application of § 1225’s explicit definition of “applicants for 6 admission” does not render the addition of § 1226(c) by the Riley Laken Act 7 superfluous. Once again correctly determined by the district court in Chavez v. Noem, 8 the addition of § 1226(c) simply removed the Attorney General’s detention discretion 9 for aliens charged with specific crimes. 2025 WL 2730228, at *5.

10 One of the most basic interpretative canons instructs that a “statute should be 11 construed so that effect is given to all its provisions.” See Corley v. United States, 12 556 U.S. 303, 314 (2009) (cleaned up). If Congress did not want § 1225(b)(2)(A) to 13 apply to “applicants for admission,” then it would not have included the phrase 14 “applicants for admission” in the subsection. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A); see also 15 Corley, 556 U.S. at 314.

16 Finally, the phrase “alien seeking admission” does not limit the scope of 17 § 1225(b)(2)(A). The BIA has long recognized that “many people who are not actually 18 requesting permission to enter the United States in the ordinary sense are nevertheless 19 deemed to be ‘seeking admission’ under the immigration laws.” Matter of Lemus-Losa, 20 25 I&N Dec. 734, 743 (BIA 2012). Statutory language “is known by the company it 21 keeps.” Marquez-Reyes v. Garland, 36 F.4th 1195, 1202 (9th Cir. 2022) (quoting 22 McDonnell v. United States, 579 U.S. 550, 569 (2016)). The phrase “seeking 23 admission” in § 1225(b)(2)(A) must be read in the context of the definition of “applicant 24 for admission” in § 1225(a)(1). Applicants for admission are both those individuals 25 present without admission and those who arrive in the United States. See 26 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1). Both are understood to be “seeking admission” under 27 § 1225(a)(1). See Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. at 221; Lemus-Losa, 25 I&N 28 Dec. at 743. Congress made that clear in § 1225(a)(3), which requires all aliens “who

1 are applicants for admission or otherwise seeking admission” to be inspected by 2 immigration officers. 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(3). The word “or” here “introduce[s] an 3 appositive—a word or phrase that is synonymous with what precedes it (‘Vienna or 4 Wien,’ ‘Batman or the Caped Crusader’).” United States v. Woods, 571 U.S. 31, 5 45 (2013). Further, § 1225(a)(5) provides that “[a]n applicant for admission may be 6 required to state under oath any information sought by an immigration officer regarding 7 the purposes and intentions of the applicant in seeking admission to the United States.” 8 The reasonable import of this particular phrasing is that one who is an applicant for 9 admission is considered to be “seeking admission” under the statute.

10 Because Petitioner is properly detained under § 1225, Petitioner cannot show 11 entitlement to relief.

12 Even if the Court infers a constitutional right against prolonged mandatory 13 detention, Petitioner’s claim still fails. “In general, as detention continues past a year, 14 courts become extremely wary of permitting continued custody absent a bond hearing.” 15 Sibomana v. LaRose, No. 22-cv-933-LL-NLS, 2023 WL 3028093, at *4 (S.D. Cal.
16 Apr. 20, 2023) (citation omitted); see also, e.g., Sanchez-Rivera v. Matuszewski, 17 No. 22-cv-1357-MMA-JLB, 2023 WL 139801, at *6 (S.D. Cal. Jan. 9, 2023) (detained 18 for three years); Durand v. Allen, No. 3:23-cv-00279-RBM-BGS, 2024 WL 711607, at 19 *5 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 21, 2024) (over two-and-a-half years); Yagao v. Figueroa, 20 No. 17-cv-2224-AJB-MDD, 2019 WL 1429582, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 29, 2019) 21 (two years). Petitioner’s detention falls significantly short of the length courts have 22 found to raise due process concerns.

23 Respondents acknowledge that courts in this district have recently rejected 24 similarly arguments in other similar habeas matters. Respondents maintain that 25 Petitioner is properly subject to mandatory detention under § 1225 and dismissal is 26 proper. Cf. Vargas Lopez v. Trump, No. 8:25CV526, 2025 WL 2780351, at 27 *9 (D. Neb. Sept. 30, 2025); Sandoval v. Acuna, No. 6:25-CV-01467, 2025 WL
28 3048926, at *5 (W.D. La. Oct. 31, 2025). To the extent the Court finds this Petitioner

1 subject to detention authority under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a), Respondents’ position is that 2 the proper remedy would be directing a bond hearing under § 1226(a). See
3 8 U.S.C. § 1226(e) (“No court may set aside any action or decision by the Attorney 4 General under this section regarding the detention or any alien or the revocation or 5 denial of bond or parole.”); Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 295 (2018) (“As we 6 have previously explained, § 1226(e) precludes an alien from ‘challeng[ing] a 7 “discretionary judgment” by the Attorney General or a “decision” that the Attorney 8 General has made regarding his detention or release.’ But § 1226(e) does not preclude 9 ‘challenges [to] the statutory framework that permits [the alien’s] detention without 10 bail.’”); 8 U.S.C. § 1226(b) (“The Attorney General at any time may revoke a bond or 11 parole authorized under subsection (a), rearrest the alien under the original warrant, and 12 detain the alien.”).

13 IV. CONCLUSION

14 For the foregoing reasons, Respondents respectfully request that the Court 15 dismiss this action.

16 DATED: November 12, 2025
