Attorneys for Respondents

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

E.G.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

CHRISTOPHER J. LAROSE, et al.,

Respondents.

Case No.: 25-cv-3089 CAB MSB

RESPONSE IN OPPOSITION TO PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

I. Introduction

Petitioner has filed a habeas petition pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241. For the reasons set forth below, the Court should deny Petitioner's requests for relief and dismiss the petition.

II. Factual and Procedural Background[1]

Petitioner is a citizen and national of Cuba. On or about April 24, 2024, he unlawfully entered the United States. That same day, DHS placed Petitioner in removal proceedings under 8 U.S.C. § 1229a and issued Petitioner a Notice to Appear (NTA), charging Petitioner as inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(i), as an alien present in the United States who has not been admitted or paroled. Subsequently, Petitioner was released from the DHS custody on an order of release on recognizance.

At a master calendar hearing on May 30, 2025, DHS, pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 1239.2(c), made an oral motion to dismiss Petitioner's § 1229a removal proceedings. The immigration judge (IJ) granted the motion without prejudice and terminated Petitioner's removal proceedings. Petitioner did not appeal the IJ's order dismissing his proceedings. On July 15, 2025, Petitioner was apprehended and detained in ICE custody. He was then placed in expedited removal proceedings under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1). After asserting a fear of returning to Cuba, Petitioner was referred for a credible fear interview before a U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services asylum officer pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(A)(ii). Petitioner received a positive credible fear determination from the asylum officer and, on July 6, 2025, was issued a Notice to Appear, placing him in new removal proceedings pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1229(a). Petitioner's removal proceedings remain ongoing, he is not currently subject to a final order of removal, and he remains detained in Otay Mesa Detention Facility pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(B)(ii).

III. Statutory Background

A. Individuals Seeking Admission to the United States

For more than a century, the immigration laws of the United States have authorized immigration officials to charge noncitizens as removable from the country, arrest those subject to removal, and detain them during removal proceedings. See Abel v. United States, 362 U.S. 217, 232–37 (1960). "The rule has been clear for decades: '[d]etention during deportation proceedings [i]s ... constitutionally valid.'" Banyee v. Garland, 115 F.4th 928 (8th Cir. 2024) (quoting Demore v. Kim, 538 U.S. 510, 523 (2003)), rehearing by panel and en banc denied, Banyee v. Bondi, No. 22-2252, 2025 WL 837914 (8th Cir. Mar. 18, 2025). Over time, Congress has enacted a multi-layered statutory scheme for the civil detention of aliens pending a decision on removal, during the administrative and judicial review of removal orders, and in preparation for removal. See generally 8 U.S.C. §§ 1225, 1226, 1231. It is the interplay between these statutes that is at issue here.

B. Detention Under 8 U.S.C. § 1225

"To implement its immigration policy, the Government must be able to decide (1) who may enter the country and (2) who may stay here after entering." Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 286 (2018). Section 1225 governs inspection, the initial step in this process, id., stating that all "applicants for admission . . . shall be inspected by immigration officers." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(3). The statute – in a provision entitled "ALIENS TREATED AS APPLICANTS FOR ADMISSION" – dictates who shall be deemed "an applicant for admission," defining that term to encompass both an alien "present in the United States who has not been admitted or [one] who arrives in the United States . . . ." Id. § 1225(a)(1) (emphasis added). Section 1225(b) governs the inspection procedures applicable to all applicants for admission. They "fall into one of two categories, those covered by § 1225(b)(1) and those covered by § 1225(b)(2)." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287.

Section 1225(b)(1) applies to arriving aliens and "certain other" aliens "initially determined to be inadmissible due to fraud, misrepresentation, or lack of valid documentation." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287. These aliens are generally subject to expedited removal proceedings. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(i). But if the alien "indicates an intention to apply for asylum . . . or a fear of persecution," immigration officers will refer the alien for a credible fear interview. Id. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(ii). An alien "with a credible fear of persecution" is "detained for further consideration of the application for asylum." Id. § 1225(b)(1)(B)(ii). If the alien does not indicate an intent to apply for asylum, express a fear of persecution, or is "found not to have such a fear," they are detained until removed from the United States. Id. §§ 1225(b)(1)(A)(i), (B)(iii)(IV).

Section 1225(b)(2) is "broader" and "serves as a catchall provision." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287. It "applies to all applicants for admission not covered by § 1225(b)(1)." Id. Under § 1225(b)(2), an alien "who is an applicant for admission" shall be detained for a removal proceeding "if the examining immigration officer determines that [the] alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A); see also Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216, 220 (BIA 2025) ("[A]liens who are present in the United States without admission are applicants for admission as defined under section 235(b)(2)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), and must be detained for the duration of their removal proceedings."); Matter of Q. Li, 29 I. & N. Dec. 66, 68 (BIA 2025) ("for aliens arriving in and seeking admission into the United States who are placed directly in full removal proceedings, section 235(b)(2)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), mandates detention 'until removal proceedings have concluded.'") (citing Jennings, 583 U.S. at 299).

C. Detention Under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a)

Section 1226 provides for arrest and detention "pending a decision on whether the alien is to be removed from the United States." 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Under § 1226(a), the government may detain an alien during his removal proceedings, release him on bond, or release him on conditional parole. By regulation, immigration officers can release an alien who demonstrates that he "would not pose a danger to property or persons" and "is likely to appear for any future proceeding." 8 C.F.R. § 236.1(c)(8). An alien can also request a custody redetermination (i.e., a bond hearing) by an IJ at any time before a final order of removal is issued. See 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a).

Notably, Section 1226(a) does not grant "any right to release on bond." Matter of D-J-, 23 I. & N. Dec. at 575 (citing Carlson v. Landon, 342 U.S. 524, 534 (1952)). Nor does it address the applicable burden of proof or factors that must be considered. See generally 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Rather, it grants DHS and the Attorney General broad discretionary authority to determine, after arrest, whether to detain or release an alien during his removal proceedings. See id. If, after the bond hearing, either party disagrees with the decision of the IJ, that party may appeal the decision to the BIA. See 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(d)(3), 1003.19(f), 1003.38, 1236.1(d)(3). The regulations also include a provision that allows DHS to invoke an automatic stay of any decision by an IJ to release an individual on bond when DHS files an appeal of the custody redetermination. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.19(i)(2).

D. Review Before the Board of Immigration Appeals

The BIA is an appellate body within the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) that possesses delegated authority from the Attorney General. 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.1(a)(1), (d)(1). The BIA is "charged with the review of those administrative adjudications under the [INA] that the Attorney General may by regulation assign to it," including IJ custody determinations. 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.1(d)(1), 236.1, 1236.1. The BIA is also directed to, "through precedent decisions, [] provide clear and uniform guidance to DHS, the immigration judges, and the general public on the proper interpretation and administration of the [INA] and its implementing regulations." Id. § 1003.1(d)(1). Decisions rendered by the BIA are final, except for those reviewed by the Attorney General. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(7).

IV. Argument

A. Petitioner Brings Improper Habeas Claims

The Court should deny Petitioner's petition to the extent he asserts claims regarding the termination of his 1229a proceedings and placement into expedited removal proceedings because such claims do not challenge the lawfulness of his custody. Rather, such claims challenge the decision to dismiss his 1229a proceedings, his placement into expedited removal, and the type of review he receives over his asylum claims. An individual may seek habeas relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 if she is "in custody" under federal authority "in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States." 28 U.S.C. § 2241(c). But habeas relief is available to challenge only the legality or duration of confinement. Pinson v. Carvajal, 69 F.4th 1059, 1067 (9th Cir. 2023); Crawford v. Bell, 599 F.2d 890, 891 (9th Cir. 1979); Dep't of Homeland Security v. Thraissigiam, 591 U.S. 103, 117 (2020) (The writ of habeas corpus historically "provide[s] a means of contesting the lawfulness of restraint and securing release."). The Ninth Circuit squarely explained how to decide whether a claim sounds in habeas jurisdiction: "[O]ur review of the history and purpose of habeas leads us to conclude the relevant question is whether, based on the allegations in the petition, release is legally required irrespective of the relief requested." Pinson, 69 F.4th at 1072 (emphasis in original); see also Nettles v. Grounds, 830 F.3d 922, 934 (9th Cir. 2016) (The key inquiry is whether success on the petitioner's claim would "necessarily lead to immediate or speedier release."). Here, a review on a decision to terminate Petitioner's 1229a proceedings and a decision to place him into expedited removal proceedings would not automatically entitle him to release from detention. See Guselnikov v. Noem, No. 25-cv-1971-BTM-KSC, 2025 WL 2300873, at *1 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 8, 2025) (finding petitioners' claims did not arise under § 2241 because they were not arguing they were unlawfully in custody and receiving the requested relief would not entitle them to release); Giron Rodas v. Lyons, No. 25cv1912-LL-AHG, 2025 WL 2300781, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 1, 2025) ("Like in Pinson, the Court lacks jurisdiction over Petitioner's § 2241 habeas petition since it cannot be fairly read as attacking 'the legality or duration of confinement.'") (quoting Pinson, 69 F.4th at 1065). Thus, Petitioner's claims do not arise under § 2241 and his petition should be dismissed.

B. Petitioner's Requests are Jurisdictionally Barred

Petitioner bears the burden of establishing that this Court has subject matter jurisdiction over his claims. See Ass'n of Am. Med. Coll. v. United States, 217 F.3d 770, 778-79 (9th Cir. 2000); Finley v. United States, 490 U.S. 545, 547-48 (1989).

Courts lack jurisdiction over any claim or cause of action arising from any decision to commence or adjudicate removal proceedings or execute removal orders. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) ("[N]o court shall have jurisdiction to hear any cause or claim by or on behalf of any alien arising from the decision or action by the Attorney General to commence proceedings, adjudicate cases, or execute removal orders.") (emphasis added). In other words, § 1252(g) removes district court jurisdiction over "three discrete actions that the Attorney may take: [his] 'decision or action' to 'commence proceedings, adjudicate cases, or execute removal orders.'" Reno v. Am.-Arab Anti-Discrimination Comm., 525 U.S. 471, 482 (1999) (emphasis removed). Petitioner's claims necessarily arise "from the decision or action by the Attorney General to commence proceedings [and] adjudicate cases," over which Congress has explicitly foreclosed district court jurisdiction. 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g).

Section 1252(g) also bars district courts from hearing challenges to the method by which the government chooses to commence removal proceedings, including the decision to detain an alien pending removal. See Alvarez v. ICE, 818 F.3d 1194, 1203 (11th Cir. 2016) ("By its plain terms, [§ 1252(g)] bars us from questioning ICE's discretionary decisions to commence removal" and bars review of "ICE's decision to take [plaintiff] into custody and to detain him during his removal proceedings"); Valecia-Meja v. United States, No. 08-2943 CAS (PJWz), 2008 WL 4286979, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 15, 2008) ("The decision to detain plaintiff until his hearing before the Immigration Judge arose from this decision to commence proceedings."); Tazu v. Att'y

Gen. U.S., 975 F.3d 292, 298–99 (3d Cir. 2020) (holding that 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) and (b)(9) deprive the district court of jurisdiction to review a removal order).

"For the purposes of § 1252, the Attorney General commences proceedings against an alien when the alien is issued a Notice to Appear before an immigration court." Herrera-Correra v. United States, No. 08-2941 DSF (JCx), 2008 WL 11336833, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 11, 2008). "The Attorney General may arrest the alien against whom proceedings are commenced and detain that individual until the conclusion of those proceedings." Id. at *3. "Thus, an alien's detention throughout this process arises from the Attorney General's decision to commence proceedings" and review of claims arising from such detention is barred under § 1252(g). Id. (citing Sissoko v. Rocha, 509 F.3d 947, 949 (9th Cir. 2007)); 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g). As such, judicial review of the claim that Petitioner is entitled to bond is barred by § 1252(g). See S.Q.D.C. v. Bondi, 2025 WL 2617973 at *2 (noting that § 1252(g)'s exception for "pure questions of law" is "narrow" and does not apply to such claims); but see Vasquez Garcia v. Noem, No. 25-cv-02180-DMS-MMP, 2025 WL 2549431, at *4 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 3, 2025).

Moreover, under 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9), "[j]udicial review of all questions of law and fact . . . arising from any action taken or proceeding brought to remove an alien from the United States under this subchapter shall be available only in judicial review of a final order under this section." And judicial review is available only through "a petition for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals." 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(5). The Supreme Court has made it clear that § 1252(b)(9) is "the unmistakable 'zipper' clause," channeling "judicial review of all" "decisions and actions leading up to or consequent upon final orders of deportation," including "non-final order[s]," into proceedings before a court of appeals. Reno, 525 U.S. at 483, 485; see J.E.F.M. v. Lynch, 837 F.3d 1026, 1031 (9th Cir. 2016) (noting § 1252(b)(9) is "breathtaking in scope and vise-like in grip and therefore swallows up virtually all claims that are tied to removal proceedings"). "Taken together, § 1252(a)(5) and § 1252(b)(9) mean that any issue – whether legal or factual – arising from any removal-related activity can be reviewed only through the [petition for review] PFR process." J.E.F.M., 837 F.3d at 1031.

Critically, "1252(b)(9) is a judicial channeling provision, not a claim-barring one." Aguilar v. ICE, 510 F.3d 1, 11 (1st Cir. 2007). Indeed, 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(D) provides that "[n]othing . . . in any other provision of this chapter . . . shall be construed as precluding review of constitutional claims or questions of law raised upon a petition for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals in accordance with this section." The petition-for-review process before the court of appeals ensures that noncitizens have a forum for claims arising from their immigration proceedings and "receive their day in court." J.E.F.M., 837 F.3d at 1031-32 (internal quotations omitted). That said, these provisions also divest district courts of jurisdiction to review both direct and indirect challenges to removal orders, including decisions to detain for purposes of removal or for proceedings. See Jennings, 583 U.S. at 294-95.

Moreover, "[s]ection 1252(a)(2)(A) is a jurisdiction-stripping and channeling provision, which bars review of almost 'every aspect of the expedited removal process.'" Azimov v. U.S. Dep't of Homeland Sec., No. 22-56034, 2024 WL 687442, at *1 (9th Cir. Feb. 20, 2024) (quoting Mendoza-Linares v. Garland, 51 F.4th 1146, 1154 (9th Cir. 2022) (describing the operation of § 1252(a)(2)(A)). These jurisdiction-stripping provisions cover "the 'procedures and policies' that have been adopted to 'implement' the expedited removal process; the decision to 'invoke' that process in a particular case; the 'application' of that process to a particular alien; and the 'implementation' and 'operation' of any expedited removal order." Mendoza-Lineras, 51 F.4th at 1155. "Congress chose to strictly cabin this court's jurisdiction to review expedited removal orders." Guerrier v. Garland, 18 F.4th 304, 313 (9th Cir. 2021) (finding that the Supreme Court abrogated any "colorable constitutional claims" exception to the limits placed by § 1252(a)(2)(A)); see Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. 103 (holding that limitations within § 1252(a)(2)(A) do not violate the Suspension Clause). "Congress has chosen to explicitly bar nearly all judicial review of expedited removal orders concerning such aliens, including 'review of constitutional claims or questions of law.'" Mendoza-Linares, 51 F.4th at 1148 (citing 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(A), (D)); see Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. at 138-39 (explicitly rejecting Ninth Circuit's holding that an arriving alien has a "constitutional right to expedited removal proceedings that conform to the dictates of due process").

"Congress could scarcely have been more comprehensive in its articulation of the general prohibition on judicial review of expedited removal orders." Mendoza-Lineras, 51 F.4th at 1155. Specifically, Section 1252(a)(2)(A) states:

> (2) Matters not subject to judicial review
> (A) Review relating to section 1225(b)(1)
> Notwithstanding any other provision of law (statutory or nonstatutory), including section 2241 of Title 28, or any other habeas corpus provision, and sections 1361 and 1651 of such title, no court shall have jurisdiction to review-
> (i) except as provided in subsection (e), any individual determination or to entertain any other cause or claim arising from or relating to the implementation or operation of an order of removal pursuant to section 1225(b)(1) of this title,
> (ii) except as provided in subsection (e), a decision by the Attorney General to invoke the provisions of such section,
> (iii) the application of such section to individual aliens, including the determination made under section 1225(b)(1)(B) of this title, or
> (iv) except as provided in subsection (e), procedures and policies adopted by the Attorney General to implement the provisions of section 1225(b)(1) of this title.

8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(A). Thus, "Section 1252(a)(2)(A)(i) deprives courts of jurisdiction to hear a 'cause or claim arising from or relating to the implementation or operation of an order of removal pursuant to section 1225(b)(1),' which plainly includes [Petitioner's] collateral attacks on the validity of the expedited removal order." Azimov, 2024 WL 687442, at *1 (quoting Mendoza-Linares, 51 F.4th at 1155) (citing J.E.F.M. v. Lynch, 837 F.3d 1026, 1031-35 (9th Cir. 2016) (concluding that the "arising from" language in neighboring § 1252(b)(9) sweeps broadly)). By challenging the standards and process of expedited removal proceedings, Petitioner necessarily asks the Court "to do what the statute forbids [it] to do, which is to review 'the application of such section to [her]." Mendoza-Linares, 51 F.4th at 1155. Most notably, a determination made concerning inadmissibility "is not subject to judicial review." Gomez-Cantillano v. Garland, No. 19-72682, 2021 WL 5882034 (9th Cir. Dec. 13, 2021) (citing 8 U.S.C § 1252(a)(2)(A)(iii)). "And § 1252(a)(2)(A)(iv) deprives courts of jurisdiction to review 'procedures and policies adopted by the Attorney General to implement the provisions of section 1225(b)(1) of this title,' which plainly includes [Petitioner's] claims regarding how [Respondents may] implement[]" § 1225(b)(1). Azimov, 2024 WL 687442, at *1 (citing Mendoza-Linares, 51 F.4th at 1154–55).

In setting forth provisions for judicial review of § 1225(b)(1) expedited removal orders, Congress expressly limited available relief: "Without regard to the nature of the action or claim and without regard to the identity of the party or parties bringing the action, no court may" "enter declaratory, injunctive, other equitable relief in any action pertaining to an order to exclude an alien in accordance with section § 1225(b)(1) of this title except as specifically authorized in a subsequent paragraph of this subsection." 8 U.S.C. § 1252(e)(1)(A). Congress delineated two limited avenues for judicial review concerning expedited removal orders: (1) narrow habeas corpus proceedings under § 1252(e)(2); and (2) challenges to the validity of the system under § 1252(e)(3). Any permissible challenge to the validity of the system "is available [only] in an action in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia . . . ." 8 U.S.C. § 1252(e)(3).

Narrow habeas corpus proceedings are expressly "limited to determinations" of three questions: (1) "whether the petitioner is an alien"; (2) "whether the petitioner was ordered removed under [section 1225(b)(1)]"; and (3) "whether the petitioner can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the petitioner is an alien" who has been granted status as a lawful permanent resident, refugee, or asylee. 8 U.S.C. § 1252(e)(2)(A)-(C). "In determining whether an alien has been ordered removed under section 235(b)(1)

[8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)], the court's inquiry shall be limited to whether such an order in fact was issued and whether it relates to the petitioner. There shall be no review of whether the alien is actually inadmissible or entitled to any relief from removal." 8 U.S.C. § 1252(e)(5) (emphasis added). To the extent Petitioner is challenging the expedited process, each of Petitioner's claims fall outside the limited habeas corpus authority provided within § 1252(e)(2).

C. Petitioner is Lawfully Detained

Petitioner's claims for alleged statutory and constitutional violations fail because Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1).

Section 1225 applies to "applicants for admission," who are defined as "alien[s] present in the United States who [have] not been admitted" or "who arrive[] in the United States." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1). Applicants for admission "fall into one of two categories, those covered by § 1225(b)(1) and those covered by § 1225(b)(2)." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287. Section 1225(b)(1) applies to arriving aliens and "certain other" aliens "initially determined to be inadmissible due to fraud, misrepresentation, or lack of valid document." Id.; 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(i), (iii). Though not relevant here, § 1225(b)(2) is "broader" and "serves as a catchall provision." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287. In this statutory scheme, DHS has the sole discretionary authority to temporarily release on parole "any alien applying for admission to the United States" on a "case-by-case basis for urgent humanitarian reasons or significant public benefit." Id. § 1182(d)(5)(A); see Biden v. Texas, 597 U.S. 785, 806 (2022).

In Jennings, the Supreme Court evaluated the proper interpretation of 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b) and stated that "[r]ead most naturally, §§ 1225(b)(1) and (b)(2) [] mandate detention of applicants for admission until certain proceedings have concluded." 583 U.S. at 297. The Court noted that neither § 1225(b)(1) nor § 1225(b)(2) "impose[] any limit on the length of detention" and "neither § 1225(b)(1) nor § 1225(b)(2) say[] anything whatsoever about bond hearings." Id. The Court added that the sole means of release for noncitizens detained under §§ 1225(b)(1) or (b)(2) prior to removal from the United States is temporary parole at the discretion of the Attorney General under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5). Id. at 300. The Court observed that because aliens held under § 1225(b) may be paroled for "urgent humanitarian reasons or significant public benefit," "[t]hat express exception to detention implies that there are no other circumstances under which aliens detained under 1225(b) may be released." Id. (citations and internal quotation omitted) (emphasis in the original). Courts thus may not validly draw additional procedural limitations "out of thin air." Id. at 312. The Supreme Court concluded: "In sum, §§ 1225(b)(1) and (b)(2) mandate detention of [noncitizens] throughout the completion of applicable proceedings." Id. at. 302.

As to the Fifth Amendment, the only due process rights Petitioner has are those rights statutorily afforded by Congress. See Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. at 139 (collecting cases); 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(B)(iii)(IV); Landon v. Plasencia, 459 U.S. 21, 32 (1982) ("This Court has long held that an alien seeking initial admission to the United States requests a privilege and has no constitutional rights regarding his application, for the power to admit or exclude aliens is a sovereign prerogative.") (citations omitted); see generally I.N.S. v. Lopez-Mendoza, 468 U.S. 1032, 1038 (1984) ("Consistent with the civil nature of the proceeding, various protections that apply in the context of a criminal trial do not apply in a deportation hearing."). In Thuraissigiam, the Supreme Court addressed the due process rights of inadmissible arriving noncitizens and stated that such individuals have no due process rights "other than those afforded by statute." Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. at 107; id. at 140 ("[A]n alien in respondent's position has only those rights regarding admission that Congress has provided by statute."). The Supreme Court noted that its determination was supported by "more than a century of precedent." Id. at 138 (citing Nishimura Ekiu v. United States, 142 U.S. 651, 660 (1892); U.S. ex rel. Knauff v. Shaughnessy, 338 U.S. 537, 544 (1950); Shaughnessy v. United States ex rel. Mezei, 345 U.S. 206, 212 (1953); Landon, 459 U.S. at 32); Rauda v. Jennings, 8 F.4th 1050, 1058 (9th Cir. 2021) ("Congress has already balanced the amount of due process available to petitioners with the executive's prerogative to remove individuals, and we decline to expand judicial review beyond the parameters set by Congress."); Mendoza-Linares v. Garland, No. 21-cv-1169-BEN (AHG), 2024 WL 3316306, at *2 (S.D. Cal. June 10, 2024) ("[T]he Court finds that Petitioner has no Fifth Amendment right to a bond hearing pending his removal proceedings. The only due process due an alien seeking admission to the United States is 'those rights regarding admission that Congress has provided by statute.'" (quoting Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. at 140); Zelaya-Gonzalez v. Matuszewski, No. 23-CV-151 JLS (KSC), 2023 WL 3103811, at *4 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 25, 2023) ("Binding Ninth Circuit and Supreme Court precedents are clear that Petitioner lacks any rights beyond those conferred by statute, and no statute entitles Petitioner to a bond hearing.").

Here, Petitioner's removal proceedings are ongoing, and thus, he continues to be subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(B)(ii). As the statutory authority Petitioner is detained under does not afford him a right to a determination by this Court as to whether his release is warranted nor a right to a bond hearing before an immigration judge, the Court should reject his claim that his detention violates the Fifth Amendment's Due Process Clause and deny his requested relief. See Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. at 107, 140; Mezei, 345 U.S. at 212; Guerrier v. Garland, 18 F. 4th 304, 310 (9th Cir. 2021).

Similarly, the APA does not provide an avenue for relief in this case. The APA places limits on when agency action is subject to judicial review. "Agency action made reviewable by statute and final agency action for which there is no other adequate remedy in a court are subject to judicial review." 5 U.S.C. § 704; Navajo Nation v. Dep't of the Interior, 876 F.3d 1144, 1171 (9th Cir. 2017) ("[Section] 704's requirement that to proceed under the APA, agency action must be final or otherwise reviewable by statute is an independent element without which courts may not determine APA claims."). Reviewable "agency action" is defined to include "the whole or a part of an agency rule, order, license, sanction, relief, or the equivalent or denial thereof, or failure to act." 5 U.S.C. § 551(13). "While this definition is 'expansive,' federal courts 'have long recognized that the term [agency action] is not so all-encompassing as to authorize . . . judicial review over everything done by an administrative agency.'" Wild Fish Conservancy v. Jewell, 730 F.3d 791, 800–01 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting Fund for Animals, Inc. v. U.S. Bureau of Land Management, 460 F.3d 13, 19 (D.C. Cir. 2006)). Here, it is not altogether clear what final agency action Petitioner seeks review over. Importantly, habeas relief is available to challenge only the legality or duration of confinement. Pinson, 69 F.4th at 1067; see also Flores-Miramontes, 212 F.3d at 1140 ("For purposes of immigration law, at least, 'judicial review' refers to petitions for review of agency actions, which are governed by the Administrative Procedure Act, while habeas corpus refers to habeas petitions brought directly in district court to challenge illegal confinement."). The Court should therefore reject Petitioner's claim, because it is beyond the scope of habeas jurisdiction.

Accordingly, as Petitioner is detained pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(B)(ii), Petitioner's claims fail on the merits.

IV. CONCLUSION

The Court should deny Petitioner's petition and dismiss this case.
