13 Attorneys for Respondents

14 IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
15 FOR THE DISTRICT OF ARIZONA

16 Blanca Nubia Higueta Florez,
17 Petitioner,
18 v.
19 Fred Figueroa, et al.,
20 Respondents.

No. CV-25-04415-PHX-MTL (DMF)
RESPONSE TO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

21 I. INTRODUCTION

22 Respondents, by and through counsel, respond to the Court's Order to Show Cause (Doc.
23 8), and hence to the Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus (Doc. 1). Petitioner Blanca Nubia 24 Higueta Florez is a national of Colombia who allegedly entered the United States without 25 inspection. See Petition at ¶ 1. The Court should dismiss the Petition or stay this action for 26 three reasons. First, Petitioner is a member of a certified non-opt-out class in Bautista 27 pursuing the same relief she requests here, so her Petition should be dismissed. Second, the 28 Court in Bautista has not yet ordered any class-wide relief. Finally, Respondents preserve and maintain their legal position that Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2).

II. STATUTORY FRAMEWORK.

1 A. Petitioner’s claim is already being litigated in the Bautista class action.

2 Petitioner is currently held in immigration custody without bond pursuant to 3 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2). In this action, Petitioner asks this court to declare that Section 4 1225(b)(2) does not apply to her and to grant her either release from custody or a bond 5 hearing. See Petition at 36. However, because that claim is already being adjudicated in the 6 nationwide Bautista class action, this Court should decline to consider it. See Bautista v.
7 Santacruz, 5:25-cv-1873-SSS-BFM (C.D. Cal.); see also Clinton v. Jones, 520 U.S. 681, 8 706 (1997) (noting that a district court “has broad discretion to stay proceedings as an 9 incident to its power to control its own docket). As part of district courts’ discretion to 10 administer their dockets, courts have dismissed, without prejudice, suits brought by 11 individuals whose claims are duplicative of class claims in other litigation. See, e.g., Griffin 12 v. Gomez, 139 F.3d 905 (9th Cir. 1998) (in habeas case, discussing prior stay of Fifth 13 Amendment challenge pending completion of pending class action); Herrera v. Birkholz, 14 No. 22-cv-07784-RSWL-JDE, 2022 WL 18396018, at *4-6 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 1, 2022), 15 report and recommendation adopted, 2023 WL 319917 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 18, 2023)
16 (dismissing habeas case brought by federal prisoner related to COVID-19 measures 17 reasoning that petitioner’s claims were based, in part, on a duplicative class action and were 18 “not properly before the court.”).

19 Multiple courts of appeals have upheld dismissals of cases where parallel class 20 actions raise the same or substantially similar issues. See, e.g., Crawford v. Bell, 599 F.2d 21 890, 892-93 (9th Cir. 1979) (holding that a district court may dismiss “those portions of 22 [the] complaint which duplicate the [class action’s] allegations and prayer for relief”); 23 McNeil v. Guthrie, 945 F.2d 1163, 1165-66 (10th Cir. 1991) (finding that individual suits 24 for injunctive and declaratory relief cannot be brought where a class action with the same 25 claims exists); Gillespie v. Crawford, 858 F.2d 1101, 1103 (5th Cir. 1988) (once a class 26 action has been certified, “[s]eparate individual suits may not be maintained for equitable 27 relief”); Goff v. Menke, 672 F.2d 702, 704 (8th Cir. 1982) (“If a class member cannot 28 relitigate issues raised in a class action after it has been resolved, a class member should

1 not be able to prosecute a separate equitable action once his or her class has been 2 certified”).

3 Petitioner’s claim seeking to invalidate the Board of Immigration Appeals’ 4 interpretation of Section 1225(b)(2) substantially overlaps with the Bautista nationwide 5 class action. Indeed, on November 25, 2025, the court in Bautista certified, pursuant to 6 Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2), a class of individuals defined as follows:

8 All noncitizens in the United States without lawful status who (1) have 9 entered or will enter the United States without inspection; (2) were not or 10 will not be apprehended upon arrival; and (3) are not or will not be subject 11 to detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c), § 1225(b)(1), or § 1231 at the time the 12 Department of Homeland Security makes an initial custody determination.

13 Bautista v. Santaacruz, 5:25-cv-1873-SSS-BFM (Doc. 82) (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025)
14 (“Class Certification Ruling”). Petitioner acknowledges her class membership in her 15 Petition. Petition at ¶ 2.

16 Because the Bautista class was certified pursuant to FRCP 23(b)(2), see Bautista, 17 5:25-cv-1873-SSS-BFM (Doc. 82), at 14, membership in the class is mandatory with no
18 opportunity to opt out. See Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 361-62 (2011)
19 (stating that Rule 23 “provides no opportunity for (b)(1) or (b)(2) class members to opt out, 20 and does not even oblige the [d]istrict [c]ourt to afford them notice of the action”); 21 Sanderson v. Whoop, Inc., No. 3:23-CV-05477-CRB, 2025 WL 744036, at *15 (N.D. Cal.
22 Mar. 7, 2025) (noting that “23(b)(2) class members have no opportunity to opt out”).
23 Members of FRCP 23(b)(2) classes may not bring individual suits over the same issues 24 covered by the class action. See Crawford v. Bell, 599 F.3d 890 (9th Cir. 1979); see also 25 Gillespie v. Crawford, 858 F.2d 1101, 1103 (5th Cir. 1988); McNeil v. Guthrie, 945 F.2d
26 1163, 1165 (10th Cir. 1991); Stewart v. Asuncion, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 162036 at *5–6 27 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 26, 2016) (collecting cases). “Individual members of the class . . . may 28 assert any equitable or declaratory claims they have, but they must do so by urging further action through the class representative and attorney, including contempt proceedings, or by intervention in the class action.” Gillespie, 858 F.2d at 1165.

1 The Bautista court granted partial summary judgment to the named plaintiffs,
2 Bautista, 5:25-cv-1873-SSS-BFM (Doc. 81) (“Partial MSJ Ruling”), but the court did not 3 order any relief at that time. The case remains pending. As a member of the certified class, 4 Petitioner is entitled to and bound by any relief that the Bautista court ultimately grants, 5 including any applicable injunctive relief. Accordingly, this Court should dismiss her 6 claims seeking release or a bond hearing because they are subsumed within the issues being 7 litigated in Bautista. To do otherwise would undermine what Rule 23 was intended to 8 ensure: consistency of treatment for similarly situated individuals. See Howard v. Aetna
9 Life Ins. Co., No. CV2201505CJCMRWX, 2024 WL 1098789, at *11 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 27, 10 2024). It would also open the floodgates of parallel litigation in district courts all over the 11 country, which could ultimately threaten the certification of the underlying class by 12 creating differences among the class members. The proper way for Petitioner to request 13 relief for her claim is “by urging further action through the class representative and 14 attorney, including contempt proceedings, or by intervention in the class action,” which 15 she is perfectly free to do. Gillespie, 858 F.2d at 1165.

16 B. The Petition should be dismissed or stayed pending an order granting 17 class-wide relief in Bautista.

18 Alternatively, the Petition should be dismissed or stayed pending a resolution of the 19 Bautista action because Petitioner is currently litigating this exact claim in another court, 20 and the other action was first-in-time. A court may “decline jurisdiction over an action 21 when a complaint involving the same parties and issues has already been filed in another 22 district.” Pacesetter Sys. v. Medtronic, 678 F.2d 93, 95 (9th Cir. 1982) (citing Church of 23 Scientology of Cal. v. United States Dep’t of the Army, 611 F.2d 738, 749 (9th Cir. 1979)).
24 “Normally sound judicial administration would indicate that when two identical actions are 25 filed in courts of concurrent jurisdiction, the court which first acquired jurisdiction should 26 try the lawsuit and no purpose would be served by proceeding with a second action.” Id.
27 Although the first-in-time rule is permissive, not mandatory, it “should not be disregarded 28 lightly.” Id. (quoting Church of Scientology, 678 F.2d at 750).

1 Here, principles of comity and efficiency strongly suggest that this Court should 2 dismiss the Petition or stay this action pending further proceedings in Bautista. Petitioner
3 is a member of the class certified in the Bautista action. The petition in Bautista was filed 4 on July 23, 2025, and the parties were given substantial and ample time to brief their 5 positions. The Bautista court then certified a class, granted summary judgment, and is 6 presumably in the process of working with the parties to craft appropriate relief. By 7 contrast, the Petition here was filed November 26, 2025, and the Court issued its Order to 8 Show Cause eight days later, granting Respondents a mere week to brief their positions. It 9 is unclear how the “goal of judicial efficiency,” Pacesetter Sys., 678 F.2d at 96, would be 10 served through granting relief in the present action rather than in Bautista. Moreover, 11 Petitioner is still a member of the Bautista class. If this Court chooses to exercise 12 jurisdiction over Petitioner’s claim now, it may muddle the Bautista action by casting doubt 13 on the membership of the class. Finally, Petitioner cannot “identify any legal bar, or even 14 a practical impediment,” to her ability to receive full and fair relief from the Bautista suit.
15 See Minor v. Sotheby’s, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 590 at *6 (N.D. Cal. Jan 7, 2009). This 16 Court should thus decline to exercise jurisdiction over this matter.

17 Because Petitioner is bound as a member of the non-opt out class of individuals 18 governed by the Bautista suit, this Court should dismiss the Petition since another court is 19 already considering Petitioner’s alleged statutory right to a bond hearing. This Court should 20 also dismiss the Petition because it would harm the goals of judicial efficiency and comity 21 between courts if this court chooses to hear this claim.

22 C. The Bautista orders have no preclusive effect on this case.

23 Even if this Court determined that it may exercise jurisdiction over Petitioner’s 24 duplicative action, Bautista has ordered no relief, so this Court is not obligated to do 25 anything based thereon. Neither the Partial MSJ Ruling nor the Class Certification Ruling 26 entered declaratory judgment as to the nationwide class or otherwise provided for class-27 wide relief. See Partial MSJ Ruling at *17 (granting motion for partial summary judgment 28 but expressly not ordering any relief) and Class Certification Ruling at *15 (granting

1 motion for class certification but ordering only that class be certified, Petitioners be 2 appointed class representatives, Petitioners' counsel be appointed class counsel, ordering 3 a joint status report and setting status conference).¹ In the Partial MSJ Ruling, the court 4 also expressly declined to enter final judgment as to the claims at issue in the motion under 5 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54(b). Partial MSJ Ruling at *17. Rather, in the Class 6 Certification Ruling, the court set a January 9, 2026, joint status report deadline and 7 January 16, 2026, status conference indicating that the court intends to address the question 8 of final relief later. Class Certification Ruling at *15.

9 To be proper, a declaratory judgment must have preclusive effect. "Without 10 preclusive effect, a declaratory judgment is little more than an advisory opinion." Haaland 11 v. Brackeen, 599 U.S. 255, 293 (2023); see also Wells v. Johnson, 150 F.4th 289, 301 (4th 12 Cir. 2025) (stating that the only reason a proper declaratory judgment does not violate 13 Article III's requirements is because it has preclusive effect between the parties); 14 Headwaters Inc. v. U.S. Forest Serv., 399 F.3d 1047, 1051 (9th Cir. 2005). And preclusive
15 effect cannot be obtained without sufficient finality. B & B Hardware, Inc. v. Hargis 16 Indus., Inc., 575 U.S. 138, 148 (2015) (citing Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 27, 17 p. 250 (1980), for the general rule that an issue must be determined by a "valid and final 18 judgment" for preclusion to apply); Luben Indus., Inc. v. United States, 707 F.2d 1037,

19 _____
20 ¹ In other cases, this Court has contended that "declaratory relief was expressly extended 21 [by the Bautista court] to the entire nationwide class, not merely the named petitioners."
22 See, e.g., Guillen v. Unknown Party, No. CV-25-04501-PHX-SHD (JZB) (Doc. 5) at 3
23 (citing Class Certification Ruling at 14–15). The Bautista court did say that "[w]hen 24 considering [the decision to certify a class under FRCP 23(b)(2)] with the MSJ Order, the 25 Court extends the same declaratory relief granted to Petitioners to the Bond Eligible Class 26 as a whole." See Class Certification Ruling at 14. However, the Bautista court never issued 27 an order accordingly, either in the Class Certification Ruling, see Class Certification Ruling 28 at 15, or anywhere else. The Partial MSJ Ruling granted declaratory relief only to the named Plaintiffs, so it cannot fairly be read to grant relief to the class. Indeed, the Bautista petitioners recently filed a motion requesting clarification of the Class Certification Ruling requesting that the court issue an order extending its relief to all class members. Bautista, 5:25-cv-1873-SSS-BFM (Doc. 87). Respondents do not know why the Bautista court declined to order declaratory relief for the class members, but it is clear that no such order was issued.

1 1040 (9th Cir. 1983) (affirming district court decision not to apply preclusive effect to an 2 interlocutory decision that “could not have been the subject of an appeal at the time”);
3 Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 28, p. 273 (1980) (issue preclusion does not apply 4 when the “party against whom preclusion is sought could not, as a matter of law, have 5 obtained review of the judgment in the initial action”; id. at cmt. a (“[T]he availability of 6 review for the correction of errors has become critical to the application of preclusion 7 doctrine.”)).

8 Absent an entry of final judgment on the entire case, or a certification of partial final 9 judgment under Rule 54(b), there is no declaratory judgment. The Partial MSJ Ruling does 10 not operate as a “judgment” because it is not an appealable order and “does not end the 11 action as to any of the claims or parties and may be revised at any time before the entry of 12 a judgment adjudicating all the claims and all the parties’ rights and liabilities.” 13 FRCP 54(a), (b). Thus, there is no class-wide judgment, let alone any final judgment that 14 could have preclusive effect as to class members.

15 D. Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2).

16 Petitioner argues that her detention is unlawful because Respondents denied her a 17 bond hearing, which Respondents did because of an immigration judge’s finding that 18 Respondent was categorically ineligible for release. Petitioner argues that denying her a 19 bond hearing constitutes a violation of her due process rights. Respondents maintain that 20 Petitioner is an “applicant for admission” who is “seeking admission” to the United States.
21 Respondents argue that all such people must be detained for removal proceedings under 8 22 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A) in most circumstances. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(3) (“All aliens . . .
23 who are applicants for admission or otherwise seeking admission or readmission to or 24 transit through the United States shall be inspected by immigration officers.”) (emphasis 25 added); 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1) (“An alien present in the United States who has not been 26 admitted or who arrives in the United States . . . shall be deemed for purposes of this chapter 27 an applicant for admission.”); 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) (“[I]n the case of an alien who is 28 an applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien

For the foregoing reasons, Respondents respectfully request that this Court deny the Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus (Doc. 1).
