1 OPPOSITION TO EX PARTE APPLICATION FOR TEMPORARY 2 RESTRAINING ORDER

3 Respondents hereby oppose Petitioner’s ex parte application for a temporary 4 restraining order compelling an immigration judge to provide an individualized bond 5 hearing to Petitioner under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) within seven days (the “Application”)
6 [Dkt. 2]. The government reiterates here the legal position it has taken in its opposition 7 to the ex parte TRO application filed in the Bautista case, 5:25-cv-01873-SSS-BFM, 8 which the government filed on July 24, 2025 as Docket no. 8.¹

9 However, the government reiterates here the legal position it has taken in the 10 Bautista case presided over by the Honorable Judge Sykes, Case no. 5:25-cv-01873-11 SSS-BFM.² Judge Sykes granted the ex parte TRO application in Bautista via order 12 issued on July 28, 2025, requiring a Section 1226(a) bond hearing to be provided to the 13 petitioners within seven days [Dkt. 14]. More recently in Bautista, Judge Sykes granted 14 summary judgment on November 20, 2025 [Dkt. 81], and subsequently granted class 15 certification on November 25, 2025 [Dkt. 82].

16 In his TRO Application, the instant Petitioner argues that the class certification 17 order in Bautista compels a custody redetermination (bond) hearing in his case. While 18 the issue is not yet resolved, it appears that (a) other habeas actions should now be stayed 19 or dismissed pending resolution of Bautista; since the certification of a Rule 23(b)(2) 20 class precludes individual suits (like this) for the same injunctive or declaratory relief; 21 and (b) the class certification order is not a “declaratory judgment” because a court 22 cannot grant declaratory relief prior to the entry of a final judgment, i.e., a declaratory 23 judgment. See Doran v. Salem Inn, Inc., 422 U.S. 922, 931 (1975) (“prior to final

26 issued on July 28, 2025, requiring a Section 1226(a) bond hearing to be provided to the 27 petitioners within seven days [Dkt. 14]. More recently in Bautista, Judge Sykes granted 28 summary judgment on November 20, 2025 [Dkt. 81] and granted class certification on 29 November 25, 2025 [Dkt. 82]. Plaintiffs have moved for clarification and 30 reconsideration of those decisions.

1 judgment there is no established declaratory remedy comparable to a preliminary 2 injunction”).

3 In any event, the same legal issue at issue in Bautista has subsequently been raised 4 and resolved in this District in a series of other cases including Javier Ceja Gonzalez, et 5 al. v. Kristi Noem, et al., 5:25-cv-02054-ODW-ADS, Ruben Benitez et al. v. Kristi 6 Noem, et al., 5:25-cv-02190-RGK-AS, and Miguel Portillo, et al. v. Kristi Noem, et al., 7 5:25-cv-02892-JFW-PVC (October 31, 2025 order granting temporary restraining order) 8 [Dkt. no. 7]. Judge Wilson recently issued an order finding that such detentions are 9 governed by § 1225(b)(2). See Altamirano Ramos v. Lyons et al., 2:25-cv-09785-SVW-10 AJR (C.D. Cal. Nov. 12, 2025) (denying application for bond hearing by TRO) [Dkt. no.
11 8]. Likewise, in an even more recent decision, Judge Blumenfeld, Jr., denied a TRO 12 finding detentions are governed by § 1225(b)(2), and not § 1226(a). See Hernandez Cruz 13 v. Noem et al., 2:25-cv- 8:25-cv-02566-SB-MAA (C.D. Cal. Dec. 2, 2025) (denying 14 application for bond hearing by TRO) [Dkt. no. 11].

15 The Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) has ruled on this issue by order dated 16 September 5, 2025 in Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216 (BIA 2025). After 17 detailed analysis, the BIA determined that based on the plain language of section 18 235(b)(2)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) (2018), 19 Immigration Judges lack authority to hear bond requests or to grant bond to aliens who 20 are present in the United States without admission. Like the Altamiranos Ramos
21 decision, other District Courts have followed the BIA’s approach. See Barrios Sandoval 22 v. Acuna, No. 6:25-cv-01467, 2025 WL 3048926 (W.D. La. Oct. 31, 2025); Cirrus Rojas
23 v. Olson, No. 25-cv-1437-bhl, 2025 WL 3033967 (E.D. Wis. Oct. 30, 2025); Vargas
24 Lopez v. Trump, --- F.Supp.3d ----, 2025 WL 2780351 (D. Neb. Sept. 30, 2025); Chavez
25 v. Noem, --- F.Supp.3d ----, 2025 WL 2730228 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 24, 2025).

26 I. INTRODUCTION

27 Petitioner, a detainee in immigration custody who was present in the United States 28 without ever having been inspected and admitted, filed a petition for writ of habeas

1 corpus (“Petition”) [Dkt. 1] asking the Court to release him or provide him a bond 2 hearing within seven days. Petitioner then filed his ex parte Application seeking 3 essentially the same relief. The Application and the Petition should be denied for two 4 reasons.

5 First, numerous provisions of 8 U.S.C. § 1252 deprive this Court of jurisdiction to 6 review the Petitioner’s claims and preclude this Court from granting the relief that they 7 seek. Congress has unambiguously stripped federal courts of jurisdiction over challenges 8 to the commencement of removal proceedings, including detention pending removal 9 proceedings. Congress further directed that any challenges arising from any removal-10 related activity—including detention pending removal proceedings—must be brought 11 before the appropriate federal court of appeals, not a district court. Petitioner’s removal 12 proceedings have commenced and they are being detained pending removal.

13 Second, assuming jurisdiction, Petitioner nonetheless fails to demonstrate they are 14 entitled to injunctive relief. Petitioner cannot show a likelihood of success on the merits 15 because they seek to circumvent the detention statute under which they are rightfully 16 detained to secure bond hearings that they are not entitled to. Petitioner falls precisely 17 within the statutory definition of aliens subject to mandatory detention without bond 18 found in § 1225(b)(2), i.e., an alien present in the United States that has not been 19 admitted.³ As the BIA determined in Matter of Yajure, Immigration Judges lack 20 authority to hear bond requests or to grant bond to aliens who are present in the United 21 States without admission.

22 For these reasons, and those set forth below, the Court should deny Petitioner’s 23

24 ³ As the Supreme Court explained in Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 287 25 (2018), “Under ... 8 U.S.C. § 1225, an alien who ‘arrives in the United States,’ or ‘is 26 present’ in this country but ‘has not been admitted,’ is treated as “an applicant for 27 admission.’ § 1225(a)(1). Applicants for admission must ‘be inspected by immigration 28 officers’ to ensure that they may be admitted into the country consistent with U.S. immigration law. § 1225(a)(3).” Moreover, as the BIA held in Matter of Yajure, “aliens who are present in the United States without admission are applicants for admission as defined under ... 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), and must be detained for the duration of their removal proceedings. 29 I&N Dec. at 220 (citing Jennings, 583 U.S. at 300).

1 request for relief and dismiss this action in its entirety.

2 II. STATUTORY BACKGROUND

3 A. Detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225

4 Section 1225 applies to “applicants for admission,” who are defined as “alien[s] 5 present in the United States who [have] not been admitted” or “who arrive[] in the 6 United States.” 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1). Applicants for admission “fall into one of two 7 categories, those covered by § 1225(b)(1) and those covered by § 1225(b)(2).” Jennings 8 v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 287 (2018).

9 Section 1225(b)(1) applies to arriving aliens and “certain other” aliens “initially 10 determined to be inadmissible due to fraud, misrepresentation, or lack of valid 11 documentation.” Id.; 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(i), (iii). These aliens are generally subject 12 to expedited removal proceedings. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(i). But if the alien 13 “indicates an intention to apply for asylum . . . or a fear of persecution,” immigration 14 officers will refer the alien for a credible fear interview. Id. § 1225(b)(1)(A)(ii). An alien 15 with “a credible fear of persecution” is “detained for further consideration of the 16 application for asylum.” Id. § 1225(b)(1)(B)(ii). If the alien does not indicate an intent to 17 apply for asylum, express a fear of persecution, or is “found not to have such a fear,” he 18 is detained until removed. Id. §§ 1225(b)(1)(A)(i), (B)(iii)(IV).

19 Section 1225(b)(2) is “broader” and “serves as a catchall provision.” Jennings, 20 583 U.S. at 287. It “applies to all applicants for admission not covered by § 1225(b)(1).” 21 Id. Under § 1225(b)(2), an alien “who is an applicant for admission” shall be detained 22 for a removal proceeding “if the examining immigration officer determines that [the] 23 alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted.” 8 24 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A); see Matter of Q. Li, 29 I. & N. Dec. 66, 68 (BIA 2025) (“for 25 aliens arriving in and seeking admission into the United States who are placed directly in 26 full removal proceedings, section 235(b)(2)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), 27 mandates detention ‘until removal proceedings have concluded.’”) (citing Jennings, 583 28 U.S. at 299). Still, the Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”) has the sole 1 discretionary authority to temporarily release on parole “any alien applying for 2 admission to the United States” on a “case-by-case basis for urgent humanitarian reasons 3 or significant public benefit.” Id. § 1182(d)(5)(A); see Biden v. Texas, 597 U.S. 785, 806 4 (2022).

5 B. Detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a)

6 Section 1226 provides for arrest and detention “pending a decision on whether the 7 alien is to be removed from the United States.” 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Under § 1226(a), the 8 government may detain an alien during his removal proceedings, release him on bond, or 9 release him on conditional parole.⁴ By regulation, immigration officers can release aliens 10 if the alien demonstrates that he “would not pose a danger to property or persons” and 11 “is likely to appear for any future proceeding.” 8 C.F.R. § 236.1(c)(8). An alien can also 12 request a custody redetermination (i.e., a bond hearing) by an immigration judge (“IJ”) at 13 any time before a final order of removal is issued. See 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a); 8 C.F.R.
14 §§ 236.1(d)(1), 1236.1(d)(1), 1003.19.

15 At a custody redetermination, the IJ may continue detention or release the alien on 16 bond or conditional parole. 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a); 8 C.F.R. § 1236.1(d)(1). IJs have broad 17 discretion in deciding whether to release an alien on bond. In re Guerra, 24 I. & N. Dec.
18 37, 39–40 (BIA 2006) (listing nine factors for IJs to consider). But regardless of the 19 factors IJs consider, an alien “who presents a danger to persons or property should not be 20 released during the pendency of removal proceedings.” Id. at 38.

21 C. Review at the Board of Immigration Appeals (“BIA”)

22 The BIA is an appellate body within the Executive Office for Immigration Review 23 (“EOIR”). See 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(1). Members of the BIA possess delegated authority 24 from the Attorney General. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(a)(1). The BIA is “charged with the 25

26 ⁴ Being “conditionally paroled under the authority of § 1226(a)” is distinct from 27 being “paroled into the United States under the authority of § 1182(d)(5)(A).” Ortega- 28 Cervantes v. Gonzales, 501 F.3d 1111, 1116 (9th Cir. 2007) (holding that because release on “conditional parole” under § 1226(a) is not a parole, the alien was not eligible for adjustment of status under § 1255(a)).

1 review of those administrative adjudications under the [INA] that the Attorney General 2 may by regulation assign to it,” including IJ custody determinations. 8 C.F.R.
3 §§ 1003.1(d)(1), 236.1; 1236.1. The BIA not only resolves particular disputes before it, 4 but also “through precedent decisions, [it] shall provide clear and uniform guidance to 5 DHS, the immigration judges, and the general public on the proper interpretation and 6 administration of the [INA] and its implementing regulations.” Id. § 1003.1(d)(1). “The 7 decision of the [BIA] shall be final except in those cases reviewed by the Attorney 8 General.” 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(7).

9 III. ARGUMENT

10 A. The Court Lacks Jurisdiction to Entertain Petitioner’s Action under 8 11 U.S.C. § 1252.

12 As a threshold matter, 8 U.S.C. §§ 1252(g) and (b)(9) preclude review of 13 Petitioner’s claims. Accordingly, Petitioner is unable to show a likelihood of success on 14 the merits.

15 First, Section 1252(g) specifically deprives courts of jurisdiction, including 16 habeas corpus jurisdiction, to review “any cause or claim by or on behalf of any alien 17 arising from the decision or action by the Attorney General to [1] commence 18 proceedings, [2] adjudicate cases, or [3] execute removal orders against any alien under 19 this chapter.”⁵ 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) (emphasis added). Section 1252(g) eliminates 20 jurisdiction “[e]xcept as provided in this section and notwithstanding any other provision 21 of law (statutory or nonstatutory), including section 2241 of title 28, United States Code, 22 or any other habeas corpus provision, and sections 1361 and 1651 of such title.”⁶ Except 23 as provided in § 1252, courts “cannot entertain challenges to the enumerated executive 25 ⁵ Much of the Attorney General’s authority has been transferred to the Secretary of 26 Homeland Security and many references to the Attorney General are understood to refer 27 to the Secretary. See Clark v. Martinez, 543 U.S. 371, 374 n.1 (2005).

28 ⁶ Congress initially passed § 1252(g) in the IIRIRA, Pub. L. 104-208, 110 Stat.
29 3009. In 2005, Congress amended § 1252(g) by adding “(statutory or nonstatutory), 30 including section 2241 of title 28, United States Code, or any other habeas corpus 31 provision, and sections 1361 and 1651 of such title” after “notwithstanding any other 32 provision of law.” REAL ID Act of 2005, Pub. L. 109-13, § 106(a), 119 Stat. 231, 311.

1 branch decisions or actions.” E.F.L. v. Prim, 986 F.3d 959, 964–65 (7th Cir. 2021).

2 Section 1252(g) also bars district courts from hearing challenges to the method by 3 which the Secretary of Homeland Security chooses to commence removal proceedings, 4 including the decision to detain an alien pending removal. See Alvarez v. ICE, 818 F.3d 5 1194, 1203 (11th Cir. 2016) (“By its plain terms, [§ 1252(g)] bars us from questioning
6 ICE’s discretionary decisions to commence removal” and also to review “ICE’s decision 7 to take [plaintiff] into custody and to detain him during removal proceedings”).

8 Petitioner’s claims stem from their detention during removal proceedings. That 9 detention arises from the decision to commence such proceedings against them. See, e.g., 10 Valencia-Mejia v. United States, 2008 WL 4286979, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 15, 2008)
11 (“The decision to detain plaintiff until his hearing before the Immigration Judge arose 12 from this decision to commence proceedings[.]”); Wang v. United States, 2010 WL 13 11463156, at *6 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 18, 2010); Tazu v. Att’y Gen. U.S., 975 F.3d 292, 298– 14 99 (3d Cir. 2020) (holding that 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) and (b)(9) deprive district court of 15 jurisdiction to review action to execute removal order).

16 As other courts have held, “[f]or the purposes of § 1252, the Attorney General 17 commences proceedings against an alien when the alien is issued a Notice to Appear 18 before an immigration court.” Herrera-Correra v. United States, 2008 WL 11336833, at 19 *3 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 11, 2008). “The Attorney General may arrest the alien against whom 20 proceedings are commenced and detain that individual until the conclusion of those 21 proceedings.” Id. at *3. “Thus, an alien’s detention throughout this process arises from 22 the Attorney General’s decision to commence proceedings” and review of claims arising 23 from such detention is barred under § 1252(g). Id. (citing Sissoko v. Rocha, 509 F.3d 24 947, 949 (9th Cir. 2007)); Wang, 2010 WL 11463156, at *6; 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g). As 25 such, judicial review of the Application and Petition is barred by § 1252(g). The Court 26 should dismiss for lack of jurisdiction.

27 Second, under § 1252(b)(9), “judicial review of all questions of law . . . including 28 interpretation and application of statutory provisions . . . arising from any action

1 taken . . . to remove an alien from the United States” is only proper before the 2 appropriate federal court of appeals in the form of a petition for review of a final 3 removal order. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9); Reno v. American-Arab Anti-Discrimination
4 Comm., 525 U.S. 471, 483 (1999). Section 1252(b)(9) is an “unmistakable ‘zipper’ 5 clause” that “channels judicial review of all [claims arising from deportation 6 proceedings]” to a court of appeals in the first instance. Id.; see Lopez v. Barr, No. CV 7 20-1330 (JRT/BRT), 2021 WL 195523, at *2 (D. Minn. Jan. 20, 2021) (citing Nasrallah 8 v. Barr, 590 U.S. 573, 579–80 (2020)).

9 Moreover, § 1252(a)(5) provides that a petition for review is the exclusive means 10 for judicial review of immigration proceedings:

11 Notwithstanding any other provision of law (statutory or nonstatutory), . . .
12 a petition for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals in 13 accordance with this section shall be the sole and exclusive means for 14 judicial review of an order of removal entered or issued under any provision 15 of this chapter, except as provided in subsection (e) [concerning aliens not 16 admitted to the United States].

17 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(5). “Taken together, § 1252(a)(5) and § 1252(b)(9) mean that any 18 issue—whether legal or factual—arising from any removal-related activity can be 19 reviewed only through the [petition-for-review] process.” J.E.F.M. v. Lynch, 837 F.3d 20 1026, 1031 (9th Cir. 2016) (emphasis in original); see id. at 1035 (“§§ 1252(a)(5) and 21 [(b)(9)] channel review of all claims, including policies-and-practices challenges . . .
22 whenever they ‘arise from’ removal proceedings”); accord Ruiz v. Mukasey, 552 F.3d 23 269, 274 n.3 (2d Cir. 2009) (only when the action is “unrelated to any removal action or 24 proceeding” is it within the district court’s jurisdiction); cf. Xiao Ji Chen v. U.S. Dep’t of 25 Justice, 434 F.3d 144, 151 n.3 (2d Cir. 2006) (a “primary effect” of the REAL ID Act is 26 to “limit all aliens to one bite of the apple” (internal quotation marks omitted)).

27 Critically, “[§] 1252(b)(9) is a judicial channeling provision, not a claim-barring 28 one.” Aguilar v. ICE, 510 F.3d 1, 11 (1st Cir. 2007). Indeed, 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(D)

1 provides that “[n]othing . . . in any other provision of this chapter . . . shall be construed 2 as precluding review of constitutional claims or questions of law raised upon a petition 3 for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals in accordance with this section.”
4 See also Ajlani v. Chertoff, 545 F.3d 229, 235 (2d Cir. 2008) (“[J]urisdiction to review 5 such claims is vested exclusively in the courts of appeals[.]”). The petition-for-review 6 process before the court of appeals ensures that aliens have a proper forum for claims 7 arising from their immigration proceedings and “receive their day in court.” J.E.F.M., 8 837 F.3d at 1031–32 (internal quotations omitted); see also Rosario v. Holder, 627 F.3d 9 58, 61 (2d Cir. 2010) (“The REAL ID Act of 2005 amended the [IIRIRA] to obviate . . .
10 Suspension Clause concerns” by permitting judicial review of “nondiscretionary” BIA 11 determinations and “all constitutional claims or questions of law.”).

12 In evaluating the reach of subsections (a)(5) and (b)(9), the Second Circuit 13 explained that jurisdiction turns on the substance of the relief sought. Delgado v.
14 Quarantillo, 643 F.3d 52, 55 (2d Cir. 2011). Those provisions divest district courts of 15 jurisdiction to review both direct and indirect challenges to removal orders, including 16 decisions to detain for purposes of removal or for proceedings. See Jennings, 583 U.S. at 17 294–95 (section 1252(b)(9) includes challenges to the “decision to detain [an alien] in 18 the first place or to seek removal[.]”). Here, Petitioner challenges the government’s 19 decision and action to detain them, which arises from DHS’s decision to commence 20 removal proceedings, and is thus an “action taken . . . to remove [them] from the United 21 States.” See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9); see also, e.g., Jennings, 583 U.S. at 294–95; Velasco 22 Lopez v. Decker, 978 F.3d 842, 850 (2d Cir. 2020) (finding that 8 U.S.C. § 1226(e) did 23 not bar review in that case because the petitioner did not challenge “his initial 24 detention”); Saadulloev v. Garland, No. 3:23-CV-00106, 2024 WL 1076106, at *3 25 (W.D. Pa. Mar. 12, 2024) (recognizing that there is no judicial review of the threshold 26 detention decision, which flows from the government’s decision to “commence 27 proceedings”). As such, the Court lacks jurisdiction over this action. The reasoning in 28 Jennings outlines why Petitioner’s claims are unreviewable here.

1 B. Even Assuming Jurisdiction, Petitioner Fails to Meet the High Bar for 2 Injunctive Relief.

3 1. Petitioner Is Unable to Show a Likelihood of Success on the Merits.

4 a. Under the Plain Text of § 1225, Petitioner Must Be Detained 5 Pending the Outcome of Their Removal Proceedings.

6 The Court should reject Petitioner’s argument that § 1226(a) governs their 7 detention instead of § 1225. When there is “an irreconcilable conflict in two legal 8 provisions,” then “the specific governs over the general.” Karczewski v. DCH Mission 9 Valley LLC, 862 F.3d 1006, 1015 (9th Cir. 2017). § 1226(a) “applies to aliens “arrested 10 and detained pending a decision” on removal. 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). In contrast, § 1225 is 11 narrower. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225. It applies only to “applicants for admission”; that is, as 12 relevant here, aliens present in the United States who have not be admitted. See id.; see 13 also Florida v. United States, 660 F. Supp. 3d 1239, 1275 (N.D. Fla. 2023). Because 14 Petitioner falls within that category, the specific detention authority under § 1225 15 governs over the general authority found at § 1226(a).

16 The BIA recently analyzed and decided this legal issue in its order issued on 17 September 5, 2025 in Matter of Jonathan Javier Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 18 2025). After detailed analysis, the BIA determined that based on the plain language of 19 section 235(b)(2)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) 20 (2018), Immigration Judges lack authority to hear bond requests or to grant bond to 21 aliens who are present in the United States without admission. Other District Courts have 22 followed the BIA’s approach. See Altamirano Ramos v. Lyons et al., 2:25-cv-09785-23 SVW-AJR (C.D. Cal. Nov. 12, 2025) (denying application for bond hearing by TRO)
24 [Dkt. no. 8]; See Barrios Sandoval v. Acuna, No. 6:25-cv-01467, 2025 WL 3048926
25 (W.D. La. Oct. 31, 2025); Cirrus Rojas v. Olson, No. 25-cv-1437-bhl, 2025 WL
26 3033967 (E.D. Wis. Oct. 30, 2025); Vargas Lopez v. Trump, --- F.Supp.3d ----, 2025 WL
27 2780351 (D. Neb. Sept. 30, 3025); Chavez v. Noem, --- F.Supp.3d ----, 2025 WL 28 2730228 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 24, 2025).

1 “[T]he BIA is the subject-matter expert in immigration bond decisions.” Aden v.
2 Nielsen, 2019 WL 5802013, at *2 (W.D. Wash. Nov. 7, 2019). The BIA is well-3 positioned to assess how agency practice affects the interplay between 8 U.S.C. §§ 1225 4 and 1226. See Delgado v. Sessions, 2017 WL 4776340, at *2 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 15, 5 2017) (noting a denial of bond to an immigration detainee was “a question well suited 6 for agency expertise”); Matter of M-S-, 27 I&N Dec. 509, 515-18 (2019) (addressing 7 interplay of §§ 1225(b)(1) and 1226).

8 The BIA’s decision in Matter of Yajure is based upon and consistent with the 9 governing statutory language. Under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a), an “applicant for admission” is 10 defined as an “alien present in the United States who has not been admitted or who 11 arrives in the United States.” Applicants for admission “fall into one of two categories, 12 those covered by § 1225(b)(1) and those covered by § 1225(b)(2).” Jennings, 583 U.S. at 13 287. Section 1225(b)(2)—the provision relevant here—is the “broader” of the two. Id. It 14 “serves as a catchall provision that applies to all applicants for admission not covered by 15 § 1225(b)(1) (with specific exceptions not relevant here).” Id. And § 1225(b)(2) 16 mandates detention. Id. at 297; see also 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2); Matter of Q. Li, 29 I & N 17 Dec. at 69 (“[A]n applicant for admission who is arrested and detained without a warrant 18 while arriving in the United States, whether or not at a port of entry, and subsequently 19 placed in removal proceedings is detained under section 235(b) of the INA, 8 U.S.C.
20 § 1225(b), and is ineligible for any subsequent release on bond under section 236(a) of 21 the INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a).”). Section 1225(b) therefore applies because Petitioner is 22 present in the United States without being admitted.

23 The BIA has long recognized that “many people who are not actually requesting 24 permission to enter the United States in the ordinary sense are nevertheless deemed to be 25 ‘seeking admission’ under the immigration laws.” Matter of Lemus-Losa, 25 I. & N.
26 Dec. 734, 743 (BIA 2012). Statutory language “is known by the company it keeps.”
27 Marquez-Reyes v. Garland, 36 F.4th 1195, 1202 (9th Cir. 2022) (quoting McDonnell v.
28 United States, 579 U.S. 550, 569 (2016)). The phrase “seeking admission” in 1 § 1225(b)(2)(A) must be read in the context of the definition of “applicant for 2 admission” in § 1225(a)(1). Applicants for admission are both those individuals present 3 without admission and those who arrive in the United States. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1).

4 Both are understood to be “seeking admission” under §1225(a)(1). See Lemus-Losa, 25 I.
5 & N. Dec. at 743. Congress made that clear in § 1225(a)(3), which requires all aliens 6 “who are applicants for admission or otherwise seeking admission” to be inspected by 7 immigration officers. 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(3). The word “or” here “introduce[s] an 8 appositive—a word or phrase that is synonymous with what precedes it (‘Vienna or 9 Wien,’ ‘Batman or the Caped Crusader’).” United States v. Woods, 571 U.S. 31, 45 10 (2013).

11 The court’s decision in Florida v. United States is instructive here. The district 12 court held that 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b) mandates detention of applicants for admission 13 throughout removal proceedings, rejecting the assertion that DHS has discretion to 14 choose to detain an applicant for admission under either section 1225(b) or 1226(a).
15 Florida v. United States, 660 F. Supp. 3d 1239, 1275 (N.D. Fla. 2023), appeal dismissed, 16 2023 WL 5212561 (11th Cir. July 11, 2023). Such discretion “would render mandatory 17 detention under § 1225(b) meaningless. Indeed, the 1996 expansion of § 1225(b) to 18 include illegal border crossers would make little sense if DHS retained discretion to 19 apply § 1226(a) and release illegal border crossers whenever the agency saw fit.” Id. The 20 court pointed to Demore v. Kim, 538 U.S. 510, 518 (2003), in which the Supreme Court 21 explained that “wholesale failure” by the federal government motivated the 1996 22 amendments to the INA. Florida, 660 F. Supp. 3d at 1275. The court also relied on, 23 Matter of M-S-, 27 I&N Dec. 509, 516 (A.G. 2019), in which the Attorney General 24 explained “section [1225] (under which detention is mandatory) and section [1226(a)] 25 (under which detention is permissive) can be reconciled only if they apply to different 26 classes of aliens.” Florida, 660 F. Supp. 3d at 1275.

1 b. Congress did not intend to treat individuals who unlawfully 2 enter the country better than those who appear at a port of 3 entry.

4 When the plain text of a statute is clear, “that meaning is controlling” and courts 5 “need not examine legislative history.” Washington v. Chimei Innolux Corp., 659 F.3d 6 842, 848 (9th Cir. 2011). But to the extent legislative history is relevant here, nothing 7 “refutes the plain language” of § 1225. Suzlon Energy Ltd. v. Microsoft Corp., 671 F.3d 8 726, 730 (9th Cir. 2011). Section 1225 was added by Congress under the IIRIRA to 9 correct “an anomaly whereby immigrants who were attempting to lawfully enter the 10 United States were in a worse position than persons who had crossed the border 11 unlawfully.” Torres v. Barr, 976 F.3d 918, 928 (9th Cir. 2020) (en banc), declined to 12 extend by, United States v. Gambino-Ruiz, 91 F.4th 981 (9th Cir. 2024). It “intended to 13 replace certain aspects of the [then] current ‘entry doctrine,’ under which illegal aliens 14 who have entered the United States without inspection gain equities and privileges in 15 immigration proceedings that are not available to aliens who present themselves for 16 inspection at a port of entry.” Id. (quoting H.R. Rep. 104-469, pt. 1, at 225). The Court 17 should reject Petitioner’s interpretation because it would put aliens who “crossed the 18 border unlawfully” in a better position than those “who present themselves for inspection 19 at a port of entry.” Id. Aliens who presented at port of entry would be subject to 20 mandatory detention under § 1225, but those who crossed illegally would be eligible for 21 a bond under § 1226(a).

22 Nothing in the Laken Riley Act (“LRA”) changes the analysis. Redundancies in 23 statutory drafting are “common . . . sometimes in a congressional effort to be doubly 24 sure.” Barton v. Barr, 590 U.S. 222, 239 (2020). The LRA arose after an inadmissible 25 alien “was paroled into this country through a shocking abuse of that power.” 171 Cong.
26 Rec. H278 (daily ed. Jan 22, 2025) (statement of Rep. McClintock). Congress passed it 27 out of concern that the executive branch “ignore[d] its fundamental duty under the 28 Constitution to defend its citizens.” Id. at H269 (statement of Rep. Roy). One member 1 even expressed frustration that “every illegal alien is currently required to be detained by 2 current law throughout the pendency of their asylum claims.” Id. at H278 (statement of 3 Rep. McClintock). The LRA reflects a “congressional effort to be doubly sure” that such 4 unlawful aliens are detained. Barton, 590 U.S. at 239.

5 c. Prior agency practices are not entitled to deference under 6 Loper Bright.

7 The asserted longstanding agency practice carries little, if any, weight under Loper 8 Bright. The weight given to agency interpretations “must always ‘depend upon their 9 thoroughness, the validity of their reasoning, the consistency with earlier and later 10 pronouncements, and all those factors which give them power to persuade.’” Loper 11 Bright Enters. v. Raimondo, 603 U.S. 369, 432–33 (2024) (quoting Skidmore v. Swift & 12 Co., 323 U.S. 134, 140 (1944) (cleaned up)). And here, the agency provided no analysis 13 to support its reasoning. See 62 Fed. Reg. at 10323. To be sure, “when the best reading 14 of a statute is that it delegates discretionary authority to an agency,” the Court must 15 “independently interpret the statute and effectuate the will of Congress.” Loper Bright, 16 603 U.S. at 395 (cleaned up). But read most naturally, §§ 1225(b)(1) and (b)(2) mandate 17 detention for applicants for admission until certain proceedings have concluded.
18 Jennings, 583 U.S. at 297. Petitioner thus cannot show a likelihood of success on the 19 merits.

20 2. The Balance of Hardships Favors Respondents

21 Where the moving party only raises “serious questions going to the merits,” the 22 balance of hardships must “tip sharply” in his favor. All. for Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 23 F.3d 1127, 1134–35 (9th Cir. 2011) (quoting The Lands Council v. McNair, 537 F.3d 24 981, 987 (9th Cir. 2008)). Petitioner fails to do so here. See id. The government has a 25 compelling interest in the steady enforcement of its immigration laws. See Miranda v.
26 Garland, 34 F.4th 338, 365–66 (4th Cir. 2022) (vacating an injunction that required a 27 “broad change” in immigration bond procedure); Ubiquity Press Inc. v. Baran, No 8:20-28 cv-01809-JLS-DFM, 2020 WL 8172983, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 20, 2020) (“the public

1 interest in the United States’ enforcement of its immigration laws is high”); United 2 States v. Arango, CV 09-178 TUC DCB, 2015 WL 11120855, at 2 (D. Ariz. Jan. 7, 3 2015) (“the Government’s interest in enforcing immigration laws is enormous.”).
4 Judicial intervention would only disrupt the status quo. The Court should avoid a path
5 that “inject[s] a degree of uncertainty” in the process. USA Farm Labor, Inc. v. Su, 694 6 F. Supp. 3d 693, 714 (W.D.N.C. 2023). The BIA exists to resolve disputes like this. See 7 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(1). By regulation it must “provide clear and uniform guidance” 8 “through precedent decisions” to “DHS [and] immigration judges.” Id. Here, the BIA has 9 provided that clear guidance by its decision in Matter of Jonathan Javier Yajure 10 Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025).

11 IV. CONCLUSION

12 Petitioner’s request for relief by the Application and Petition should be denied.
13 Should the Court nonetheless grant the Application, however, the relief should be limited 14 to what other Judges in this District have generally issued in similar cases: Requiring 15 release unless a Section 1226(a) bond hearing is provided within seven (7) days.
