CIVIL ACTION NO. 4:25-CV-06043

RESPONSE TO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE AND TO THE PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS AND MOTION TO DISMISS, AND IN THE ALTERNATIVE, FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

The Government¹ hereby responds to Petitioner, Herberth Nahum Flores Berrios’s, habeas petition and respectfully requests that this Court deny his petition under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 and grant summary judgment for the Government under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56.

First, Petitioner failed to exhaust administrative remedies. This is enough, by itself, to deny his § 2241 petition. Second, Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2), based on the statute’s plain language and structure, the history of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) decision in Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216 (BIA 2025), and persuasive decisions from other district courts, including the recent decision in Cabanas v. Bondi, No. 4:25-CV-04830, 2025 WL

3171331 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 13, 2025) and Jimenez v. Thompson, No. 4:25-CV-05026, 2025 WL 3265493 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 24, 2025). Last, assuming the Court reaches the issue, the class action ruling in Bautista v. Noem, No. 5:25-CV-1873 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2025) is not binding here.

Accordingly, this Court should deny Petitioner's petition and grant summary judgment for the Government.

I. BACKGROUND

Petitioner, Herberth Nahum Flores Berrios, is a native and citizen of El Salvador. Dkt. 1-1 at 5. Petitioner entered the United States on an unknown date at an unknown location without being admitted or paroled. Dkt. 1-1 at 5. On November 3, 2025, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security ("DHS") issued Petitioner a Notice to Appear ("NTA") charging him with removability pursuant to Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA") section 212(a)(6)(A)(i), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i), as an alien present in the United States without being admitted or paroled, or who arrived in the United States at any time or place other than as designated by the Attorney General. Dkt. 1 at 18; Dkt. 1-1 at 5. In the NTA, the examining immigration official denied Petitioner admission into the United States, explained the basis for charging Petitioner with being subject to removal, and ordered Petitioner to appear in immigration court. Id.

On November 3, 2025, Petitioner was taken into U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement ("ICE") custody on November 3, 2025, following a traffic stop. Dkt. 1 at 18; Pl. Ex. 5. On November 28, 2025, the Petitioner filed a motion for release or to set bond with the Immigration Judge. Dkt. 1 at 17; Pl. Ex. 3. On December 4, 2025, the Immigration Judge denied a change in custody status, finding the Petitioner subject to mandatory detention under Yajure Hurtado. Dkt. 1 at 17. Alternatively, the Immigration Judge ground that the Petitioner was not a flight risk or a danger to society and indicated a bond of $1,500. Dkt. 1 at 17; Pl. Ex. 4. The Petitioner withdrew a subsequent request for custody redetermination, and neither request was appealed to the Board of Immigration Appeals (“BIA”). Government Exhibit 1, December 30, 2025, Order of the Immigration Judge.

Petitioner filed the pending habeas petition on December 15, 2025. Dkt. 1. On December 31, 2025, the Court issued a Temporary Restraining Order. Dkt. 5. On the same date, the Court issued an Order for Service of Process and to Show Cause. Dkt. 6. On January 7, 2026, the Court granted the Federal Respondents’ Motion for Extension of time to respond to the habeas petition and show cause order to January 12, 2026. Dkt. 8.

II. ARGUMENT

Prior to addressing the merits, the Government acknowledges that this Court has previously rejected its arguments concerning the applicability of § 1225(b)(2). However, the Government, with this motion, requests a reconsideration of that prior ruling. See Camreta v. Greene, 563 U.S. 692, 701 n. 7 (2011)(“A decision of a federal district court judge is not binding precedent in either a different judicial district, the same judicial district, or even upon the same judge in a different case.”). For the reasons discussed below, including recent decisions from other courts in the Fifth Circuit and the Southern District of Texas, this Court should reconsider its interpretation of § 1225(b)(2) and find that Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention.

A. PETITIONER FAILED TO EXHAUST HIS ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES PRIOR TO FILING THE PETITION.

As a threshold matter, the Court should dismiss the habeas petition because Petitioner has not administratively exhausted his claims. In accord with the general rule that parties seeking relief against federal agencies must exhaust administrative remedies prior to seeking judicial relief, it is well-taken that a habeas petitioner must exhaust all administrative remedies prior to filing a federal habeas petition under § 2241. See, e.g., Gallegos-Hernandez v. United States, 688 F.3d 190, 194 (5th Cir. 2012) (holding that a federal prisoner seeking habeas relief under § 2241 must first exhaust all available administrative remedies).

In this case, Petitioner has not appealed the immigration court’s bond denial to the Board of Immigration Appeals (“BIA”). Petitioner argues that administrative appeal of the bond decision would be futile in light of in light of Matter of Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216 (BIA 2025). Dkt. 1 at 17.

However, because Petitioner has not appealed the bond denial to the BIA, he has failed to exhaust administrative remedies. See Fuller v. Rich, 11 F.3d 61, 62 (5th Cir. 1994) (requiring an appeal in order to satisfy exhaustion requirement); Abdoulaye Ba v. Director of Detroit Field Office, ICE, No. 4:25-CV-02208, 2025 WL 2977712, at *2 (N.D. Ohio Oct. 22, 2025) (dismissing for failure to exhaust where petitioner sought “review of the application and interpretation of Matter of Yajure Hurtado” but had yet to appeal to the BIA).

B. PETITIONER IS SUBJECT TO MANDATORY DETENTION UNDER 8 U.S.C. § 1225

Petitioner’s habeas petition should be denied because he falls under the plain language of the mandatory detention provisions in 8 U.S.C. § 1225. Here, Petitioner admits that he is an alien present in the United States who entered the country unlawfully “without being admitted or paroled.” Dkt. 1-1 at 5, 8.

As discussed below, an alien “present in the United States who has not been admitted,” is by definition “an applicant for admission.” 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1). Thus, Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention. See id. § 1225(b)(2)(A) (instructing that “the alien shall be detained” in the case of “an alien seeking admission” who “is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted” (emphasis added)).

1. The Plain Language and Statutory Structure of the INA

“As usual, we start with the statutory text.” Restaurant Law Center v. U.S. Dep’t of Labor, 120 F.4th 163, 177 (5th Cir. 2024). Section 1225(b)(2) provides the following:

in the case of an alien who is an applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall be detained for [removal proceedings].

8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2). Based on this text, if an alien is an “applicant for admission”, then they are subject to mandatory detention. The INA defines “applicant for admission” as “an alien present in the United States who has not been admitted.” 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1). Here, was not previously admitted into the United States, and the Petitioner is therefore subject to mandatory detention and is not eligible for a bond. See Cabanas v. Bondi, No. 4:25-CV-04830, 2025 WL 3171331 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 13, 2025).

2. Persuasive decisions from other district courts.

Although the Government acknowledges that many district courts have ruled against the Government on the § 1225(b)(2) issue, including this Court,² the Court should consider the recent decisions of several district courts that have adopted the Government's and the BIA's interpretation.

Most recently, another court in the Southern District of Texas decided Cabanas v. Bondi, 2025 WL 3171331 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 13, 2025), in the Government's favor. In denying the habeas petition and granting the Government's motion for summary judgment, the Cabanas Court held "[t]he text of § 1225(b)(2)(A) supports the Government's position." The Cabanas Court reasoned that "[t]he statutory definition of applicant for admission is broad and, indeed, so broad that Petitioner doesn't dispute that she is such a person. . . . That factual determination itself resolves the question as to whether § 1225(b)(2)(A) applies." Id. at *4 (emphasis in original). Thus, the Cabanas Court held that the plain language of the Immigration and Nationality Act required a ruling in the Government's favor. The court also explained why it was not persuaded by the many other district court decisions deciding to the contrary. Id. at *5; see also Jimenez v. Thompson, No. 4:25-CV-05026, 2025 WL 3265493, at *1 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 24, 2025).³

² Other courts in the Southern District of Texas have issued decisions that reject the Government's position. See, e.g., Buenrostro-Mendez v. Bondi, No. CV H-25-3726, 2025 WL 2886346 (S.D. Tex. Oct. 7, 2025)(on appeal); Fuentes v. Lyons, 5:25-cv-153 (S.D. Tex. October 16, 2025); Ortiz v. Bondi, 5:25-cv-132 (S.D. Tex. October 15, 2025); Baltazar v. Vasquez, 25-cv-175 (S.D. Tex. October 14, 2025); Covarrubias v. Vergara, 5:25-cv-112 (S.D. Texas October 8, 2025).

The Government urges this Court to reconsider its prior rulings and follow the reasoning of Cabanas and the Government's other proffered authorities.

C. BAUTISTA RULING HAS NO PRECLUSIVE EFFECT

The class action ruling in Bautista v. Noem, No. 5:25-CV-1873 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2025), ECF No. 92, is neither binding nor applicable here and presents no basis for granting the petition. First, the Bautista declaratory judgment is void with respect to petitioners and custodians outside the Central District of California because it was issued despite a palpable lack of jurisdiction. Second, the Court should not give preclusive effect to the declaratory judgment because it is on appeal, creating a serious risk of inconsistent judgments and unfair results if the Bautista judgment is reversed or vacated on appeal. Finally, issue preclusion is inapplicable here, particularly as preclusion principles apply with less force both against the government and in habeas corpus proceedings.

Sept. 30, 2025) (Buescher, J.).

1. Under black-letter principles of habeas jurisdiction, the Bautista declaratory judgement has no preclusive effect outside the Central District of California and over custodians who are located outside that District.

The Bautista class sought a declaratory judgment that class members such as Petitioner were unlawfully detained under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2), rather than § 1226(a). This is core habeas relief that must be brought as a habeas claim alone. As the Supreme Court made clear just this year, “[r]egardless of whether [] detainees formally request release from confinement,” if “their claims for relief necessarily imply the invalidity of their confinement[], their claims fall within the core of the writ of habeas corpus and thus must be brought in habeas.” Trump v. J.G.G., 604 U.S. 670, 672 (2025) (internal quotations omitted).

The Supreme Court has imposed two fundamental limits on federal court jurisdiction over core habeas claims. First, “jurisdiction lies in only one district: the district of confinement.” Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426, 443 (2004); see also J.G.G., 604 U.S. at 672. Second, a habeas petitioner must name the petitioner’s immediate custodian—i.e., the custodian who has actual custody over the petitioner and can produce the “corpus.” Padilla, 542 U.S. at 435. “Failure to name the petitioner’s custodian as a respondent deprives federal courts of personal jurisdiction” needed to issue relief. Stanley v. Cal. Supreme Court, 21 F.3d 359, 360 (9th Cir. 1994); Padilla, 542 U.S. at 444. Thus, a federal district court is wholly without authority to issue the writ in favor of a habeas petitioner who seeks habeas relief in a judicial district in which he is not confined and the immediate custodian is not located. Padilla, 542 U.S. at 442-

43. And a “judgment entered without personal jurisdiction over a defendant is void as to that defendant.” Combs v. Nick Garin Trucking, 825 F.2d 437, 442 (D.C. Cir. 1987).

Given that a challenge to the legality of detention is a core habeas claim, class-wide declaratory relief is inappropriate in the habeas context. Calderon v. Ashmus, 523 U.S. 740, 747 (1998) (declaratory judgment action not appropriate to address “validity of a defense the State may, or may not, raise in a habeas proceeding” in part because “the underlying claim must be adjudicated in a federal habeas proceeding”); Fusco v. Grondolsky, No. 17-1062, 2019 WL 13112044, at *1 (1st Cir. June 18, 2019) (declaratory judgment action must be dismissed when habeas available). Indeed, a class-wide declaratory judgment imposed from outside the district of confinement cannot be squared with the district-of-confinement requirement of habeas, where the relief is an order of release, 28 U.S.C. § 2241(a), not a declaration of legal rights that can later be enforced. See Calderon, 523 U.S. at 747 (1998); Fusco, 2019 WL 13112044, at *1; LoBue v. Christopher, 82 F.3d 1081, 1082 (D.C. Cir. 1996) (holding that the “availability of a habeas remedy in another district ousted us of jurisdiction over an alien’s effort to pose a constitutional attack . . . by means of a suit for declaratory judgment”).

Here, the vast majority of Bautista class members are confined outside of the Central District of California by immediate custodians who are also outside the Central District of California and have not been named in the lawsuit. Therefore, the Bautista court lacked jurisdiction to issue habeas relief to all class members who are confined outside the Central District of California by immediate custodians outside that District, and a court’s judgment cannot be binding and preclusive against a party over which it lacked jurisdiction. Burnham v. Superior Court of Cali., 495 U.S. 604, 608 (1990). Indeed, another federal district court has already held that the Bautista declaratory judgment does not have preclusive effect. See Lopez v. Lyons, No. 1:25-CV-226-H, 2025 WL 3683918, at *14 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 19, 2025).

In sum, the Bautista court's declaratory judgment purporting to grant relief that at its core sounds in habeas is a legal nullity outside that District. At the time of filing this habeas petition, Petitioner was detained in Texas, which is outside that judicial district. That ends the matter. But if more were needed, Petitioner's immediate custodian was not a party in the Central District of California; subjecting the immediate custodian to the judgment of the Central District of California would be inconsistent with the immediate custodian rule. Padilla, 542 U.S. at 439-40; see also Doe v. Garland, 109 F.4th 1188, 1196 (9th Cir. 2024) (holding immediate custodian and not supervisory ICE Field Office Director should be named in habeas petition).

2. The Bautista judgment is on appeal and should not be given preclusive effect.

Even if the Bautista declaratory judgment could have preclusive effect outside the Central District of California, that judgment has been appealed to the Ninth Circuit, Bautista, et al. v. United States Department of Homeland Security, et al., No. 25-7958 (9th Cir.), and this Court should not afford preclusive effect to that judgment or to any underlying legal issues in deciding whether to grant habeas relief in this case.

Courts must exercise significant caution before giving preclusive effect to declaratory judgments that are on appeal. Reflexively granting preclusive effect to such judgments could lead to subsequent judgment “from which it may be impossible to obtain relief” even if the first judgment is reversed on appeal. 9 A.L.R.2d 984. Courts should strive to avoid this result. Id. (“both the rule under which the operation of a judgment as res judicata is, and the one under which it is not, affected by the pendency of an appeal, have very unfortunate consequences”); see also 18A Fed. Prac. & Prod. § 4404 (“Awkward problems can result from the rule that preclusive effects attach to the first judgment” while that judgment is subject to an appeal); 18A Fed. Prac. & Proc. § 4433 (the rule that a decision is final for the purposes of preclusion while that decision is pending appeal creates “[s]ubstantial difficulties”).

This problem can be “avoided . . . by delaying further proceedings in the second action pending conclusion of the appeal in the first action.” Collins v. D.R. Horton, Inc., 505 F.3d 874, 882–83 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Wright & Miller § 4433). In the circumstances here—and particularly given the constraints of 8 U.S.C. § 1252(f)(1)—it would not be proper to impose res judicata effect on a class-wide basis while the declaratory judgment is pending on appeal. See 9 A.L.R.2d 984 (the “only one safe way of avoiding conflicting judgments on the same cause . . . [is for] the final decision on the merits of the second suit should be delayed until the decision on appeal has been rendered”).

3. According preclusive effect to the Bautista declaratory judgment contravenes other principles of preclusion.

Beyond the two most serious problems with giving effect to the Bautista declaratory judgment in this case, three more reasons counsel strongly against doing so.

First, under 28 U.S.C. § 2202, “[f]urther necessary or proper relief based on a declaratory judgment or decree may be granted, after reasonable notice and hearing, against any adverse party whose rights have been determined by such judgment.” To the extent this Court considers whether to award “further” relief than what the Bautista court purported to grant to class members outside the Central District of California, such further relief is neither “necessary [n]or proper.” Indeed, the Ninth Circuit—which of course has appellate jurisdiction over the Central District of California—has rejected waiving the district of confinement rule on prudential considerations given the clear congressional mandate limiting habeas jurisdiction to the district of confinement as provided by statute. Doe, 109 F.4th at 1199.

Second, the circumstances of this case also counsel against applying issue preclusion against the government. The Supreme Court has “long recognized that ‘the Government is not in a position identical to that of a private litigant,’ INS v. Hibi, 414 U.S. 5, 8 (1973) (per curiam), both because of the geographic breadth of government litigation and also, most importantly, because of the nature of the issues the government litigates.” United States v. Mendoza, 464 U.S. 154, 159 (1984). “Government litigation frequently involves legal questions of substantial public importance.” Id. Thus, although the Supreme Court has held the federal government “may be estopped . . . from relitigating a question” when “the parties to the lawsuits are the same,” id. at 163, 164, it is not so precluded in cases where the party seeking to offensively use preclusion was not a party to the initial litigation, see id. at 162. This is because allowing “nonmutual collateral estoppel against the government . . . would substantially thwart the development of important questions of law by freezing the first final decision rendered on a particular legal issue.” United States v. Mendoza, 464 U.S. 154, 160 (1984).

For similar reasons, the government should not be precluded from litigating the issue of the proper detention authority here, where the Petitioner was not a named party to the prior Bautista litigation, but instead merely a member of a fundamentally flawed nationwide class. In such a circumstance, applying preclusion against the government raises the same concern raised in Mendoza—it allows the Bautista court’s decision to freeze the law for all district courts nationwide, and stymies development of the law. This is particularly so because the Bautista court could never grant complete habeas relief to all class members as a result of § 1252(f)(1)—instead, the Bautista class action was merely a vehicle for seeking to use the judgment in individual habeas matters such as this one. At minimum, the court should exercise its discretion to decline to employ offensive issue preclusion, as it does in cases where a non-party seeks to invoke preclusion against a private party. See Syverson v. Int'l Bus. Machines Corp., 472 F.3d 1072, 1078 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 331 (1979)).

The Court should also decline to give the Bautista declaratory judgment preclusive effect given the existence of several inconsistent judgments from district courts around the country, suggesting that reliance on the adverse judgment in Bautista would be unfair. See Parklane Hosiery, 439 U.S. at 330–31 (citing the existence of prior inconsistent judgments as indicium of unfairness of applying issue preclusion); see, e.g., Altamirano Ramos v. Lyons, – F. Supp. 3d –, 2025 WL 3199872, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 12, 2025); Mejia Olalde v. Noem, No. 1:25-cv-168, 2025 WL 3131942, at *2–3 (E.D. Mo. Nov. 10, 2025); Rojas v. Olson, No. 25-cv-1437, 2025 WL 3033967, at *6 (E.D. Wis. Oct. 30, 2025); Cabanas v. Bondi, 4:25-cv-04830, 2025 WL 3171331 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 13, 2025); Sandoval v. Acuna, No. 6:25-cv-01467, 2025 WL 3048926 (W.D. La. Oct. 31, 2025); Topal v. Bondi, No. 1:25-cv-01612, 2025 WL 3486894 (W.D. La. Dec. 3, 2025); Xiaoquan Chen v. Almodovar, No. 1:25-cv-8350, 2025 WL 3484855 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 4, 2025); Candido v. Bondi, No. 25-cv-867, 2025 WL 3484932 (W.D.N.Y. Dec. 4, 2025).

Third, it is doubtful that issue preclusion is ever appropriate in the habeas context. For instance, in Griffin v. Gomez, the Ninth Circuit held that a prior “class action has no preclusive affect in habeas proceedings.” Griffin v. Gomez, 139 F.3d 905 (9th Cir. 1998). The court later explained that res judicata and collateral estoppel do not apply to habeas proceedings. See Clifton v. Attorney General, 997 F.2d 660, 662 n.3 (9th Cir. 1993) (recognizing that because “conventional notions of finality of litigation have no place” in habeas and the inapplicability of res judicate to habeas is “inherent in the very role and function of the writ.”) (quoting Sanders v. United States, 373 U.S. 1, 8 (1963)); see also Hardwick v. Doolittle, 558 F.2d 292, 295 (5th Cir. 1977) (“The doctrines of res judicate and collateral estoppel are not applicable in habeas proceedings.”); Hierens v. Mizell, 729 F.2d 449, 456 (7th Cir. 1984) (“a decision in another case is not res judicata as to a habeas proceeding.”).

In sum, the Bautista declaratory judgment has no preclusive effect on this case.

D. THE PETITIONER HAS BEEN AFFORDED DUE PROCESS

Petitioner alleges his due process rights have been violated. However, Petitioner is being permitted to exercise his due process rights through exercise of his right to request a bond in immigration court and appeal any unfavorable decision to the BIA, as well as the right to removal proceedings, which remain pending. Petitioner has received the due process to which he is entitled. Therefore, his claims of constitutional violations of his due process rights fail.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Government respectfully requests that the Court deny Petitioner’s request for habeas relief and grant the instant motion.

Dated: January 12, 2026

Respectfully submitted,
