Aleksandr Snetkov, Petitioner, v. Kristi Noem, in her official capacity as Secretary, U.S. Department of Homeland Security et al, Respondents.	No. 5:25-CV-1761-FB

Federal[1] Respondents' Response in Opposition to Petitioner's Writ of Habeas Corpus

Respondents timely submit this response per this Court's Order dated December 17, 2025, directing service and ordering a response to Petitioner's Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus, within sixty days of service. See ECF Nos. 4. In his petition for writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2241, Mr. Snetkov ("Petitioner"), seeks release from civil immigration detention, claiming that his approximately one-month post-removal-order detention has become unreasonably prolonged, contrary to statute and the Due Process Clause. See ECF No. 1 at 2. Petitioner's claims lack merit, and this petition should be denied.

Despite his allegation that there is "no basis" for his continued detention, Petitioner has a final order of removal from January 18, 2007, which not only mandated his detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a) during the 90-day removal period but allows for continued detention beyond the removal period in the exercise of ICE's discretion, so long as removal is reasonably foreseeable. 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(6); see Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 701 (2001). Petitioner claims removal is not reasonably foreseeable because ICE previously released Petitioner on an order of supervision and did not execute the removal order. See ECF No. 1.

Petitioner is lawfully detained with a final order of removal, his constitutional challenge to continued detention is not ripe until he has been detained in post-order custody for at least six months, and there is insufficient reason to believe that removal is unlikely in the foreseeable future. The burden of proof has not shifted to Respondents, but even if it had, Respondents can show that removal is, in fact, likely in the reasonably foreseeable future. For these reasons, the Court should deny this habeas petition.

Any non habeas claims should be dismissed. [2]

I. Facts and Procedural History

Petitioner is a native and citizen of Moldova who was admitted as a refugee in 1997. Exh. A at ¶ 4. He never adjusted status to lawful permanent resident. Id. After a series of criminal arrests, an immigration judge ordered Petitioner removed. See id at 6–11. Petitioner waived appeal of the immigration judge's order, and the order of removal became final[3]. Exh. A at ¶ 11. On January 25, 2007, ERO served a notice to alien of file custody review and warning for failure to depart (form I-229(a)) instruction sheet regarding requirements to assist in removal. Id at ¶ 13. In January 2007, ICE submitted a travel document request (TDR) to the Embassy of Moldova which was denied in May 2007. Id. at ¶¶ 14, 16. During this time in ICE custody, ICE completed the 90-day post order custody review (POCR). Id at ¶ 14–16. In June 2007, Petitioner was released on an order of supervision (OSUP). Exh. A at ¶ 18. After Petitioner's detention in state custody, he was detained by ICE again. Id at ¶ 18. In April 2008, another TDR request was sent to the Moldovan Embassy. Id at ¶ 19. In May 2008, Petitioner was released on OSUP. Exh. A at ¶ 20. On November 17, 2025, ICE redetained Petitioner and served him with a Notice of Revocation of Release. Id. at ¶ 21. On December 22, 2025, ICE served Petitioner with the form I-229(a), Notice to Alien of File Custody Review and Warning for Failure to Depart and an instruction sheet for Petitioner to assist in his removal. Id at ¶ 22. He was provided a TDR packet to complete and return for mailing to the Consulate of Moldova, in Washington D.C. Exh. A at ¶ 22.

[2] Petitioner did not pay the filing fee for non-habeas claims. See Ndudzi v. Castro, No. SA–20–CV–0492–JKP, 2020 WL 3317107 at *2 (W.D. Tex. June 18, 2020) (citing 28 U.S.C. § 1914(a)). "When a filing contains both habeas and on-habeas claims, 'the district court should separate the claims and decide the [non-habeas] claims' separately from the habeas ones given the differences between the two types of claims. Id (collecting cases and further noting the "vast procedural differences between the two types of actions"). Given the differences, the Court should either sever the non-habeas claims or dismiss them altogether without prejudice if severance is not warranted. Id. at *3.

Publicly available statistics show that prior to FY2025, 14 Moldovan nationals were successfully removed in FY2024, showing an overall increase in successful removals to Moldova. See https://www.ice.gov/doclib/eoy/iceAnnualReportFY2024.pdf (last accessed December 22, 2025).

II. Detention Is Lawful Under 8 U.S.C. §1231(a)(6).

The authority to detain aliens after the entry of a final order of removal is set forth in 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a). That statute affords ICE a 90-day mandatory detention period within which to remove the alien from the United States following the entry of the final order. 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(2). The 90-day removal period begins on the latest of three dates: the date (1) the order becomes "administratively final," (2) a court issues a final order in a stay of removal, or (3) the alien is released from non-immigration custody. 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)(B).

Not all removals can be accomplished in 90 days, and certain aliens may be detained beyond the 90-day removal period. See Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. Under § 1231, the removal period can be extended in a least three circumstances. See Glushchenko v. U.S. Dep't of Homeland

Sec., 566 F.Supp.3d 693, 703 (W.D. Tex. 2021). Extension is warranted, for example, if the alien presents a flight risk or other risk to the community. Id.; see also 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)(C); (a)(6). An alien may be held in confinement until there is "no significant likelihood of removal in a reasonably foreseeable future." Zadvydas, at 533 U.S. at 680.

III. Petitioner's Substantive Due Process Claim under Zadvydas is Premature.

Petitioner's reliance on Zadvydas is premature because he has been detained less than six months. To state a claim for relief under Zadvydas, Petitioner must show that: (1) he is in DHS custody; (2) he has a final order of removal; (3) he has been detained in post-removal-order detention for six months or longer; and (4) there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 700. Petitioner does not and cannot make this showing, as he has been currently detained less than six months in post-order custody. Chance v. Napolitano, 453 F. App'x 535, 2011 WL 6260210 at *1 (5th Cir. Dec. 15, 2011); Agyei-Kodie v. Holder, 418 F. App'x 317, 2011 WL 891071 at *1 (5th Cir. Mar. 15, 2011); Gutierrez-Soto v. Sessions, 317 F.Supp.3d 917, 929 n.33 (W.D. Tex. 2018); Kasangaki v. Barr, 2019 WL 13221026 at *3 (W.D. Tex. July 31, 2019); Linares v. Collins, 1:25-CV-00584-RP-DH, ECF No. 14 at 7–16 (W.D. Tex. Aug. 12, 2025).

IV. There Is No Good Reason to Believe That Removal Is Unlikely in the Reasonably Foreseeable Future.

Petitioner cannot show "good reason" to believe that removal to India is unlikely in the reasonably foreseeable future. In Zadvydas, the U.S. Supreme Court held that § 1231(a)(6) "read in light of the Constitution's demands, limits an alien's post-removal-period detention to a period reasonably necessary to bring about that alien's removal from the United States" but "does not permit indefinite detention." 533 U.S. at 689. "[O]nce removal is no longer reasonably foreseeable, continued detention is no longer authorized by the statute." Id. at 699. The Court designated six months as a presumptively reasonable period of post-order detention but made clear that the presumption "does not mean that every alien not removed must be released after six months." Id. at 701; see also Linares, ECF No. 14 at 8, 10–11.

Once the alien establishes that he has been in post-order custody for more than six months at the time the habeas petition is filed, the alien must provide a "good reason" to believe that there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future. Id. at 14–16; see Andrade v. Gonzales, 459 F.3d 538, 543–44 (5th Cir. 2006); Gonzalez v. Gills, No. 20–60547, 2022 WL 1056099 at *1 (5th Cir. Apr. 8, 2022). Unless the alien establishes the requisite "good reason," the burden will not shift to the government to prove otherwise. Id.

The "reasonably foreseeable future" is not a static concept; it is fluid and country-specific, depending in large part on country conditions and diplomatic relations. Ali v. Johnson, No. 3:21–CV–00050-M, 2021 WL 4897659 at *3 (N.D. Tex. Sept. 24, 2021). Additionally, a lack of visible progress in the removal process does not satisfy the petitioner's burden of showing that there is no significant likelihood of removal. Id. at *2 (collecting cases); see also Idowu v. Ridge, No. 3:03-CV-1293-R, 2003 WL 21805198, at *4 (N.D. Tex. Aug. 4, 2003). Conclusory allegations are also insufficient to meet the alien's burden of proof. Nagib v. Gonzales, No. 3:06-CV-0294-G, 2006 WL 1499682, at *3 (N.D. Tex. May 31, 2006) (citing Gonzalez v. Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement, No. 1:03-CV-178-C, 2004 WL 839654 (N.D. Tex. Apr. 20, 2004)). One court explained:

> To carry his burden, [the] petitioner must present something beyond speculation and conjecture. To shift the burden to the government, [the] petitioner must demonstrate that "the circumstances of his status" or the existence of "particular individual barriers to his repatriation" to his country of origin are such that there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.

Idowu, 2003 WL 21805198, at *4 (citation omitted).

Petitioner urges this Court to order that his continued detention pending removal is contrary to statute and in violation of his procedural and substantive due process rights, because of the Moldovan Consulate's prior refusal to issue him a travel document over a decade ago. See ECF No. 1 at 2–3.

Petitioner's claims are insufficient under Zadvydas because he has not shown that he has been in post-order custody for six months, and he has not shown any good reason to believe that removal is unlikely. See Linares, ECF No. 14 at 8, 10–11, 14–16; Nogales v. Dept. of Homeland Sec., No. 21-10236, 2022 WL 851738 at *1 (5th Cir. Mar. 22, 2022) (citing Rice v. Gonzalez, 985 F.3d 1069, 1070 (5th Cir. 2021)); Akbar v. Barr, SA-20-CV-01132-FB, 2021 WL 1345530 (W.D. Tex. Mar. 5, 2021); see also Andrade, 459 F.3d at 543–44; Boroky v. Holder, No. 3:14-CV-2040-L-BK, 2014 WL 6809180, at *3 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 3, 2014); Thanh v. Johnson, No. EP-15-CV-403-PRM, 2016 WL 5171779, at *4 (W.D. Tex. Mar. 11, 2016) (denying habeas relief where government was taking affirmative steps to obtain Vietnamese travel documents). Petitioner has not shown that his continued detention is unreasonable, nor has he shown he is owed any additional due process than what he is currently receiving. See Hernandezs-Esquivel v. Castro, No. 5-17-cv-0564-RBF, 2018 WL 3097029, at *8 (W.D. Tex. June 22, 2018). Therefore, the burden of proof does not shift to Respondents to prove significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.

Even if the burden did shift to ICE, ICE could show that ICE has removed aliens to Moldova. See https://www.ice.gov/doclib/eoy/iceAnnualReportFY2024.pdf (supra). Most recently on December 22, 2025, ICE served Petitioner the TDR packet for him to complete so ICE can send it to the Consulate. See Exh. A at ¶ 22. Petitioner's substantive due process claim fails here as a matter of law.

V. ICE Has Afforded Petitioner Procedural Due Process During His Post-Order Custody Pending Removal.

To establish a procedural due process violation, Petitioner must show that he was deprived of liberty without adequate safeguards. See Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 332 (1976); Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S. 327, 331 (1986). The Fifth Circuit has not provided guidance to lower courts, post-Arteaga-Martinez, on the appropriate standard for reviewing a procedural due process claim alleged by an alien detained under § 1231, but the Fourth Circuit, post-Arteaga-Martinez, used the Zadvydas framework to analyze a post-order-custody alien's due process claims. See Linares, at 10–14 (discussing Castaneda v. Perry, 95 F.4th 750, 760 (4th Cir. 2024)). This Court should also follow Zadvydas to review the procedural claim at issue here. Id. Under the Zadvydas framework, six months post-order detention is reasonable, and unless that time frame has passed, any procedural due process claim is also premature.

In any event, the Fifth Circuit finds no procedural due process violation where the constitutional minima of due process is otherwise met. Murphy v. Collins, 26 F.3d 541, 543 (5th Cir. 1994). Even if the Court were to find a procedural due process violation here, the remedy is substitute process. Mohammad v. Lynch, No. EP-16-CV-28-PRM, 2016 WL 8674354, at *6 n.6 (W.D. Tex. May 24, 2016) (finding no merit to petitioner's procedural due process claim where the evidence demonstrated that the review had already occurred, thereby redressing any delay in the provision of the 90-day and 180-day custody reviews). Even in the criminal context, failure to comply with statutory or regulatory time limits does not mandate release of a person who should otherwise be detained. U.S. v. Montalvo-Murillo, 495 U.S. 711, 722 (1990).

Petitioner argues that a violation of the OSUP revocation regulations means Petitioner must be released. ECF No. 1 at 10. However, petitioner relies on out of circuit case law. Id. The remedy for any procedural due process violation is substitute process, not release. See Mohammad v. Lynch, supra. Petitioner's procedural due process claims should be dismissed.

VI. Conclusion

Petitioner's detention is lawful under 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(6) and any due process claim is premature under Zadvydas. Moreover, Petitioner fails to show good reason to believe that there is no significant likelihood of removal to Moldova in the reasonably foreseeable future. As such, the burden has not shifted to ICE to show the opposite. Even if the burden had shifted, ICE could establish that removal is foreseeable. Additionally, ICE has afforded Petitioner procedural due process over the course of his one-month post-order detention. Petitioner's continued detention, therefore, is not unreasonably prolonged, nor is it in violation of the INA or the Constitution. Accordingly, the Court should deny this petition.
