Pursuant to Rule 65(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and Rule 65-1 of the Local Rules of this Court, Petitioner moves this Court for an order enjoining Respondents John E. Cantú, in his official capacity as Field Office Director of Enforcement and Removal Operations, Phoenix Field Office, Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), Kristi Noem, in her official capacity as the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Pamela Bondi, in her official capacity as the U.S. Attorney General with authority over the Executive Office for Immigration Review, Todd M. Lyons, in his official capacity as the Acting Director of ICE, and Alexis Garcia, Assistant Field Office Director of Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Florence Service Processing Center where Petitioner is detained, from continuing to detain Petitioner, or ordering a bond hearing before an immigration judge. Respondents should also not transfer the Petitioner outside the District of Arizona, where he is presently located. Such an order would maintain the status quo while habeas jurisdiction is litigated, and would also ensure that Petitioner remains close to legal counsel.

The reasons for this Motion are in the accompanying Memorandum of Points and Authorities. As this Motion shows, Petitioner warrants a preliminary injunction as he is eligible for release or a bond hearing before an immigration judge.

Petitioner is submitting a Habeas petition for same, on the same grounds, and is also filing this preliminary injunction motion to prevent irreparable injury before a hearing on his Habeas Petition may be held.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that this Court grant his request for a

1 preliminary injunction enjoining Respondents from continuing to detain him, and order a
2 bond hearing before an immigration judge in fifteen days.

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Petitioner Luis Sahid Guanin-Manzaba seeks a Preliminary Injunction (PI) that
3 requires Respondents to either release him from custody within seven days of the issuance
4 of a PI, or order a bond hearing before an immigration judge within fifteen days where the 5 Department of Homeland Security (DHS) bears the burden of demonstrating that his 6 removal is reasonably foreseeable and whether his detention is justified (i.e. whether he 7 poses a danger or a flight risk). Finally, Petitioner seeks a PI enjoining Respondents from 8 transferring Petitioner outside the District of Arizona, where he is presently located.
9

10 Petitioner should prevail on this motion because he is likely to succeed on the merits
11 of his claims. The text of 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) and § 1225(b)(2) demonstrates that he is not 12 subject to mandatory detention. Further, other federal courts have rejected the respondents’
13 novel argument that 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b) governs the detention of every noncitizen without 14 lawful immigration status. Petitioner will also suffer irreparable harm in the absence of a
15 PI. The balance of equities tips in his favor, and a PI is in the public interest. Prudential
16 exhaustion is not required here due to futility, irreparable injury, and agency delay. Finally,
17 there is no jurisdictional hurdle barring relief. This Court should thus grant this motion.
18

20 II. STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

21 Petitioner is a 21-year-old resident of Phoenix, Arizona. Exhibit A. He first arrived
22 on January 18, 2024, encountered immigration officials, and was released from DHS
23 custody by “Order of Recognizance.” Id. He came to the United States seeking protection
24 after [REDACTED]
25

26 [REDACTED]
27 [REDACTED] Tab C – Motion to Reopen. He applied for asylum and paid the required fee. Id.
28

1 While his removal proceedings were pending, Petitioner was arrested for
2 transporting illegal aliens for profit on July 13, 2025. Id. He accepted a plea agreement for
3 a five month sentence, which concluded on December 10, 2025. Id. While in criminal
4 custody, Petitioner was ordered removed in absentia in the Immigration Court on August
5 6, 2025. Id. He subsequently moved to reopen the proceedings, which the Immigration
6 Judge granted on December 5, 2025. Tab D. His case is currently pending in the Phoenix
7 Immigration Court, with a master calendar hearing on February 4, 2026. Tab E.

8
9 However, ICE Assistant Field Office Director Alex Garcia notified undersigned
10 counsel via email that the Respondent would remain in ICE custody for his proceedings,
11 housed at the Florence Detention Center. Tab F. On December 18, he moved to change
12 venue to the Florence Immigration Court, which remains pending. Id. Petitioner is still 13 detained at a federal detention center in Arizona. Absent this Court's intervention, he will 14 remain detained for the duration of his removal proceedings.
15

17 III. LEGAL STANDARD

18 Petitioner is entitled to preliminary injunctive relief if he establishes that he is 19 "likely to succeed on the merits, . . . likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of 20 preliminary relief, that the balance of equities tips in his favor, and that an injunction is in 21 the public interest." Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). Even if 22 Petitioner does not show a likelihood of success on the merits, the Court may still grant
23 relief if he raises "serious questions" as to the merits of his claims, the balance of hardships 24 tips "sharply" in his favor, and the remaining equitable factors are satisfied. Alliance for 25 the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127 (9th Cir. 2011). As shown below, Petitioner
26
27
28

1 overwhelmingly satisfies both standards.

2 IV. ARGUMENT

3 Petitioner should prevail on this motion because he is likely to succeed on the merits
4 of his claims, likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, the 5 balance of equities tips in his favor, and an injunction is in the public interest. Respondents
6 have violated the Immigration and Nationality Act and applicable regulations. Indeed, the 7 text of 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) and § 1225(b)(2) demonstrate that Petitioner is not subject to 8 mandatory detention. Further, other federal courts have rejected the Respondents' novel
9 argument that 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b) governs the detention of every noncitizen without lawful 10 immigration status.
11

13 Petitioner will also suffer irreparable harm in the absence of a PI. The balance of 14 equities tips in his favor, and a PI is in the public interest. Prudential exhaustion is not 15 required here due to futility, irreparable injury, and agency delay. Finally, there is no
16 jurisdictional hurdle barring relief. This Court should thus grant this motion.
17

18 A. PETITIONER IS LIKELY TO SUCCEED ON THE MERITS OF HIS CLAIM

19 Petitioner is likely to succeed on his claim that his ongoing detention by 20 Respondents under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2), and the denial of access to bond, is unlawful.
21

22 1. Discretionary Versus Mandatory Detention in Removal Proceedings

23 Noncitizens detained by DHS while in removal proceedings generally can request a
24 bond—or “custody redetermination”—hearing before an immigration judge. 8 U.S.C.
25 1226(a); 8 C.F.R. 1236.1(d)(1). If the noncitizen does not present a danger to others, a 26 threat to the national security, or a flight risk, the immigration judge may order that 27

1 individual released on conditional parole or upon the posting of a monetary bond of no less
2 than $1,500. 8 U.S.C. 1226(a)(2)(A)-(B); Matter of Guerra, 24 I&N Dec. 37 (BIA 2006).

3 Certain categories of noncitizens are subject to mandatory detention while in 4 removal proceedings. Under a provision in Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant 5 Responsibility Act of 1996 (IIRIRA), if “an alien seeking admission is not clearly and 6 beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall be detained for a proceeding under 7 [8 U.S.C. 1229a].” 8 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A). In the same bill, Congress defined “admission”
8 and “admitted” as the “lawful entry of the alien into the United States after inspection and 9 authorization by an immigration officer.” 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(13)(A). In other words, the 10 terms “admission” and “admitted” “refer to inspection and authorization by an immigration
11 officer at the port of entry.” Hing Sum v. Holder, 602 F.3d 1092, 1101 (9th Cir. 2010).
12 Thus, as the Supreme Court has explained, 8 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A) only applies to 13 noncitizens who are “seeking admission into the country,” Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S.
14 281, 289 (2018), i.e., those who are “arriving in the United States.” Clark v. Martinez, 543
15 U.S. 371, 373 (2005).

16 Consistent with the text of 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), federal regulations preclude
17 immigration judges from granting bond to “arriving aliens,” 8 C.F.R. 1003.19(h)(1)(B)(ii), 18 a phrase defined in relevant part as “an applicant for admission coming or attempting to 19 come into the United States at a port-of-entry.” 8 C.F.R. 1001.1(q). The decision to 20 preclude immigration judges from granting bond to arriving aliens—as distinct from all
21 noncitizens who entered without admission—was the product of notice and comment
22 rulemaking in early 1997 following the enactment of the IIRIRA. As the regulations were 23
25
26
27
28

1 initially proposed, all “[i]nadmissible aliens in removal proceedings” would have been
2 ineligible for bond. Inspection and Expedited Removal of Aliens; Detention and Removal
3 of Aliens; Conduct of Removal, 62 Fed. Reg. 444, 483 (Jan. 3, 1997). After receiving
4 comments, however, the Attorney General deleted the proposed provision and replaced it
5 with one that would apply only to “[a]rriving aliens.” Inspection and Expedited Removal
6 of Aliens; Detention and Removal of Aliens; Conduct of Removal Proceedings; Asylum
7 Procedures, 62 Fed. Reg. 10312, 10361 (March 6, 1997).

9 As the Attorney General explained, “[t]he effect of this change [was] that 10 inadmissible aliens, except for arriving aliens, have available to them bond redetermination
11 hearings before an immigration judge, while arriving aliens do not.” Id. at 10323. “[A]liens
12 who are present without having been admitted or paroled (formerly referred to as aliens 13 who entered without inspection) will be eligible for bond and bond redetermination.” Id.

15 The IIRIRA also made subject to mandatory detention those noncitizens who have 16 been convicted of certain crimes or engaged in terrorist activity. For example, the IIRIRA
17 made noncitizens who are inadmissible by reason of having committed certain criminal 18 offenses subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. 1226(c)(1)(A), and those 19 inadmissible for having engaged in terrorist activity subject to mandatory detention under 20 8 U.S.C. 1226(c)(1)(D). More recently, under the Laken Riley Act, Pub. L. No. 119-1, 21 Congress mandated detention for noncitizens who entered without admission and were 22 subsequently charged with, arrested for, convicted of, or admitted to certain offenses. 8
23 U.S.C. 1226(c)(1)(E). These provisions under 8 U.S.C. 1226(c) would be superfluous if all
24 noncitizens who were present without admission were already subject to mandatory
25
26
27
28

1 detention under 8 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A).

2 2. The Government's Novel and Widely Rejected Theory That All Noncitizens
3 Who Entered Without Admission Are Subject to Mandatory Detention

4 On Friday, July 4, 2025, President Trump signed the One Big Beautiful Bill Act,
5 Pub. L. No. 119-21, 139 Stat. 72. Among other things, the bill appropriated $45 billion to 6 ICE to detain noncitizens through fiscal year 2029. § 90003, 139 Stat. 358.

7
8 On Tuesday, July 8, 2025, Acting ICE Director Todd M. Lyons issued a
9 memorandum stating that DHS and the Department of Justice had "revisited" the 10 government's legal position regarding the statutory basis for detaining noncitizens who 11 were present in the country without being admitted. According to Respondent Lyons, the 12 government now believed that noncitizens present without admission are subject to 13 mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. 1225(b), rather than discretionary detention under 8
14 U.S.C. 1226(a), because, under 8 U.S.C. 1225(a)(1), they are deemed "applicant[s] for 15 admission." The memo further stated that this change in legal interpretation might "warrant
16 re-detention of a previously released alien in a given case."
17

19 On September 5, 2025, the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) issued a
20 precedential decision adopting ICE's novel argument that all noncitizens who are present
21 without admission are subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A).
22 Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025). The BIA acknowledged that 8
23 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A) only applies to noncitizens who are "seeking admission," but, like 24 ICE, concluded that the provision applied to all noncitizens who are present without 25 admission as they are also "applicant[s] for admission" under 8 U.S.C. 1225(a)(1). Id. at 26
27
28

1 218. The BIA acknowledged that its interpretation rendered superfluous multiple
2 provisions of 8 U.S.C. 1226(c), including one recently enacted in the Laken Riley Act, but
3 it stated that “redundancies are common in statutory drafting.” Id. at 221-22 (quoting
4 Barton v. Barr, 590 U.S. 222 (2020)).
5

6 A motion to reconsider had been filed in Matter of Yajure Hurtado. The motion
7 challenges the Board’s statutory analysis, and asks it to withdraw its decision because (a)
8 the underlying removal proceedings had concluded by the time the Board issued its 9 decision, making the case moot, and (b) the decision conflicts with longstanding
10 regulations issued by the Attorney General.¹
11

12 To date, federal district judges have issued over 280 decisions either outright 13 rejecting the government’s novel interpretation,ⁱ or finding that noncitizens challenging the 14 government’s interpretation were substantially likely to prevail on the merits.ⁱⁱ These 15 judges have not been unsparing in their criticism of the government’s newfound position.
16 One called it “willfully blind.” Leal-Hernandez v. Noem, No. 25-2428, 2025 WL 2430025
17 at *25 (D. Md. Aug. 24, 2025). Another called it “a policy argument, projected onto 18 Congress.” Romero v. Hyde, No. 25-11631, ___ F. Supp. 3d ___, 2025 WL 2403827 at *28
19 (D. Mass. Aug. 19, 2025).
20

22 The district court in Maldonado Bautista v. Santacruz, 5:25-cv-01873 (C.D. Cal.
23 Nov. 20, 2025) (Sykes, J.), has granted nationwide class certification and summary
24

26 ¹ The Board’s Decision in Matter of Yajure Hurtado is also not entitled to deference because it
27 contravenes the statutory language and legislative history, and it deviates from longstanding 28 agency practice and regulations.

1 judgment on this issue. Specifically, the court has declared illegal the Immigration and 2 Customs Enforcement policy, and the Board of Immigration Appeals decision in Matter of
3 Yajure-Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216 (BIA 2025), requiring detention without bond of all
4 persons who entered without inspection or admission. Thus, class members nationwide
5 now have a binding judgment declaring they are detained under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a), not §
6 1225(b)(2)(A), and are entitled to consideration for release on bond. Maldonado Bautista,
7 No. 5:25-cv-01873-SSS-BFM, at *26 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025) (extending the same
8 declaratory relief granted to individual petitioners to the class as a whole).
9

11 The court there expressly extended the declaratory relief to the Bond Eligible Class, 12 which is nationwide and encompasses:

13 All noncitizens in the United States without lawful status who (1) have 14 entered or will enter the United States without inspection; (2) were not or 15 will not be apprehended upon arrival; and (3) are not or will not be subject
16 to detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c), § 1225(b)(1), or § 1231 at the time the Department of Homeland Security makes an initial custody determination.

17 Id. at *4, 26.

18 Petitioner in this case is thus a class member and covered by the declaratory relief
19 granted in Maldonado Bautista. Still, Petitioner's habeas action and motion for PI are 20 necessary because the class-wide declaratory judgment in Maldonado Bautista does not 21 provide coercive remedies like a writ of habeas corpus ordering release or a bond hearing.
22 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a); Steffel v. Thompson, 415 U.S. 452, 471 (1974) (explaining that 23 declaratory judgment "is not ultimately coercive; noncompliance with it may be 24 inappropriate, but is not contempt.")
25

26
27 It is not difficult to understand why federal district courts have rejected the 28

1 government's novel interpretation. By its terms, 8 U.S.C. 1225(b)(2)(A) only applies to
2 noncitizens who are "seeking admission," and Congress defined "admission" as the "lawful
3 entry of the alien into the United States after inspection and authorization by an
4 immigration officer." 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(13)(A). Accordingly, "[c]onstruing section
5 1225(b)(2) to apply to noncitizens already residing in the country would read the word
6 'entry' out of the definitions of 'admitted' and 'admission.'" Chafla v. Scott, No. 2:25-cv-
7 00437-SDN, at *19 (D. Me. Sep. 21, 2025) (citing 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(13)(A)). As 8 importantly, if "the [BIA was] correct that § 1225(b)'s mandatory detention provisions
9 apply to all persons who have not been admitted into the United States, that would render
10 superfluous those provisions of § 1226 that apply to certain categories of inadmissible
11 aliens, such as § 1226(c)(1)(A), (D), and (E)." Hasan v. Crawford, __ F. Supp. 3d __, 2025
12 WL 268225 at *22 (E.D. Va. Sept. 19, 2025) (Brinkema, J.).

13
15
16 Indeed, the plain text of § 1226 demonstrates that subsection (a) applies to 17 Petitioner. Section 1226(a) permits the release of noncitizens who are detained "pending a
18 decision on whether the [noncitizen] is to be removed from the United States." 8 U.S.C. §
19 1226(a). While § 1226(a) provides the right to seek release, § 1226(c) carves out specific 20 categories of noncitizens—including certain categories of noncitizens who are 21 inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)—and subjects them instead to mandatory detention.
22 See, e.g., § 1226(c)(1)(A), (C). If § 1226(a) could never apply to inadmissible noncitizens, 23 there would be no reason to specify that § 1226(c) governs certain persons who are 24 inadmissible; instead, § 1226(c) would only have needed to address people who are 25 deportable for certain offenses under 8 U.S.C. § 1227(a).
26
27
28

1 Recent amendments to § 1226 dramatically reinforce that this section covers people
2 like Petitioner, whom DHS alleges to be present without admission. Specifically, the Laken
3 Riley Act added language to § 1226 that directly references those who are inadmissible
4 under § 1182(a)(6) because they are present without admission or under § 1182(a)(7)
5 because of the lack of valid documentation. See Laken Riley Act (LRA), Pub. L. No. 119-
6 1, 139 Stat. 3 (2025); 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c)(1)(E). By including such individuals under § 7 1226(c) and carving them out of § 1226(a) if they have been arrested, charged with, or 8 convicted of certain crimes, Congress reaffirmed that § 1226(a) covers persons charged
9 under § 1182(a)(6) or (a)(7). See Rodriguez Vazquez v. Bostock, No. 3:25-CV-05240-TMC,
10 2025 WL 1193850, at *14 (W.D. Wash. June 6, 2025) (explaining these amendments 11 explicitly provide that § 1226(a) covers people like Petitioner because the “‘specific 12 exceptions’ [in the LRA] for inadmissible noncitizens who are arrested, charged with, or 13 convicted of the enumerated crimes logically leaves those inadmissible noncitizens not 14 criminally implicated under Section 1226(a)’s default rule for discretionary detention.”); 15 Diaz Martinez v. Hyde, 2025 WL 2084238, at *7 (D. Mass. July 24, 2025) (“if, as the 16 Government argue[s], . . . a non-citizen’s inadmissibility were alone already sufficient to 17 mandate detention under section 1225(b)(2)(A), then the 2025 amendment would have no
18 effect.” 2025 WL 2084238, at *7; Gomes v. Hyde, No. 1:25-CV-11571-JEK, 2025 WL
19 1869299, at *7 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025) (similar).

20 Unlike 8 U.S.C. § 1226, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b) requires the detention of certain 21 individuals who are arriving at U.S. ports of entry or who recently entered the United 22 States. As relevant here, 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) applies only to individuals who are 23

1 “seeking admission” to the United States.² See Vasquez-Garcia v. Noem, No. 25-cv-02180-
2 DMS-MMP, at *18 (S.D. Cal. Sep. 3, 2025) (rejecting DHS’ contention that an individual
3 who entered the United States without inspection “is automatically understood to be 4 ‘seeking admission’ within the meaning of § 1225(b)(2)(A), without need[ing] to 5 affirmatively apply for admission or parole”); Arrazola Gonzalez v. Noem, No. 5:25-cv-
6 01789, at *6-7 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 15, 2025) (concluding that habeas petitioner showed 7 likelihood of success on the merits of argument that “[t]o ignore the ‘seeking admission’
8 language [in 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) . . . would render the language purposeless and 9 violate a key rule of statutory construction”); see also 8 C.F.R. § 1.2 (addressing 10 noncitizens who are presently “coming or attempting to come into the United States”).

13 8 U.S.C. § 1225 further defines its scope by reference to “inspections”—a term not 14 defined in the INA, but which typically connotes an examination upon or soon after 15 physical entry. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225 (titled “Inspection by immigration officers; expedited 16 removal of inadmissible arriving [noncitizens]; referral for hearing”); §§ 1225(b)(1)–(2)
17 (referring to “inspections” in their titles); § 1225(b)(2)(A), (b)(4) (referring to “examining 18 immigration officers”); § 1225(d)(1) (authorizing immigration officials to search certain 19 conveyances in order to conduct “inspections” where noncitizens “are being brought into 20 the United States”); see also Dubin v. United States, 599 U.S. 110, 120–21 (2023)

24 ² 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1) concerns “expedited removal of inadmissible arriving [noncitizens],” 25 including those who present themselves for inspection upon “arriving” and other individuals
26 designated by the Attorney General who have been present in the United States for less than two
27 years, and who are “inadmissible under section 1182(a)(6)(C) or § 1182(a)(7).” 8 U.S.C. §
28 1225(b)(1)(A)(i). Subsection (b)(1) does not require Petitioner’s detention because he did not present himself for inspection.

1 (emphasis added) (relying on section title to help construe statute). Many statutory 2 provisions, various regulations, and agency precedent also discuss “inspection” in the 3 context of admission processes at ports of entry, further supporting the conclusion that §
4 1225 has a limited temporal and geographic scope. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C. §§ 1187(h)(2)(B)(i),
5 1225A; 8 U.S.C. § 1752a; 8 C.F.R. § 235.1; Matter of Quilantan, 25 I&N Dec. 285 (BIA
6 2010)); see also King v. Burwell, 576 U.S. 473, 492 (2015) (looking to an Act’s “broader 7 structure . . . to determine [the statute’s] meaning”).
8

9 The statutory and regulatory text’s use of the present and present progressive tenses 10 further excludes noncitizens apprehended in the interior, because they are no longer in the 11 process of arriving in or seeking admission to the United States. See 8 U.S.C. §
12 1225(b)(2)(C) (addressing the “[t]reatment of [noncitizens] arriving from contiguous
13 territory,” i.e. those who are “arriving on land”) (emphasis added). As the Supreme Court
14 recognized, this mandatory detention scheme applies “at the Nation’s borders and ports of 15 entry, where the Government must determine whether a [] [noncitizen] seeking to enter the 16 country is admissible,” and § 1225 is concerned “primarily [with those] seeking entry.”
17 Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287, 297.
18

19 The Board in Matter of Yajure Hurtado ignored the “seeking admission”
20 requirement and instead focused solely on whether an individual who enters the United 21 States without inspection is “applicant for admission,” as § 1225(b)(2)(A) also requires.
22 But as the Ninth Circuit has explained, “when deciding whether language is plain, [courts]
23 must read the words in their context and with a view to their place in the overall statutory 24 scheme.” San Carlos Apache Tribe v. Becerra, 53 F.4th 1236, 1240 (9th Cir. 2022)
25
26
27
28

1 (internal quotation marks omitted). In context, the differential phrasing of “applicant for
2 admission” and “seeking admission” in the same statutory subsection is significant,
3 because “applicant for admission” is a term of art that has been analyzed as such by both
4 the Supreme Court and the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. See DHS v. Thuraissigiam, 591
5 U.S. 103, 109 (2020); Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287, 297; see also Torres v. Barr, 976 F.3d
6 918, 927 (9th Cir. 2020) (en banc) (an individual submits an “application for admission” 7 only at “the moment in time when the immigrant actually applies for admission into the 8 United States.”). By contrast, an individual who has not presented at a port of entry and 9 has not filed any affirmative application for immigration benefits is not “seeking” anything
10 under the plain meaning of the word. See Merriam Webster’s Dictionary (2025) (defining 11 “seek” as, inter alia, “to go in search of” or “to try to acquire or gain”).
12

14 Thus, Petitioner prevails regardless of the scope of § 1225(a)(1)’s definition of 15 “applicant for admission.” This is because classification as an “applicant for admission” 16 is not sufficient to render someone subject to mandatory detention under § 1225(b)(2). The 17 “applicant for admission” must also be “seeking admission,” and that is clearly not the case
18 for Petitioner. In sum, § 1226 governs this case. The mandatory detention provision of § 19 1225 applies only to individuals arriving in the United States as specified in the statute,
20 while § 1226 applies to those who previously entered without admission.
21

23 B. PETITIONER WILL SUFFER IRREPARABLE HARM IN THE ABSENCE OF 24 A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION.

25 In the absence of a PI, Petitioner will continue to be unlawfully detained by 26 Respondents under § 1225(b)(2) and denied his freedom based on an erroneous
27
28

1 interpretation of the law. “Freedom from imprisonment—from government custody,
2 detention, or other forms of physical restraint—lies at the heart of the liberty” that the Due
3 Process Clause protects. Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 690 (2001). Further, it “is well
4 established that the deprivation of constitutional rights unquestionably constitutes
5 irreparable injury.” Melendres v. Arpaio, 695 F.3d 990, 1002 (9th Cir. 2012) (citation
6 modified); Warsoldier v. Woodford, 418 F.3d 989, 1001-02 (9th Cir. 2005); see also 7 Hernandez v. Sessions, 872 F.3d 976, 994–95 (9th Cir. 2017) (concluding that Plaintiffs 8 who established unconstitutional deprivation of physical liberty “also carried their burden
9 as to irreparable harm.”); Maldonado Bautista v. Santacruz, No. 5:25-cv-01873-SSS-BFM,
10 at *16 (C.D. Cal. July 28, 2025) (“[T]he Court finds that the potential for Petitioners’
11 continued detention without an initial bond hearing would cause immediate and irreparable 12 injury, as this violates statutory rights afforded under § 1226(a).”).
13

15 Detainees in civil ICE custody are held in “prison-like conditions” which have real
16 consequences for their lives. Preap v. Johnson, 831 F.3d 1193, 1195 (9th Cir. 2016).
17 During his more than two decades in the U.S., Petitioner has been gainfully employed,
18 married and had two U.S. citizen children. Further, Petitioner has extensive community
19 ties here, and has good moral character. Continued detention in such “prison-like”
20 conditions which separate Petitioner from his wife, teenage children, and community
21 constitute an irreparable harm.
22
23

24 C. THE BALANCE OF EQUITIES TIPS IN PETITIONER’S FAVOR AND A
25 PI IS IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST.
26
27
28

1 Because the government is a party, these two factors are considered together. Nken
2 v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 435 (2009). Petitioner has established that the public interest
3 factor weighs in his favor because his claim asserts that the new policy violates federal 4 laws. See Valle del Sol Inc. v. Whiting, 732 F.3d 1006, 1029 (9th Cir. 2013). Because the 5 policy preventing Petitioner from realizing any bond an immigration judge may grant “is 6 inconsistent with federal law, . . . the balance of hardships and public interest factors weigh 7 in favor of a preliminary injunction.” Moreno Galvez v. Cuccinelli, 387 F. Supp. 3d 1208,
8 1218 (W.D. Wash. 2019).
9

10 Finally, any burden imposed by requiring the Respondents to release Petitioner from 11 custody or providing a hearing before an immigration judge is both de minimis and clearly
12 outweighed by the substantial harm he will suffer as he continues to be detained. See Lopez
13 v. Heckler, 713 F.2d 1432, 1437 (9th Cir. 1983) (“Society’s interest lies on the side of 14 affording fair procedures to all persons, even though the expenditure of governmental 15 funds is required.”).
16

17 D. PRUDENTIAL EXHAUSTION IS NOT REQUIRED.

18 Prudential exhaustion does not require Petitioner to be forced to endure the very 19 harm he is seeking to avoid by awaiting an immigration judge or BIA decision, where the 20 BIA’s recent precedential decision makes the outcome of that appeal a foregone
21 conclusion. “[T]here are a number of exceptions to the general rule requiring exhaustion, 22 covering situations such as where administrative remedies are inadequate or not
23 efficacious, . . . [or] irreparable injury will result.” Laing v. Ashcroft, 370 F.3d 994, 1000
24 (9th Cir. 2004) (citation omitted). Administrative exhaustion is not required where a request
25
26
27
28

1 for relief before the agency would be futile because the agency has “predetermined the
2 issue before it.” McCarthy v. Madigan, 503 U.S. 140, 148 (1992). Here, the exceptions
3 regarding futility, irreparable injury, and agency delay warrant waiving any prudential
4 exhaustion requirement.

5
6 1. Futility

7 The BIA’s decision in Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216, renders
8 prudential exhaustion futile in bond cases involving individuals who entered the United 9 States without inspection. Zaragoza Mosqueda, v. Noem, 2025 WL 2591530, at *7 (C.D.
10 Cal. Sept. 8, 2025). The BIA’s decision in Matter of Yajure Hurtado “predetermine[s]” the 11 outcome of DHS’s administrative appeal. McCarthy, 503 U.S. at 148. Prudential
12 exhaustion is therefore unnecessary, and the Court should take jurisdiction over 13 Petitioner’s case.
14

15
16 2. Irreparable injury

17 Because Petitioner was denied access to a bond, each day he remains in detention is 18 one in which his statutory and constitutional rights have been violated. Similarly situated 19 district courts have repeatedly recognized this fact. As one court has explained, “because 20 of delays inherent in the administrative process, BIA review would result in the very harm
21 that the bond hearing was designed to prevent: prolonged detention without due process.”
22 Hechavarria v. Whitaker, 358 F. Supp. 3d 227, 237 (W.D.N.Y. 2019) (internal quotation 23 marks omitted). Indeed, “if Petitioner is correct on the merits of his habeas petition, then 24 Petitioner has already been unlawfully deprived of a [lawful] bond hearing [,] [and] . . .
25
26
27 each additional day that Petitioner is detained without a [lawful] bond hearing would cause
28

1 him harm that cannot be repaired.” Villalta v. Sessions, No. 17-CV-05390-LHK, 2017 WL
2 4355182, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 2, 2017) (internal quotation marks and brackets omitted);
3 see also Cortez v. Sessions, 318 F. Supp. 3d 1134, 1139 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (similar).

4
5 3. Agency delay

6 Third, the BIA’s delays in adjudicating bond appeals warrant excusing any 7 exhaustion requirement. A court’s ability to waive exhaustion based on delay is especially 8 broad here given the “fundamental” interest in physical liberty that is at stake for Petitioner.
9 Hernandez, 872 F.3d at 993. The BIA’s months-long review is unreasonable and results in 10 ongoing injury to Petitioner. See, e.g., Perez v. Wolf, 445 F. Supp. 3d 275, 286 (N. D. Cal.
11 April 14, 2020)

13 D. THERE IS NO JURISDICTIONAL HURDLE BARRING RELIEF

14 Finally, there is no jurisdictional bar under the INA because Petitioner does not seek 15 review of a removal order, but of custody, and his challenge does not fall within the discrete
16 actions specified in the bar to review at 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g). Maldonado Bautista, at *9-10
17 (C.D. Cal. July 28, 2025) (addressing “zipper clause” at 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9)).

18
19 V. CONCLUSION

20 For these reasons, the Court should grant Petitioner’s Motion for a Preliminary 21 Injunction.
