[Civil Immigration Habeas
Petition Under 28 U.S.C.
§ 2241]

26 _____
27 <sup>1</sup> Federal Defenders of San Diego, Inc., is filing the instant petition with 28 provisional appointment under Chief Judge Order No. 134. Petitioner's financial eligibility for representation is included in a sworn statement attached to this petition.

1 INTRODUCTION

2 This civil immigration habeas petition seeks three grounds of 3 relief. First, it seeks to prevent Petitioner's indefinite detention 4 pending deportation to Cuba or a third country absent the basic 5 regulatory and due process guarantees of 8 C.F.R. §§ 241.4(l), 241.13(i), 6 and United States ex rel. Accardi v. Shaughnessy, 347 U.S. 260, 268
7 (1954). Second, it seeks to prevent his indefinite detention pending 8 deportation to Cuba absent the basic statutory and due process 9 guarantees outlined in Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001). Third, 10 it seeks to prevent his deportation to a third country without him first 11 receiving basic due process guarantees of notice and opportunity to be 12 heard as to his statutory rights to seek withholding of removal and 13 Convention Against Torture relief.

14 Mr. Sanchez was ordered removed to Cuba in 2005. In 2021, he 15 was placed under an order of supervision. Petitioner complied with the 16 conditions of his release.

17 ICE re-arrested him seven months ago on June 25, 2025. He did 18 not receive any written notice as to the reasons for his revocation. He 19 was never given an interview so that he could contest the revocation.
20

21 Since his detention, ICE has provided Mr. Sanchez no 22 information indicating that he will be removed to Cuba in the 23 reasonably foreseeable future. What's more, because of Mr. Sanchez's 24 medical condition, Mexico will not accept him for third country 25 removal.

26 Mr. Sanchez is terminally ill. He has cancer in his bones and 27 prostate. He was in the emergency room recently and was told that he 28 only has about a year and a half to live.

1 Courts in this district and around the country have ordered 2 Cubans released from ICE custody for the same reasons. See Rios v.
3 Noem, No. 25-CV-2866-JES, Doc. 15 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 10, 2025);
4 Rodriguez-Gutierrez v. Noem, 25-cv-02726-BAS-SBC, Doc. 14 (S.D. Cal.
5 Nov. 7, 2025); Izquierdo-Matos v. Noem, Doc. 12, 25-cv-02979-BJC-
6 BLM (S.D. Cal. Nov. 18, 2025); Arostegui-Campo v. Noem, 25-cv-03064-7 JLS-MMP, Doc. 11 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025). One court underlined, 8 “Rules matter. Hearings matter. In recognition of this cornerstone 9 principle of our jurisprudence, a growing chorus of district courts have 10 found that—in similar cases—the government’s unlawful detention . . .
11 . warrants immediate release.” Delkash v. Noem, No. 25-cv-1675-HDV-12 AGR, 2025 WL 2683988 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 28, 2025)

14 STATEMENT OF FACTS

15 I. Mr. Sanchez lived under supervision for several years 16 and then is re-detained without an individualized 17 reason for detention and without an opportunity to 18 contest his re-detention.

18 In about 1995, Mr. Sanchez came to the United States from 19 Cuba. Exhibit A, Declaration of Victor Hugo Sanchez Cantero ¶ 1. He 20 was ordered removed on April 11, 2005. Id. ¶ 2.<sup>2</sup> Because the 21 government could not remove him to Cuba, it released him under an 22 order of supervision. Id. ¶ 2-3.

23 Mr. Sanchez began supervision in 2021.. Id. ¶3. He has complied 24 with the conditions of supervision. Id. ¶ 3.

1 On June 25, 2025, Mr. Sanchez was arrested by ICE agents. Id.
2 at ¶ 4. The agents did not provide him with a notice of revocation and 3 did not give him an interview so that he could contest his detention. Id.
4 at ¶ 4. He is at the Otay Mesa Detention Center. Id. at ¶ 6.

5 ICE has taken Mr. Sanchez to the US Mexican border multiple 6 times. Id. at ¶ 9. The last time, he was told that Mexico will not accept 7 him because of he is sick and disabled. Id.

9 II. The repatriation agreement with Cuba allows it to use 10 its discretion in accepting Cuban nationals that entered 11 the United States prior to 2017 on a case-by-case basis.

12 Prior to 2017, there was no repatriation agreement between the 13 United States and Cuba. Clark v. Martinez, 543 U.S. 371, 386 (2005).
14 On January 12, 2017, the United States and Cuba signed a joint 15 statement (“2017 Joint Statement”) by which Cuba agreed to the 16 repatriation of some Cuban nationals. Cuba (17-112) – Joint Statement 17 Concerning Normalization of Migration Procedures, Jan. 12, 2017, 18 available at <https://www.state.gov/17-112/>. The 2017 Joint Statement 19 required Cuba to accept some Cuban nationals but allowed it to use its 20 discretion to accept others on a case-by-case basis.

21 Specifically, under the agreement Cuba “shall receive back all 22 Cuban nationals who after the signing” of the 2017 Joint Statement 23 “found by the competent authorities of the United States to have tried 24 to irregularly enter or remain in that country in violation of United 25 States law.” Id. at 2. The agreement also stated that Cuba “shall accept 26 individuals included in the list of 2,746 to be returned in accordance 27 with the Joint Communiqué of December 14, 1984,” who came to the 28 United States in 1980 via the Port of Mariel. Id. Cuba is not required

1 to accept a third group of Cuban Nationals. Under the 2017 Joint 2 Statement, Cuba agrees to “consider and decide on a case-by-case basis 3 the return of other Cuban nationals presently in the United States of 4 America who before the signing of this Joint Statement had been found 5 by the competent authorities of the United States to have tried to 6 irregularly enter or remain in that country in violation of United 7 States law.” Id. Petitioner falls into this last group of Cuban Nationals 8 since he was found to “have tried to irregularly enter or remain in that 9 country” prior to the 2017 Joint Statement.

10 11 Moreover, despite the 2017 Joint Statement, a 2019 report by the 12 Office of Inspector General classified Cuba as an “uncooperative 13 country” in 2017, 2018, and 2019 based on its failure to provide travel 14 documents on a timely basis. Department of Homeland Security, Office 15 of Inspector General, Report No. OIG-19-28, ICE Faces Barriers in 16 Timely Repatriation of Detained Aliens (Mar. 11, 2019), available at 17 https://www.oig.dhs.gov/sites/default/files/assets/2019-03/OIG-19-28-
18 Mar19.pdf at pages 6-7, 10, 29. In May of 2018, Cuba was one of nine 19 countries with the uncooperative categorization. Id. at 10.

20 As of the filing of this petition, Petitioner cannot find available 21 numbers of pre-2017 Cuban nationals who have been repatriated to 22 Cuba.

23 Based on the facts of Mr. Sanchez’s individual case, it is evident 24 that ICE has not obtained travel documents from Cuba. This is evident 25 because for ICE has been unsuccessful in obtaining travel documents.

26 III. The government is carrying out deportations to third 27 countries without providing sufficient notice and 28 opportunity to be heard.

1           When immigrants cannot be removed to their home country—2 including Cuban immigrants—ICE has begun deporting those 3 individuals to third countries without adequate notice or a hearing.
4 The Trump administration reportedly has negotiated with at least 58 5 countries to accept deportees from other nations. Edward Wong et al, 6 Inside the Global Deal-Making Behind Trump’s Mass Deportations, 7 N.Y. Times, June 25, 2025. On June 25, 2025, the New York Times
8 reported that seven countries—Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, 9 Kosovo, Mexico, Panama, and Rwanda—had agreed to accept 10 deportees who are not their own citizens. Id. ICE has carried out 11 highly publicized third country deportations to South Sudan and 12 Eswatini.

14           The Administration has reportedly negotiated with countries to 15 have many of these deportees imprisoned in prisons, camps, or other 16 facilities. The government paid El Salvador about $5 million to 17 imprison more than 200 deported Venezuelans in a maximum-security 18 prison notorious for gross human rights abuses, known as CECOT. See 19 id. In February, Panama and Costa Rica took in hundreds of deportees 20 from countries in Africa and Central Asia and imprisoned them in 21 hotels, a jungle camp, and a detention center. Id.; Vanessa 22 Buschschluter, Costa Rican court orders release of migrants deported
23 from U.S., BBC (Jun. 25, 2025). On July 4, 2025, ICE deported eight 24 men to South Sudan. See Wong, supra. On July 15, ICE deported five 25 men to the tiny African nation of Eswatini where they are reportedly 26 being held in solitary confinement. Gerald Imray, 3 Deported by US
27 held in African Prison Despite Completing Sentences, Lawyers Say,

1 PBS (Sept. 2, 2025). Many of these countries are known for human 2 rights abuses or instability. For instance, conditions in South Sudan 3 are so extreme that the U.S. State Department website warns 4 Americans not to travel there, and if they do, to prepare their will, 5 make funeral arrangements, and appoint a hostage-taker negotiator 6 first. See Wong, supra.

7 On June 23 and July 3, 2025, the Supreme Court issued a stay of 8 a national class-wide preliminary injunction issued in D.V.D. v. U.S.
9 Department of Homeland Security, No. CV 25-10676-BEM, 2025 WL 10 1142968, at *1, 3 (D. Mass. Apr. 18, 2025), which required ICE to 11 follow statutory and constitutional requirements before removing an 12 individual to a third country. U.S. Dep't of Homeland Sec. v. D.V.D., 13 145 S. Ct. 2153 (2025) (mem.); id., No. 24A1153, 2025 WL 1832186
14 (U.S. July 3, 2025).<sup>3</sup> On July 9, 2025, ICE rescinded previous guidance 15 meant to give immigrants a “meaningful opportunity’ to assert claims 16 for protection under the Convention Against Torture (CAT) before 17 initiating removal to a third country” like the ones just described. Exh.
18 B (“Third Country Removal Policy”).

19 Under the new guidance, ICE may remove any immigrant to a 20 third country “without the need for further procedures,” as long as—in 21

23
24 <sup>3</sup> Though the Supreme Court’s order was unreasoned, the dissent noted that the 25 government had sought a stay based on procedural arguments applicable only to 26 class actions. Dep’t of Homeland Sec. v. D.V.D., 145 S. Ct. 2153, 2160 (2025) 27 (Sotomayor, J., dissenting). Thus, “even if the Government [was] correct that 28 classwide relief was impermissible” in D.V.D., Respondents still “remain[] obligated to comply with orders enjoining [their] conduct with respect to individual plaintiffs” like Petitioner. Id. In short, the Supreme Court’s decision does not override this Court’s authority to grant individual injunctive relief. See Nguyen v.
Scott, No. 2:25-CV-01398, 2025 WL 2419288, at *20–23 (W.D. Wash. Aug. 21, 2025).

1 the view of the State Department—the United States has received 2 “credible” “assurances” from that country that deportees will not be 3 persecuted or tortured. Id. at 1. If a country fails to credibly promise not 4 to persecute or torture releasees, ICE may still remove immigrants there 5 with minimal notice. Id. Ordinarily, ICE must provide 24 hours’ notice.
6 But “[i]n exigent circumstances,” a removal may take place in as little 7 as six hours, “as long as the alien is provided reasonably means and 8 opportunity to speak with an attorney prior to the removal.” Id.

10 Upon serving notice, ICE “will not affirmatively ask whether the 11 alien is afraid of being removed to the country of removal.” Id.
12 (emphasis original). If the noncitizen “does not affirmatively state a 13 fear of persecution or torture if removed to the country of removal 14 listed on the Notice of Removal within 24 hours, [ICE] may proceed 15 with removal to the country identified on the notice.” Id. at 2. If the 16 noncitizen “does affirmatively state a fear if removed to the country of 17 removal” then ICE will refer the case to U.S. Citizenship and 18 Immigration Services (“USCIS”) for a screening for eligibility for 19 withholding of removal and protection under the Convention Against 20 Torture (“CAT”). Id. at 2. “USCIS will generally screen within 24 21 hours.” Id. If USCIS determines that the noncitizen does not meet the 22 standard, the individual will be removed. Id. If USCIS determines that 23 the noncitizen has met the standard, then the policy directs ICE to 24 either move to reopen removal proceedings “for the sole purpose of 25 determining eligibility for [withholding of removal protection] and 26 CAT” or designate another country for removal. Id.

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

This Court should grant this petition and order two forms of relief.

First, it should order Mr. Sanchez immediate release. ICE failed to follow its own regulations requiring changed circumstances before re-detention, as well as a chance to promptly contest a re-detention decision. And Zadvydas v. Davis holds that immigration statutes do not authorize the government to detain immigrants like Mr. Sanchez, for whom there is “no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.” 533 U.S. 678, 701 (2001).

Second, it should enjoin the Respondents from removing Petitioner to a third country without first providing notice and a sufficient opportunity to be heard before an immigration judge.

I. Count 1: ICE failed to comply with its own regulations before re-detaining Mr. Sanchez, violating his rights under applicable regulations and the Fifth Amendment.

Two regulations establish the process due to someone who is re-detained in immigration custody following a period of release. 8 C.F.R. § 241.4(l) applies to re-detention generally. 8 C.F.R. § 241.13(i) applies to persons released after providing good reason to believe that they will not be removed in the reasonably foreseeable future, as Mr. Sanchez was. See Rokhfirooz, No. 25-CV-2053-RSH-VET, 2025 WL 2646165 at *2 (order from Judge Huie explaining this regulatory framework and granting a habeas petition for ICE’s failure to follow these regulations).

These regulations permit an official to “return [the person] to custody” because they “violate[d] any of the conditions of release.” 8 C.F.R. § 241.13(i)(1); see also § 241.4(l)(1).

1           Otherwise, they contain four major regulatory protections for 2 people like Mr. Sanchez, who did not violate any condition of release.
3 They permit revocation of release only if the appropriate official (1) 4 “determines that there is a significant likelihood that the alien may be 5 removed in the reasonably foreseeable future,” § 241.13(i)(2), and (2) 6 makes that finding “on account of changed circumstances.” Id. No 7 matter the reason for re-detention, (3) the re-detained person is 8 entitled to “an initial informal interview promptly,” during which they 9 “will be notified of the reasons for revocation.” §§ 241.4(l)(1); 10 241.13(i)(3). The interviewer must (4) “afford[] the [person] an 11 opportunity to respond to the reasons for revocation,” allowing them to 12 “submit any evidence or information” relevant to re-detention and 13 evaluating “any contested facts.” Id.

14           ICE is required to follow its own regulations. United States ex rel.
15 Accardi v. Shaughnessy, 347 U.S. 260, 268 (1954); see Alcaraz v. INS, 16 384 F.3d 1150, 1162 (9th Cir. 2004) (“The legal proposition that 17 agencies may be required to abide by certain internal policies is well-18 established.”). A court may review a re-detention decision for 19 compliance with the regulations, and “where ICE fails to follow its own 20 regulations in revoking release, the detention is unlawful and the 21 petitioner’s release must be ordered.” Rokhfirooz, 2025 WL 2646165 at 22 *4 (collecting cases).

23           ICE followed none of its four regulatory prerequisites to re-24 detention here. Mr. Sanchez was not returned to custody because of a 25 conditions violation. There are no changed circumstances that justify 26 re-detaining him, and no record of a determination before or after his 27
28

1 arrest that “there is a significant likelihood that [Petitioner] may be 2 removed in the reasonably foreseeable future.” Id. at *3 (quoting 8 3 C.F.R. § 241.13(i)(3)(1)). Absent any evidence for “why obtaining a 4 travel document is more likely this time around[,] Respondents’ intent 5 to eventually complete a travel document request for Petitioner does 6 not constitute a changed circumstance.” Hoac v. Becerra, No. 2:25-CV-7 01740-DC-JDP, 2025 WL 1993771, at *4 (E.D. Cal. July 16, 2025)
8 (citing Liu v. Carter, No. 25-3036-JWL, 2025 WL 1696526, at *2 (D.
9 Kan. June 17, 2025)). Nor has Mr. Sanchez received the interview 10 required by regulation, or been afforded a meaningful opportunity to 11 respond to the reasons for revocation. Exhibit A, ¶4-5. No one from ICE 12 has ever invited him to contest his detention. Id.

14 Numerous courts have released re-detained immigrants after 15 finding that ICE failed to comply with applicable regulations this 16 summer and fall. See, e.g., Rokhfirooz, 2025 WL 2646165; Grigorian, 17 2025 WL 2604573; Delkash v. Noem, 2025 WL 2683988; Ceesay v.

22 Bostock, No. 6:25-CV-01204-AA, 2025 WL 2430267, at *10–12 (D. Or.

1 “[B]ecause officials did not properly revoke petitioner's release 2 pursuant to the applicable regulations, that revocation has no effect, 3 and [Mr. Sanchez] is entitled to his release (subject to the same Order 4 of Supervision that governed his most recent release).” Liu, 2025 WL 5 1696526, at *3.

7 I. Count 2: Mr. Sanchez’s detention violates Zadvydas and 8 U.S.C. § 1231.

8 A. Legal background

9 In Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001), the Supreme Court 10 considered a problem affecting people like Mr. Bueno Angulo: Federal 11 law requires ICE to detain an immigrant during the “removal period,” 12 which typically spans the first 90 days after the immigrant is ordered 13 removed. 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)-(2). After that 90-day removal period 14 expires, detention becomes discretionary—ICE may detain the migrant 15 while continuing to try to remove them. Id. § 1231(a)(6). Ordinarily, 16 this scheme would not lead to excessive detention, as removal happens 17 within days or weeks. But some detainees cannot be removed quickly.
18 Perhaps their removal “simply require[s] more time for processing,” or 19 they are “ordered removed to countries with whom the United States 20 does not have a repatriation agreement,” or their countries “refuse to 21 take them,” or they are “effectively ‘stateless’ because of their race 22 and/or place of birth.” Kim Ho Ma v. Ashcroft, 257 F.3d 1095, 1104 (9th 23 Cir. 2001). In these and other circumstances, detained immigrants can 24 find themselves trapped in detention for months, years, decades, or 25 even the rest of their lives.
26

27 If federal law were understood to allow for “indefinite, perhaps 28 permanent, detention,” it would pose “a serious constitutional threat.”

1 Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 699. In Zadvydas, the Supreme Court avoided 2 the constitutional concern by interpreting § 1231(a)(6) to incorporate 3 implicit limits. Id. at 689.

4 As an initial matter, Zadvydas held that detention is 5 “presumptively reasonable” for at least six months. Id. at 701. This 6 presumption is, in some circumstances even before the running of six 7 months, “rebuttable.” See Zavvar, 2025 WL 2592543 at *5–*6 8 (explaining this point when granting Zadvydas habeas relief).

10 Courts must use a burden-shifting framework to decide whether 11 detention remains authorized. First, the petitioner must make a prima 12 facie case for relief: He must prove that there is “good reason to believe 13 that there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably 14 foreseeable future.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 689.

15 If he does so, the burden shifts to “the Government [to] respond 16 with evidence sufficient to rebut that showing.” Id. Ultimately, then, 17 the burden of proof rests with the government: The government must 18 prove that there is a “significant likelihood of removal in the 19 reasonably foreseeable future,” or the immigrant must be released. Id.

20 To underline the government’s burden, good faith is beside the 21 point. “[U]nder Zadvydas, the reasonableness of Petitioner’s detention 22 does not turn on the degree of the government’s good faith efforts.
23 Indeed, the Zadvydas court explicitly rejected such a standard. Rather, 24 the reasonableness of Petitioner’s detention turns on whether and to 25 what extent the government’s efforts are likely to bear fruit.” Hassoun 26 v. Sessions, No. 18-CV-586-FPG, 2019 WL 78984, at *5 (W.D.N.Y. Jan.
27 2, 2019). Accordingly, “the Government is required to demonstrate the 28

1 likelihood of not only the existence of untapped possibilities, but also of 2 a probability of success in such possibilities.” Elashi v. Sabol, 714 F.
3 Supp. 2d 502, 506 (M.D. Pa. 2010).

4 Using this framework, Mr. Sanchez can make all the threshold 5 showings needed to shift the burden to the government.

7 B. The six-month grace period expired in 2001.

8 As an initial matter, the six-month grace period has long since 9 ended. The Zadvydas grace period lasts for “six months after a final 10 order of removal—that is, three months after the statutory removal 11 period has ended.” Kim Ho Ma v. Ashcroft, 257 F.3d 1095, 1102 n.5 12 (9th Cir. 2001). Here, Petitioner’s order of removal was entered in 13 April 2005.<sup>4</sup> Accordingly, his 90-day removal period began then. 8 14 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)(B). The Zadvydas grace period thus expired three 15 months after the removal period ended, in October 2005. Moreover, 16 Mr. Sanchez has already spent seven months in immigration custody.
17 Thus, this threshold requirement is met.

18 The government has sometimes argued that release and rearrest 19 resets the six-month grace period completely, taking the clock back to 20 zero. “Courts . . . broadly agree” that this is not correct. Diaz-Ortega v.
21 Lund, 2019 WL 6003485, at *7 n.6 (W.D. La. Oct. 15, 2019), report and 22 recommendation adopted, 2019 WL 6037220 (W.D. La. Nov. 13, 2019); 23 see also Sied v. Nielsen, No. 17-CV-06785-LB, 2018 WL 1876907, at *6 24 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 19, 2018) (collecting cases). This proposal would create 25 an obvious end run around Zadvydas, because ICE could detain an 26

27
28 <sup>4</sup> <https://acis.eoir.justice.gov/en/caseInformation>.

1 immigrant indefinitely by releasing and quickly rearresting them 2 every six months.

4 C. There is good reason to believe that there is no
5 significant likelihood of Mr. Bueno Agnulo’s removal 6 in the reasonably foreseeable future.

7 Because the six-month grace period has passed, this Court must 8 evaluate Mr. Sanchez’s Zadvydas claim using the burden-shifting 9 framework. At the first stage of the framework, there must be “good 10 reason to believe that there is no significant likelihood of removal in 11 the reasonably foreseeable future.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. This 12 standard can be broken down into three parts.

13 “Good reason to believe.” The “good reason to believe” 14 standard is a relatively forgiving one. “A petitioner need not establish 15 that there exists no possibility of removal.” Freeman v. Watkins, No.
16 CV B:09-160, 2009 WL 10714999, at *3 (S.D. Tex. Dec. 22, 2009). Nor 17 does “[g]ood reason to believe’ . . . place a burden upon the detainee to 18 demonstrate no reasonably foreseeable, significant likelihood of 19 removal or show that his detention is indefinite; it is something less 20 than that.” Rual v. Barr, No. 6:20-CV-06215 EAW, 2020 WL 3972319, 21 at *3 (W.D.N.Y. July 14, 2020) (quoting Senor v. Barr, 401 F. Supp. 3d 22 420, 430 (W.D.N.Y. 2019)). In short, the standard means what it says:
23 Petitioners need only give a “good reason”—not prove anything to a 24 certainty.

25 “No significant likelihood of removal.” This component 26 focuses on whether Petitioner will likely be removed: Continued 27 detention is permissible only if it is “significant[ly] like[ly]” that ICE 28 will be able to remove him. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. This inquiry targets “not only the existence of untapped possibilities, but also [the]

1 probability of success in such possibilities.” Elashi v. Sabol, 714 F.
2 Supp. 2d 502, 506 (M.D. Pa. 2010) (second emphasis added). In other 3 words, even if “there remains some possibility of removal,” a petitioner 4 can still meet its burden if there is good reason to believe that 5 successful removal is not significantly likely. Kacanic v. Elwood, No.
6 CIV.A. 02-8019, 2002 WL 31520362, at *4 (E.D. Pa. Nov. 8, 2002) 7 (emphasis added).

8 “In the reasonably foreseeable future.” This component of 9 the test focuses on when Petitioner will likely be removed: Continued 10 detention is permissible only if removal is likely to happen “in the 11 reasonably foreseeable future.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701. This 12 inquiry places a time limit on ICE’s removal efforts. If the Court has 13 “no idea of when it might reasonably expect [Petitioner] to be 14 repatriated, this Court certainly cannot conclude that his removal is 15 likely to occur—or even that it might occur—in the reasonably 16 foreseeable future.” Palma v. Gillis, No. 5:19-CV-112-DCB-MTP, 2020 17 WL 4880158, at *3 (S.D. Miss. July 7, 2020), report and 18 recommendation adopted, 2020 WL 4876859 (S.D. Miss. Aug. 19, 2020)
19 (quoting Singh v. Whitaker, 362 F. Supp. 3d 93, 102 (W.D.N.Y. 2019)).
20 Thus, even if this Court concludes that Petitioner “would eventually 21 receive” a travel document, he can still meet his burden by giving good 22 reason to anticipate sufficiently lengthy delays. Younes v. Lynch, 2016 23 WL 6679830, at *2 (E.D. Mich. Nov. 14, 2016).

24 Petitioner readily satisfies the above standards for two reasons.

25 First, as explained above, the 2017 Joint Statement between the 26 United States and Cuba gives Cuba the discretion to accept individuals 27 on a case-by-case basis. Even following the 2017 Joint Statement, the 28

1 United States has categorized Cuba as uncooperative in providing 2 travel documents in a timely manner.

3 Second, Petitioner own experience bears this out. ICE has now
4 had almost 25 years to deport him. He has fully cooperated with ICE's 5 removal efforts throughout that time, including at yearly check-ins.
6 Yet ICE has not informed Mr. Sanchez of any communication with 7 Cuba or the likelihood of obtaining travel documents from Cuba.

8 Third, ICE already attempted to remove Mr. Sanchez to a third 9 country, Mexico. But Mexico would not accept him because of his poor 10 medical condition.

11 Finally, Mr. Sanchez has recently been in immigration custody 12 for seven months and the government has not been successful at 13 removing him during that time.

14 Thus, Mr. Sanchez has met his initial burden, and the burden 15 shifts to the government. Unless the government can prove a 16 "significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future," 17 Mr. Sanchez must be released. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 701.

18 D. Zadvydas unambiguously prohibits this Court from 19 denying Mr. Sanchez's petition because of his 20 criminal history.

21 If released on supervision, Mr. Sanchez poses no risk of danger or 22 flight. He has been on supervision for over two decades.

23 Regardless, Zadvydas squarely holds that risk of danger or flight 24 are not grounds for detaining an immigrant when there is no 25 reasonable likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.
26 533 U.S. at 684–91.

27 The two petitioners in Zadvydas both had significant criminal 28 history. Mr. Zadvydas himself had "a long criminal record, involving drug crimes, attempted robbery, attempted burglary, and theft," as well

1 as “a history of flight, from both criminal and deportation proceedings.”
2 Id. at 684. The other petitioner, Kim Ho Ma, was “involved in a gang-3 related shooting [and] convicted of manslaughter.” Id. at 685. The 4 government argued that both men could be detained regardless of their 5 likelihood of removal, because they posed too great a risk of danger or 6 flight. Id. at 690–91.

7 The Supreme Court rejected that argument. The Court
8 appreciated the seriousness of the government’s concerns. Id. at 691.
9 But the Court found that the immigrant’s liberty interests were 10 weightier. Id. The Court had never countenanced “potentially 11 permanent” “civil confinement,” based only on the government’s belief 12 that the person would misbehave in the future. Id.

13 The Court also noted that the government was free to use the 14 many tools at its disposal to mitigate risk: “[O]f course, the alien’s 15 release may and should be conditioned on any of the various forms of 16 supervised release that are appropriate in the circumstances, and the 17 alien may no doubt be returned to custody upon a violation of those 18 conditions.” Id. at 700. The Ninth Circuit later elaborated, “All aliens 19 ordered released must comply with the stringent supervision 20 requirements set out in 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(3). [They] will have to 21 appear before an immigration officer periodically, answer certain 22 questions, submit to medical or psychiatric testing as necessary, and 23 accept reasonable restrictions on [their] conduct and activities, 24 including severe travel limitations. More important, if [they] engage [ ] 25 in any criminal activity during this time, including violation of [their] 26 supervisory release conditions, [they] can be detained and incarcerated 27 as part of the normal criminal process.” Ma, 257 F.3d at 1115.

28

1           These conditions have proved sufficient to protect the public over 2 the last two decades. They will continue to do so while ICE keeps 3 trying to deport Mr. Sanchez.

4       II. Count 3: ICE may not remove Mr. Sanchez to a third 5       country without adequate notice and an opportunity to be 6       heard.

7           In addition to unlawfully detaining him, ICE’s policies threaten 8 his removal to a third country without adequate notice and an 9 opportunity to be heard. These policies violate the Fifth Amendment, 10 the Convention Against Torture, and implementing regulations.

11       A. Legal background

12           U.S. law enshrines protections against dangerous and life-13 threatening removal decisions. By statute, the government is prohibited 14 from removing an immigrant to any third country where they may be 15 persecuted or tortured, a form of protection known as withholding of 16 removal. See 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(3)(A). The government “may not remove 17 [a noncitizen] to a country if the Attorney General decides that the 18 [noncitizen’s] life or freedom would be threatened in that country 19 because of the [noncitizen’s] race, religion, nationality, membership in a 20 particular social group, or political opinion.” Id.; see also 8 C.F.R. §§ 21 208.16, 1208.16. Withholding of removal is a mandatory protection.

22           Similarly, Congress codified protections enshrined in the CAT 23 prohibiting the government from removing a person to a country where 24 they would be tortured. See FARRA 2681-822 (codified as 8 U.S.C. § 25 1231 note) (“It shall be the policy of the United States not to expel, 26 extradite, or otherwise effect the involuntary return of any person to a 27 country in which there are substantial grounds for believing the person 28 would be in danger of being subjected to torture, regardless of whether

1 the person is physically present in the United States.”); 28 C.F.R. § 2 200.1; id. §§ 208.16-208.18, 1208.16-1208.18. CAT protection is also 3 mandatory.

4 To comport with the requirements of due process, the government 5 must provide notice of the third country removal and an opportunity to 6 respond. Due process requires “written notice of the country being 7 designated” and “the statutory basis for the designation, i.e., the 8 applicable subsection of § 1231(b)(2).” Aden v. Nielsen, 409 F. Supp. 3d 9 998, 1019 (W.D. Wash. 2019); accord D.V.D. v. U.S. Dep’t of Homeland
10 Sec., No. 25-cv-10676-BEM, 2025 WL 1453640, at *1 (D. Mass. May 21, 11 2025); Andriasian v. INS, 180 F.3d 1033, 1041 (9th Cir. 1999).

12 The government must also “ask the noncitizen whether he or she 13 fears persecution or harm upon removal to the designated country and 14 memorialize in writing the noncitizen’s response. This requirement 15 ensures DHS will obtain the necessary information from the noncitizen 16 to comply with section 1231(b)(3) and avoids [a dispute about what the 17 officer and noncitizen said].” Aden, 409 F. Supp. 3d at 1019. “Failing to 18 notify individuals who are subject to deportation that they have the 19 right to apply for asylum in the United States and for withholding of 20 deportation to the country to which they will be deported violates both 21 INS regulations and the constitutional right to due process.”
22 Andriasian, 180 F.3d at 1041.

23 If the noncitizen claims fear, measures must be taken to ensure 24 that the noncitizen can seek asylum, withholding, and relief under CAT 25 before an immigration judge in reopened removal proceedings. The 26 amount and type of notice must be “sufficient” to ensure that “given [a 27 noncitizen’s] capacities and circumstances, he would have a reasonable 28 opportunity to raise and pursue his claim for withholding of 1 deportation.” Aden, 409 F. Supp. 3d at 1009 (citing Mathews v. Eldridge, 2 424 U.S. 319, 349 (1976) and Kossov v. I.N.S., 132 F.3d 405, 408 (7th 3 Cir. 1998)); cf. D.V.D., 2025 WL 1453640, at *1 (requiring the 4 government to move to reopen the noncitizen’s immigration proceedings 5 if the individual demonstrates “reasonable fear” and to provide “a 6 meaningful opportunity, and a minimum of fifteen days, for the non-7 citizen to seek reopening of their immigration proceedings” if the 8 noncitizen is found to not have demonstrated “reasonable fear”); Aden, 9 409 F. Supp. 3d at 1019 (requiring notice and time for a respondent to 10 file a motion to reopen and seek relief).

11 “[L]ast minute” notice of the country of removal will not suffice, 12 Andriasian, 180 F.3d at 1041; accord Najjar v. Lunch, 630 Fed. App’x 13 724 (9th Cir. 2016), and for good reason: To have a meaningful 14 opportunity to apply for fear-based protection from removal, immigrants 15 must have time to prepare and present relevant arguments and 16 evidence. Merely telling a person where they may be sent, without giving 17 them a chance to look into country conditions, does not give them a 18 meaningful chance to determine whether and why they have a credible 19 fear.

20 B. The June 6, 2025 memo’s removal policies violate the 21 Fifth Amendment, 8 U.S.C. § 1231, the Conviction
22 Against Torture, and Implementing Regulations.

23 The policies in the June 6, 2025 memo do not adhere to these 24 requirements. First, under the policy, ICE need not give immigrants any 25 notice or any opportunity to be heard before removing them to a country 26 that—in the State Department’s estimation—has provided “credible” 27 “assurances” against persecution and torture. Exh. B. By depriving 28 immigrants of any chance to challenge the State Department’s view, this

1 policy violates “[t]he essence of due process,” “the requirement that a 2 person in jeopardy of serious loss be given notice of the case against him
3 and opportunity to meet it.” Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 348 4 (1976) (cleaned up).

5 Second, even when the government has obtained no credible 6 assurances against persecution and torture, the government can still 7 remove the person with between 6 and 24 hours’ notice, depending on 8 the circumstances. Exh. B. Practically speaking, there is not nearly 9 enough time for a detained person to assess their risk in the third 10 country and marshal evidence to support any credible fear—let alone a 11 chance to file a motion to reopen with an IJ. An immigrant may know 12 nothing about a third country, like Eswatini or South Sudan, when they 13 are scheduled for removal there. Yet if given the opportunity to 14 investigate conditions, immigrants would find credible reasons to fear 15 persecution or torture—like patterns of keeping deportees indefinitely 16 and without charge in solitary confinement or extreme instability 17 raising a high likelihood of death—in many of the third countries that 18 have agreed to removal thus far. Due process requires an adequate 19 chance to identify and raise these threats to health and life. This Court 20 must prohibit the government from removing Petitioner without these 21 due process safeguards.

22
23 III. This Court must hold an evidentiary hearing on any 24 disputed facts.

25 Resolution of a prolonged-detention habeas petition may require 26 an evidentiary hearing. Owino v. Napolitano, 575 F.3d 952, 956 (9th Cir.
27 2009). Petitioner hereby requests such a hearing on any material, 28 disputed facts.

1 IV. Prayer for relief

2 For the foregoing reasons, Petitioner respectfully requests that 3 this Court:

- 4 1. Order Respondents to immediately release Petitioner from 5 custody under the same conditions of supervision;
- 6 2. Enjoin Respondents from re-detaining Petitioner under 8 7 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(6) unless and until Respondents obtain a 8 travel document for his removal;
- 9 3. Enjoin Respondents from re-detaining Petitioner without first 10 following all procedures set forth in 8 C.F.R. §§ 241.4(I), 11 241.13(i), and any other applicable statutory and regulatory 12 procedures;
- 13 4. Enjoin Respondents from removing Petitioner to any country 14 other than Cuba, unless they provide the following process, see 15 D.V.D. v. U.S. Dep't of Homeland Sec., No. CV 25-10676-BEM, 16 2025 WL 1453640, at *1 (D. Mass. May 21, 2025):
  - 17 a. written notice to both Petitioner and Petitioner's counsel 18 in a language Petitioner can understand;
  - 19 b. a meaningful opportunity, and a minimum of ten days, to 20 raise a fear-based claim for CAT protection prior to 21 removal;
  - 22 c. if Petitioner is found to have demonstrated "reasonable 23 fear" of removal to the country, Respondents must move 24 to reopen Petitioner's immigration proceedings;
  - 25 d. if Petitioner is not found to have demonstrated a 26 "reasonable fear" of removal to the country, a meaningful

I, Victor Hugo Sanchez Cantero, declare:

1. I was born in Cuba in 1966. In 1990-1996, I was at Guantanamo Bay. In 1995, I came to the United States as a political refugee.

2. On April 11, 2005, an immigration judge ordered me deported to Cuba.

3. In 2021, ICE placed me on an order of supervision. I am required to check in with ICE annually. I have never missed an appointment. I reported to ICE on January 2025. I was told that my next appointment date was January 2026.

4. On June 25, 2025, I went to an area where people provide food to people and give medical attention. While I was waiting for food, an immigration officer arrested me.

5. I was not given a written notice letting me know why my order of supervision was being revoked. I was not given an interview where I could contest my detention.

6. Ever since June 25, I have been detained at the Otay Mesa Detention Center. I have now been detained for almost seven months.

7. I have bone and prostate cancer. This week, I went to the emergency room. I was told by the doctor that I have a year and a half to live.

8. I have two dogs, Lobi and Shakur, they are like my babies and I miss them
