

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
MIDDLE DISTRICT OF FLORIDA
FORT MYERS DIVISION

WILMER BLANCO CARRILLO,

Petitioner,

v.

SECRETARY, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY, et al. (all official capacity),

Respondents.

Case No. 2:26-cv-626-SPC-NPM

A No.

Cuba

Response to Emergency Motion to Enforce

Petitioner's Emergency Motion to Enforce (Doc. 10) should be denied as moot. See (Doc. 11). Petitioner was released from custody on late Friday night (April 3) or early Saturday morning (April 4). So the Federal Respondents have already complied with the Court's Order. (Doc. 7).

The US Attorney's Office ("USAO") first learned of a possible issue with Petitioner's bond hearing when he filed the Motion on the afternoon of April 3. (Doc. 10). The USAO immediately forwarded the Motion to U.S. Immigrations and Customs Enforcement ("ICE") for investigation. On Friday evening, ICE relayed that a bond hearing did not occur due to a scheduling miscommunication at the detention center. After discussion, ICE agreed release was then required under the Order. So ICE proceeded to release—which occurred sometime late Friday or early Saturday.

Today, the USAO received confirmation of Petitioner's release from ICE. And Petitioner is no longer appearing in ICE's detainee locator.¹ The USAO emailed Petitioner's next of friend this morning about the development. But it has not yet received a response before filing.

For those reasons, the Court should deny the Motion as moot.
