INTRODUCTION

1. In 2008, Congress passed the William Wilberforce Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act (“TVPRA”) creating special procedures for processing the immigration cases of unaccompanied alien children (“UACs”) in recognition of their vulnerability in migrating alone to the United States due to human trafficking and other forms of exploitation. 8 U.S.C. § 1232(a)(1). One of the protections included in the TVPRA provides that an asylum officer shall have initial jurisdiction over any asylum application filed by a UAC. INA § 208(b)(3)(C); 8 U.S.C. 1158(b)(3)(C). These protections extend until the age of twenty-one (21) subject to certain conditions. See J.O.P. v. DHS, No. 8:19-CV-01944-SAG (D. Md.).
2. However, certain protections and privileges for UACs, such as the right to a bond hearing, were not codified in the TVPRA, causing this vulnerable class of immigrants to suffer prolonged detention in inhumane conditions. (“Plaintiffs submit evidence showing that, in practice, ORR currently detains unaccompanied minors for months, and even years, without providing them with any opportunity to be heard before a neutral person with authority to review the basis for the detention. Flores v. Sessions, 862 F.3d 863, 872 (9th Cir. 2017).
3. Over the years, the courts have stepped in to ensure that this uniquely vulnerable class of immigrants receives the protections to which they are entitled as a matter of law, due process, and fundamental notions of fairness. See id; see also, Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 121 S. Ct. 2491 (2001)¹. The case at bar is an opportunity for this Honorable Court to step in once again in the interest of justice to allow this innocent young man to be released to in accordance with the law.

JURISDICTION

4. This action arises under the Constitution of the United States and the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), 8 U.S.C. § 1101 et seq.

5. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 (habeas corpus), 28 U.S.C. § 1331 (federal question), and Article I, § 9, cl. 2 of the United States Constitution (Suspension Clause).
6. This Court may grant relief under the habeas corpus statutes, 28 U.S.C. § 2241 et seq., the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201 et seq., the All Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651, and the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1252(e)(2).

VENUE

7. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(e) and 28 U.S.C. § 2241 because a substantial part of the events giving rise to these claims occurred in this district. Petitioner is currently detained at Glades County Detention Center, located at 1279 East SR 78, Moore Haven, FL 33471, within the jurisdiction of the Middle District of Florida, and all of his removal proceedings are being conducted by Immigration Judge Michael G. Walleisa out of the Krome Immigration Court in Miami, FL. In the event of jurisdictional error, the district court wherein such an application is filed in the exercise of its discretion and in furtherance of justice may transfer the application to the other district court for hearing and determination.

REQUIREMENTS OF 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241, 2243

8. The Court must grant the petition for writ of habeas corpus “forthwith” unless the petitioner is not entitled to relief. 28 U.S.C. § 2243.
9. Courts have long recognized the significance of the habeas statute in protecting individuals from unlawful detention. The Great Writ has been referred to as “perhaps the most important writ known to the constitutional law of England, affording as it does a swift and imperative remedy in all cases of illegal restraint or confinement.” Fay v. Noia, 372 U.S. 391, 400 (1963).
10. Petitioner is “in custody” within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 2241 because he is arrested and detained by Respondents at the Glades County Detention Center in Moore Haven, Florida, pursuant to immigration detention authority. Petitioner challenges that custody as unlawful under the Constitution, federal law, and applicable treaties.

PARTIES

11. Petitioner is MARLON ONAN RAMIREZ-BAMACA, a citizen and national of Guatemala who entered the United States as a UAC on or about December 14, 2017.
 12. Respondent, DAVID HARDIN, in their official capacity as Warden, Glades County Detention Center, has immediate custody over Petitioner and is responsible for his detention.
 13. Respondent, JUAN AGUDELO, in their official capacity as the Miami Field Office Director for Enforcement and Removal Operations, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, is responsible for the custody, detention, and removal of noncitizens within this jurisdiction.
 14. Respondent, TODD LYONS, in their official capacity as Acting Director of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security Immigration and Customs Enforcement at Glades County Detention Center, located at 1279 East SR 78, Moore Haven, FL 33471.
 15. Respondent, KRISTI NOEM, in their official capacity as Secretary of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, is the head of DHS at Glades County Detention Center, located at 1279 East SR 78, Moore Haven, FL 33471, which oversees ICE and is ultimately responsible for the unlawful detention of Petitioner.
 16. Respondent, PAM BONDI, in their official capacity as Attorney General of the United States, is charged with the administration and enforcement of the immigration laws and is a proper respondent under 28 U.S.C. § 2243.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

17. Marlon Ramirez Bamaca (“Petitioner” or “Marlon”) is a native and citizen of Guatemala who entered the United States as an Unaccompanied Alien Child (“UAC”) on or about December 14, 2017, at the age of seventeen (17). See Exhibit A, Notice to Appear; see also Exhibit B, Verification of Release.
18. Respondents processed the Petitioner as an alien present without admission or parole, after which he was detained for over two months until he was released as a UAC into the custody of his aunt, Alba Marina Garcia, on February 17, 2018, at the age of seventeen (17). Id.
19. On October 25 2018, Petitioner filed his I-589, Application for Asylum, not with the immigration court, but with the agency for which initial jurisdiction of asylum applications resides for unaccompanied minors: The United States Citizenship and Immigration Service (“USCIS”). 8 U.S.C. 1158(b)(3)(C); INA § 208(b)(3)(C). See Exhibit C, I-589 Asylum Application Receipt.
20. By filing his asylum application when he did, Petitioner became entitled to certain rights as a member of a certified nationwide class member under then-ongoing litigation entitled, J.O.P. v. DHS, No. 8:19-CV-01944-SAG (D. Md.).
21. On November 25, 2024, the Maryland District Court granted final approval of the settlement agreement in J.O.P. v. DHS, No. 19-1944, thereby creating certain binding obligations, as well as guidance, for Respondents in their treatment of unaccompanied minors who applied for asylum, such as Petitioner. The critical rights here being that USCIS will exercise initial jurisdiction over class members’ asylum applications, and that ICE will refrain from executing a final order of removal until USCIS issues a decision on asylum. See Exhibit D, J.O.P. Settlement Agreement.
22. In addition to Petitioner’s pending asylum application with USCIS, Petitioner also has an approved I-360, Petition for Special Immigrant Juvenile, dating from August 13, 2021.

At the time of this approval, there was not a visa immediately available to enable the Petitioner to file for an adjustment of status. As such, Petitioner was provided with discretionary deferred action for a period of four (4) years from the date of the supplemental notice to the I-360 Approval Notice, which is still in effect through May 12, 2026. However, pursuant to the Visa Bulletin for March 2026, Petitioner will be eligible for a visa as a result of his approved I-360 in the very near future, as the priority date as of March 2026 reaches back to petitions approved from July 15, 2021 and before. See Exhibit E, I-360 Approval Notice; see also Exhibit F, Visa Bulletin for March 2026 and USCIS Case Status Update.

23. Following Petitioner's approval of his I-360, Petition for Special Immigrant Juvenile, DHS filed a Motion for Administrative Closure with the West Los Angeles Immigration Court (the Court which at the time had proper jurisdiction over Petitioner's removal proceedings), which approved DHS's Motion on July 14, 2022. See Exhibit G, Order of Administrative Closure.

24. In November 2025, Petitioner was detained by Immigration and Customs Enforcement ("ICE") agents pursuant to a traffic stop resulting in a charge of Driving Without a Valid License, after which Petitioner was ultimately sent to Glades County Detention Center in Moore Haven, FL.

25. As a result of Petitioner's detention at Glades County Detention Center, DHS filed a Motion to Change Venue with the West Los Angeles Immigration Court, which granted the Motion on January 28, 2026, thereby transferring jurisdiction to the Krome Immigration Court in Miami, FL. See Exhibit H, Order Granting Change of Venue.

26. Due to the change of venue as well as the fact that Petitioner is now detained, Petitioner's removal proceedings were transferred from the non-detained West Los Angeles Immigration Court docket to the detained docket at the Krome Immigration Court. NOTWITHSTANDING BEING PHYSICALLY HELD AT THE GLADES COUNTY DETENTION CENTER IN MOORE HAVEN, FLORIDA, MARLON'S PROCEEDINGS ARE BEING OVERSEEN BY THE HONORABLE JUDGE

MICHAEL G. WALLEISA AT THE KROME IMMIGRATION COURT FORUM IN MIAMI, FLORIDA.

27. Petitioner later filed a Motion to Terminate his removal proceedings with the Krome Immigration Court and with the assistance of undersigned counsel based on the fact that he has the two forms of collateral relief with USCIS previously described, namely the pending asylum application pursuant to UAC status as well as the approved I-360, Petition for Special Immigrant Juvenile, for which a visa will be available in the very near future as the Petitioner remains in deferred action. As of this date, the Motion to Terminate remains pending in Krome Immigration Court. See Exhibit I, Copy of Petitioner's Motion to Terminate.

28. As of the filing of the instant petition, Marlon has been detained for ninety-eight (98) days with no indication whatsoever that USCIS will timely administer his interview and also while he is on the cusp of having a visa immediately available to him pursuant to his I-360 Special Immigrant Juvenile Petition, for which he remains in deferred action. In what the Honorable Judge Reinhardt described as a "bureaucratic limbo," Marlon has been "left to rely upon the agency's alleged benevolence and opaque decision making." Flores v. Sessions, 862 F.3d 863, 868 (9th Cir. 2017).

EXHAUSTION

29. Petitioner remains detained without any opportunity for release on bond. Exhaustion under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 is prudential, not jurisdictional, and other courts have repeatedly excused it where administrative review is inadequate, futile, or would cause irreparable harm. F.-G. v. Noem, No. 25-CV-0243-CVE-MTS, 2025 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 111539 (N.D. Okla. June 12, 2025) (declining to require exhaustion where immigration detainee was "trapped in prolonged detention without a meaningful opportunity for bond"); Quintana Casillas v. Sessions, No. 17-cv-01395, slip op. at 9–11 (D. Colo. 2018) (explaining that when "the question presented is purely legal and has been repeatedly mishandled administratively, exhaustion serves no useful purpose."). Here, the appellate body is the Board of Immigration Appeals, the same body that issued the decision stripping immigration judges of their jurisdiction to hear bonds.

30. Other districts have held that habeas corpus relief was available despite a pending BIA appeal, because “[e]ach additional day of detention without a bond hearing constitutes irreparable harm that cannot be remedied after the fact” LG v. Choate, No. 23-cv00611, slip op. at 14 (D.N.M. 2024).
31. The BIA appeal process here exemplifies why exhaustion is unnecessary. As Rodriguez v. Bostock explained, while the BIA has occasionally remanded bond denials where immigration judges misapplied § 1225(b), it has declined to issue a precedential ruling. 779 F. Supp. 3d 1239, 1245 (W.D. Wash. 2025).
32. Consequently, many immigration judges continue to deny bond altogether, and appeals typically take six months or more, during which noncitizens remain detained unlawfully, with severe consequences for their health, families, and ability to defend against removal. Id.
33. Because Petitioner’s injury is the very fact of unlawful detention without a bond hearing, administrative remedies are neither timely nor effective. Habeas corpus is the only adequate remedy.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

The History of Unaccompanied Minors and Current J.O.P. Settlement Agreement

34. “The Flores Settlement arose out of a lawsuit first filed by plaintiffs in the Central District of California in 1985, challenging the policies of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) regarding the release of detained minors. In 1997, the district court approved the current Settlement, which defines a ‘minor’ as ‘any person under the age of eighteen (18) years who is detained in the legal custody of the INS,’ Flores Settlement at ¶ 4,4 and the certified class as ‘[a]ll minors who are detained in the legal custody of the INS,’ id. at ¶ 10. The Settlement favors family reunification, and states the order of preference for persons into whose custody detained minors are to be released, provided that detention is not required to secure their appearance before immigration authorities or to ensure ¹⁰ the safety of themselves or others. Id. at ¶ 14. The Settlement also addresses the appropriate care of those minors who cannot be immediately released, and who therefore remain in federal custody. Id. at ¶ 12A, 19-24. This includes providing such minors with the bond hearing that is the subject of this dispute.

Paragraph 24A of the Flores Settlement provides that:

A minor in deportation proceedings shall be afforded a bond redetermination hearing before an immigration judge in every case, unless the minor indicates on the Notice of Custody Determination form that he or she refuses such a hearing.

Id. at ¶ 24 . . .

The Flores Settlement was intended as a temporary measure, but in 2001 the parties stipulated that it would remain in effect until ‘45 days following defendants’ publication of final regulation’ governing the treatment of detained, minors. It has now been twenty years since the Settlement first went into effect, and the government has not published any such rules or regulations. Thus, pursuant to the 2001 agreement, the Settlement continues to govern those agencies that now carry out the functions ¹¹ of the former INS.” Flores v. Sessions, 862 F.3d 863, 869 (9th Cir. 2017)(emphasis added).

35. Since then, the TVPRA was enacted to guarantee protections to unaccompanied minors including: 1) the right to removal proceedings under 8 U.S.C. §1229a; 2) access to counsel; 3) safe repatriation; and 4) exclusive Office of Refugee Resettlement (“ORR”) custody. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C. § 1232(a)(3)(5) (directing HHS to “ensure, to the greatest extent practicable” that unaccompanied minors “has counsel to represent them in legal proceedings or matters and protect them from mistreatment, exploitation, and trafficking”); id. § 1232(a)(5)(6) (authorizing HHS “to appoint independent child advocates for trafficking victims and other vulnerable unaccompanied alien children”); id. § 1232(d)(8) (stating that “[a]pplications for asylum and other forms of relief from removal in which an unaccompanied alien child is the principal applicant shall be governed by regulations ~~which take into account the specialized needs of unaccompanied alien children and which~~ address both procedural and substantive aspects of handling unaccompanied alien children's cases."); id. § 1232(e) (requiring DOS, DHS, HHS, and DOJ to "provide specialized training to all Federal personnel, and upon request, state and local personnel, who have substantive contact with unaccompanied alien children."). LGML v. Noem, Case No. 1:25-cv-02942 at 14* (D.D.C. 2025).

36. The District Court of D.C. in LGML v. Noem, (D.D.C. 2025) reinforced the binding effect of the Flores settlement on Respondents, which in addition to requiring bond proceedings for all unaccompanied minors also required the legacy INS to "treat all minors in its custody with dignity, respect, and special concern for their particular vulnerability as minors" and to "place each detained minor in the least restrictive setting appropriate to the minor's age and special needs." The Flores settlement was codified at Pub. L. No. 107-296, § 462, 116 Stat. 2143 (2002) extending all the key protections of the Flores Settlement Agreement.
37. In 2019, J.O.P. v. DHS, No. 19-1944, was a nationwide class action filed in the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland that challenged a 2019 policy that limited the ability to seek asylum for certain children who arrived in the country alone.
38. On November, 25, 2024, the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland granted final approval of the settlement agreement reached by the parties in J.O.P. v. DHS, No. 8:19-CV-01944-SAG (D. Md.).
39. A J.O.P. class member is defined as individuals who before February 24, 2025: 1) were determined to be a UAC; and 2) who filed an asylum application that was pending with USCIS; and 3) on the date they filed their asylum application with USCIS, were 18 years of age or older, or had a parent or legal guardian in the United States able to provide care and physical custody; and 4) for whom USCIS had not adjudicated the individual's asylum application on the merits. See id.
40. Pursuant to the settlement agreement, if CBP or ICE determined that the applicant was a UAC, and, as of the date of initial filing of the asylum application, that UAC status determination was still in place, USCIS will take initial jurisdiction over the asylum application, even if there appears to be evidence that the applicant may have turned 18 years of age or may have reunited with a parent or legal guardian since the CBP or ICE determination.

41. For any Class Member with a final removal order, the settlement agreement provides that ICE will refrain from executing the Class Member's final removal order until USCIS issues a final determination on the asylum application.

Mandatory Detention Scheme

42. Congress established two separate detention regimes. Section 1225 governs "applicants for admission" encountered at the border or its functional equivalent, while § 1226 governs individuals "already in the country." Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 288–89 (2018). These provisions are mutually exclusive: "[A] noncitizen cannot be subject to both mandatory detention under § 1225 and discretionary detention under § 1226." Martinez v. Hyde, No. 25-cv-11613, 2025 WL 2084238, at *8 (D. Mass. July 24, 2025).
43. Section 1225(b)(2)(A) provides that "in the case of an alien who is an applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall be detained for a proceeding under section 1229a."
44. Detention under § 1225(b) is therefore mandatory and individuals detained following examination under section 1225 can only be paroled into the United States "for urgent humanitarian reasons or significant public benefit." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 300, 138 S.Ct. 830 (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)(A)). This parole "into the United States" allows physical entry but reserves the Government's ability to treat the person as if "stopped at the border." Dep't of Homeland Sec. v. Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. 103, 139 (2020).
45. Crucially, courts and the BIA have recognized that the phrase "seeking admission" carries an active, temporal component: it refers to individuals "coming or attempting to come into the United States," 8 C.F.R. § 1.2, i.e., those apprehended at or near the border and in the process of initial entry. Martinez, 2025 WL 2084238, at *6–7.

46. By contrast, § 1226 governs detention of noncitizens already present in the United States and apprehended on a warrant issued by the Attorney General. 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Unlike § 1225's mandatory scheme, § 1226(a) creates a discretionary framework, under which the Attorney General "may continue to detain," or "may release" a noncitizen on bond or conditional parole. Id.
47. Individuals detained under § 1226 are entitled to an individualized custody determination and may appeal that determination to an immigration judge. 8 C.F.R. § 1236.1(d)(1); see Matter of Siniauskas, 27 I. & N. Dec. 207, 207 (BIA 2018).
48. Some narrow mandatory detention categories exist under § 1226(c) for certain criminal or security grounds, but those are not implicated here.
49. A contrary reading renders superfluous recent amendments in the Laken Riley Act, Pub. L. No. 119-1, 139 Stat. 3 (2025), which added INA § 236(c)(1)(E) mandating detention for noncitizens inadmissible under § 212(a)(6)(A)(present without admission) who are implicated in enumerated crimes. If all such noncitizens were already mandatorily detained under § 235(b)(2)(A), Congress's addition would be meaningless. See Corley v. United States, 556 U.S. 303, 314 (2009) (statutes must be construed to give effect to all provisions).
50. Notwithstanding the recent 5th Circuit Court of Appeals decision of Buenrostro-Mendez v. Bondi, No. 25-20496, 25-40701, ___ F. 4th ___, ___, 2026 WL 323330 (5th Cir. Feb. 6, 2026), which held that noncitizens in removal proceedings are properly detained and therefore subject to mandatory detention under 28 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2) because they were present in the United States without being admitted or paroled despite having entered many years prior to their detention, Buenrostro-Mendez is not binding on the Middle District of Florida, which is permitted to reach its own interpretation on the question at hand.

51. Furthermore, multiple recent decisions disagree with the 5th Circuit's interpretation in Buenrostro-Mendez and have held that § 1225 does not apply to long-resident noncitizens apprehended in the interior. See Carlos Javier Lopez Benitez v. Francis, No. 25- cv- 11517, 2025 WL 1869299, at *5–8 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025)(holding that § 1225(b)(2)(A) did not apply to a petitioner who had been residing in the United States for over two years; emphasizing that “seeking admission” requires an active, ongoing effort to enter, not mere presence in the country, and concluding that detention was governed by § 1226(a) with access to bond); see also Rodriguez v. Bostock, F. Supp. 3d, 2025 WL 1193850, at *12–16 (W.D. Wash. Apr. 24, 2025) (finding that a non-citizen apprehended from within the United States and charged with inadmissibility was necessarily detained under section 1226, rather than section 1225); Gomes, 2025 WL 1869299 at *5–8 (same); Lepe v. Andrews, No. 1:25-cv-01163-KES-SKO (HC), 2025 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 187233, at *13 (E.D. Cal. Sep. 23, 2025).

52. As those courts recognized, interpreting § 1225 to cover all noncitizens who were never formally “admitted” would collapse the statutory distinction, render § 1226 superfluous, and contradict longstanding DHS practice. See Martinez, 2025 WL 2084238, at *8 (“This tension between sections 1225 and 1226 motivates the conclusion that they apply to different classes of aliens”); Gomes v. Hyde, 2025 WL 1869299, at *5–8 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025); Marx v. Gen. Revenue Corp., 568 U.S. 371, 386, 133 S.Ct. 1166, 185 L.Ed.2d 242 (2013).

53. Courts have distilled two central principles:

- a. Geographic/temporal limits: § 1225 applies only to noncitizens apprehended at or near the border and in the act of entry (see Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. 103, 114, 139 (2020)), not to those apprehended years later in the interior.
- b. Statutory structure: Reading § 1225 as covering all noncitizens who were never lawfully “admitted” would render § 1226 largely meaningless, contrary to the rule against surplusage. See Martinez, 2025 WL 2084238, at *7; Gomes v. Hyde, No. 25-cv-11571, 2025 WL 1869299, at *6–8 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025).

54. As set forth below, applying this framework compels the conclusion that Petitioner’s detention cannot fall under § 1225. Having resided in the United States for over eight (8) years before detention within the interior, he falls squarely within the discretionary scheme of § 1226. Respondents' reliance on § 1225 is therefore legally untenable.

55. Finally, Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, 603 U.S. 369 (2024) is a landmark decision overruling Chevron deference thereby permitting this Honorable Court to come to its own conclusion on the interpretation of the relevant statutes without relying on Board precedent in Matter of Yajure-Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025), which was wrongly decided.

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT ONE

UNACCOMPANIED MINORS ARE A PROTECTED CLASS EXEMPT FROM MANDATORY DETENTION

56. Petitioner re-alleges the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Petition-Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

57. Under 8 U.S.C. § 1232(a)(5)(D)(i), “any unaccompanied alien child” who is determined to be inadmissible “shall be placed in removal proceedings under section 1229a of this title,” that is, regular removal proceedings, “rather than proceedings under section 1225(b)(1).” This is a mandatory and categorical exemption from the statutory provision that requires detention. See also Flores v. Sessions, 862 F.3d 863, 879 (9th Cir. 2017) (outlining the rights of unaccompanied minors in bond proceedings”). Therefore, unaccompanied minors are a protected ground under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

58. Because § 1225(b) governs the detention of individuals placed in expedited removal proceedings, and Petitioner is an unaccompanied minor exempt from this statutory provision, Petitioner may not be detained under § 1225(b). Custody must instead proceed under § 1226(a), and the Immigration Judge should have retained jurisdiction over the bond proceeding.

COUNT TWO

Violation of Fifth Amendment Right to Due Process (Substantive Due Process)

59. Petitioner re-alleges the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Petition-Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

60. On information and belief, Petitioner is currently being arrested and detained by federal agents without cause and in violation of his constitutional rights to due process of law.
61. The Fifth Amendment's Due Process Clause applies to "all 'persons' within the United States," regardless of immigration status. Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 693 (2001). It prohibits the federal government from depriving any person of liberty without due process of law.
62. Even in the immigration context, due process requires that when detention is discretionary, the individual is entitled to an individualized custody determination before a neutral decision-maker, supported by reliable evidence, and applying the correct legal standards. See Matter of Siniauskas, 27 I. & N. Dec. 207, 207 (B.I.A. 2018) (citing Matter of Fatahi, 26 I. & N. Dec. 791, 793–94 (B.I.A. 2016); Matter of Adeniji, 22 I. & N. Dec. 1102, 1112–13 (B.I.A. 1999), modified on other grounds, Matter of Garcia Arreola, 25 I. & N. Dec. 267 (B.I.A. 2010)).
63. Here, Respondents have made no finding that Marlon is a danger to the community or a flight risk.
64. With no indication of a time-frame for release to await his asylum interview, combined with the fact that Petitioner is about to have a visa immediately available to him pursuant to the approved I-360 Special Immigration Juvenile Petition, the Petitioner is subject to indefinite detention depriving him of liberty despite the fact that he has two forms of collateral relief pending before USCIS.

COUNT THREE

Violation of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution (Procedural Due Process); 5 U.S.C. §§ 702, 706

65. Petitioner re-alleges the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Petition-Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

66. The Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment protects all “person[s]” from deprivation of liberty “without due process of law.”
67. The government upon Petitioner’s original entry into the United States, made the reasoned decision to allow him to enter the United States while he pursued his asylum claim in the United States. The Due Process Clause entitles Petitioner to meaningful process assessing whether his current detention is justified. The arrest and detention of Petitioner without an opportunity for him to contest his detention in front of a neutral decision-maker after he had been living and working in the United States for over eight (8) years provides insufficient due process and violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution.
68. There have been no changes to the facts that justify this change in custody requiring Marlon to await an unknown date when he will be scheduled for an asylum interview.

COUNT FOUR

Unlawful Detention Under 8 U.S.C. § 1225; Custody Properly Governed by 8 U.S.C. § 1226 (Misapplication of Mandatory Detention Statute)

69. Petitioner is currently being detained without the possibility of bond under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), based on DHS’s argument that she is “an Applicant seeking Admission under the provisions of Sec. 235(b)(2)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (‘INA’).”
70. This argument is legally erroneous. Section 1225 applies to noncitizens actively “seeking admission” at the border or its immediate functional equivalent. By contrast, § 1226 governs the arrest and detention of those “already in the country” pursuant to a warrant issued by the Attorney General. The two provisions are mutually exclusive. See Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 288–89 (2018); Matter of M-S-, 27 I. & N. Dec. 509, 516 (A.G. 2019).
71. Petitioner plainly falls within § 1226. He has resided in the United States for over eight (8) years, with deep community ties, employment, applicable relief before USCIS, and lack of any criminal record except for minor traffic violations. He was detained by ICE agents incident to a traffic stop resulting in a charge of Driving Without a Valid License - hundreds of miles from any border or port of entry— and then transferred to the Glades County Detention Center, where DHS proceeded on the original paperwork issued to the Petitioner in 2017 and filed the aforementioned Motion to Change Venue to the Krome Immigration Court indicating his detention at Glades County Detention Center. See Exhibit H, Order Granting Change of Venue.

72. The charging document itself expressly alleges that Petitioner is “present in the United States without admission or parole,” language that presumes residence in the interior and confirms that he was not in the process of seeking admission. Taken together, these contradictions underscore the arbitrariness of Petitioner’s detention and the government’s mischaracterization of his case. Exhibit A, Notice to Appear.

73. To hold otherwise would effectively erase the statutory line between §§ 1225 and 1226, converting virtually all noncitizens present without admission into mandatory detainees and rendering § 1226(a) a dead letter. Courts have consistently rejected this outcome. See Martinez, 2025 WL 2084238, at *7 (rejecting interpretation that would “nullify” Congress’s amendment to § 1226(c)); Gomes v. Hyde, No. 25-cv-11571, 2025 WL 1869299, at *7 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025) (noting that §§ 1225 and 1226 “apply to different classes” of noncitizens).

74. In sum, Petitioner was not “seeking admission” within the meaning of § 1225(b) but was “already in the country” within the meaning of Jennings, 583 U.S. at 288–89. Her custody is governed by § 1226(a), under which detention is discretionary and subject to individualized bond hearings. DHS’s argument is contrary to law, unsupported by the record, and must be set aside.
