Customs Enforcement; KRISTI NOEM in her official capacity as Secretary of Homeland Security; PAM BONDI, in her official capacity as Attorney General,

Respondents.

Case No.

EMERGENCY PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

INTRODUCTION

1. On February 01, 2026, Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”) violently arrested Petitioner V.J.C.A. (“Mr. C.A.” or “Petitioner”), a 59 year-old man, after stopping him without so much as asking his name. ICE agents surrounded Petitioner, grabbed a consular ID in his possession against his will, dragged him over a mound of ice causing injury to his arm and shoulder, and pointed a gun at him without any justification in violation of his constitutional rights causing injury to his left arm and shoulder. ICE has now detained Mr. C.A. at the Metropolitan Detention Center (“MDC”) in Brooklyn, New York for over one month, after brief initial detention at facilities on Long Island and in New Jersey. Respondents are unlawfully detaining Petitioner in violation of his statutory and constitutional rights.

2. Before his ICE arrest, Petitioner lived in Freeport, New York. Petitioner is the primary financial support for his ex-wife and his two children in the Dominican Republic, and maintains a close relationship with his sister, a Lawful Permanent Resident, and several nieces and nephews, all of whom reside in New York.

3. Petitioner's detention is unlawful because the Department of Homeland Security ("DHS") is erroneously subjecting him to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) pursuant to new agency policy. Respondents' new legal interpretation is plainly contrary to the statutory framework of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA") and decades of agency practice applying 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a)—not § 1225(b)—to people like Petitioner. Respondents' misclassification of Petitioner as subject to "mandatory detention" is a position that hundreds of district courts across the country—including in this District—have found to be a violation of the INA.

4. Moreover, ICE detained Petitioner without any individualized review of the necessity of that detention, as required by 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) and due process, and there is no valid basis for his ongoing immigration detention as he does not pose a flight risk or danger. Instead, he has no criminal record¹ and prior to his sudden arrest by ICE was living in Freeport, New York, working as a cook at the same restaurant for the last approximately ten years so that he could support his family abroad. Due to Respondents' unlawful actions, however, he has been separated from his family and is suffering at MDC, a federal jail plagued with inhumane conditions, including lack of access to medical care and rampant violence.

5. Accordingly, Petitioner seeks a writ of habeas corpus ordering that Respondents immediately release him.

¹ Mr. C.A. received two tickets for non-criminal municipal violations on March 13, 2023, one for disturbing the peace and another for open container. The tickets were resolved on April 12, 2023 and Mr. C.A. paid all fees and fines associated with the tickets on April 26, 2023.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

6. The federal district courts have jurisdiction to hear habeas corpus claims by noncitizens challenging the lawfulness or constitutionality of their detention by ICE. See, e.g., Demore v. Kim, 538 U.S. 510, 516-17 (2003); Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 687 (2001).

7. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this Petition pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241 (habeas); 28 U.S.C. § 1331 (federal question); and Article I, § 9, cl. 2 of the United States Constitution. This Court has authority to grant declaratory and injunctive relief. 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201, 2202. The Court has additional remedial authority under the All-Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651 and the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201.

8. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. § 2241(d); 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b); and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(e)(1). Venue is proper in this District because A.B.C. is presently detained within this District at MDC, which is located at 80 29th St, Brooklyn, NY 11232.

REQUIREMENTS OF 28 U.S.C. § 2243

9. The Court must grant the petition for writ of habeas corpus or order Respondents to show cause “forthwith,” unless the petitioner is not entitled to relief. 28 U.S.C. § 2243. If an order to show cause is issued, Respondents must file a return “within three days unless for good cause additional time, not exceeding twenty days, is allowed.” Id.

10. Habeas corpus is “perhaps the most important writ known to the constitutional law . . . , affording as it does a swift and imperative remedy in all cases of illegal restraint or confinement.” Fay v. Noia, 372 U.S. 391, 400 (1963) (emphasis added). “The application for the writ usurps the attention and displaces the calendar of the judge or justice who entertains it and receives prompt action from him within the four corners of the application.” Yong v. I.N.S., 208 F.3d 1116, 1120 (9th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted).

PARTIES

11. Petitioner, Mr. C.A., is a 59-year-old man who resides in New York. ICE arrested him on February 01, 2026 and are detaining him at MDC.

12. Respondent Kenneth Genalo is named in his official capacity as the Field Office Director of the New York Field Office for ICE within DHS. In this capacity, he is also responsible for the administration of immigration laws and the execution of detention and removal determinations and is a legal custodian of Petitioner. Respondent Genalo's address is New York ICE Field Office Director, 26 Federal Plaza, 9th Floor, Suite 9-10, New York, New York 10278.

13. Respondent Raul Maldonado, Jr. is named in his official capacity as the Warden of MDC. He is an employee of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, which partners with ICE to accept immigrant detainees at MDC. Respondent Maldonado's office is located at 80 29th St, Brooklyn, NY 11232.

14. Respondent Todd Lyons is sued in his official capacity as Acting Director of U.S. Immigrations and Customs Enforcement. As the Acting Director of ICE, Respondent Lyons is a legal custodian of Mr. Petitioner.

15. Respondent Kristi Noem is sued in her official capacity as Secretary of Homeland Security. As the head of the Department of Homeland Security ("DHS"), the agency tasked with enforcing immigration laws, Secretary Noem is Petitioner's ultimate legal custodian.

16. Respondent Pam Bondi is sued in her official capacity as Attorney General of the United States. As head of the U.S. Department of Justice, the agency that oversees the Executive Office for Immigration Review ("EOIR"), Attorney General Bondi is responsible for administration of the immigration laws as exercised by EOIR, pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1103(g). She is legally responsible for the pursuit of Petitioner's detention and removal.

EXHAUSTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES

17. There is no statutory requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies where a noncitizen challenges the lawfulness of his immigration detention. See Louisaire v. Muller, 758 F. Supp. 2d 229, 234 (S.D.N.Y. 2010); Abdi v. Nielsen, 287 F. Supp. 3d 327, 341 (W.D.N.Y. 2018). No exhaustion requirement applies to the claims raised in this petition because the Immigration Court and Board of Immigration Appeals (“BIA”) lack jurisdiction to entertain constitutional challenges. See Arango-Aradondo v. INS, 13 F.3d 610, 614 (2d Cir. 1994); Matter of Valdovinos, 18 I&N Dec. 343, 345-46 (BIA 1982) (disclaiming jurisdiction to rule on constitutionality of immigration statute).

18. Nor is further action with the agency necessary when pursuing administrative remedies would be futile or the agency has predetermined a dispositive issue. See, e.g., Araujo-Cortes, 35 F. Supp. 3d at 538-39; Monestime v. Reilly, 704 F. Supp. 2d 453, 456-7 (S.D.N.Y. 2010); Garcia v. Shanahan, 615 F. Supp. 2d 175, 180 (S.D.N.Y. 2009). Here, the Board of Immigration Appeals has predetermined the issue in this appeal in a precedential decision, finding that Section 1225 applies to the detention of an individual who entered the United States without inspection. See Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216 (BIA 2025).

19. In addition, exhaustion is not required where a plaintiff raises a substantial constitutional question, as raised here. See Beharry v. Ashcroft, 329 F.3d 51, 62 (2d Cir. 2003).

STATEMENT OF FACTS

I. Petitioner’s Arrest and Detention by ICE

20. Prior to being detained, Petitioner lived in Freeport, New York. Ex. A, Pet’s Decl. ¶ 1.

21. On the morning of February 1, 2026, ICE arrested Petitioner as he was walking to work at the restaurant he’s cooked at for the last ten years. Id. at ¶ 3. Petitioner was intercepted by three unmarked vehicles that pulled up next to him. Id. Shocked and confused, he paused as three agents, some with faces covered and identifying clothing and all wearing bulletproof vests, suddenly exited the vehicles leaving the doors open and approached him. Id. at ¶¶ 2-4. They surrounded him, using a mound of ice that had formed along the sidewalk from a previous storm, blocking his path so he could not leave while being questioned. Id. at ¶ 4.

22. An officer demanded he provide a form of identification repeatedly and in quick succession. Id. at ¶ 5. As Petitioner pulled his wallet from his pocket and provided his New York City driver's license, another officer who'd watched Mr. C.A. go through the contents of his wallet demanded in Spanish he remove the remainder of the cards. Id. As Petitioner went to look through the rest of the cards, the officer said forcefully, "And that one!" as he reached for the wallet in Petitioner's hands, took hold of it, and removed an expired consular identification card ("consular ID"). Id.

23. The officer holding his New York driver's license told him in Spanish that he was "an illegal" and "Don't you know you're not allowed to be here," and suddenly grabbed Petitioner by the arms, twisting his left arm violently as he handcuffed him. Id. Petitioner still experiences immense pain in his left arm and shoulder from the arrest to this day. Id. at ¶ 11. It was only after the arrest that the officers identified themselves as ICE. Id. at ¶ 5. At no point during the interactions leading to his arrest did agents identify themselves, ask for his name, inform Petitioner that he could leave, explain the reason for their stop, or provide him with any paperwork. Id. at ¶ 5. Petitioner's wallet and cellphone were seized before he was aggressively dragged over the large mound of ice and placed in the back of one of the unmarked vehicles. Id. at ¶ 6.

24. As he was led toward the vehicle, several other officers approached the scene and one of the officers drew what Petitioner believed to be a gun at him. Id. at ¶ 6.

25. As this occurred, an unknown individual drove by the scene and yelled from a car something to the effect of, “They have a gun!” and “They are going to kill you!” Id. Petitioner feared for his life in that moment. Id. Without further explanation, officers transported Petitioner to another location, where he was fingerprinted and had his photo taken. Id. at ¶ 8. He was given several documents and was told that if he signed one of them, he would be sent back to his home country. Id. Petitioner refused to sign any of the documents. Id. Following two days of incarceration, Petitioner was transported to New Jersey where he spent one night before being taken to the Metropolitan Detention Center (“MDC”) where he is currently detained. Id. at ¶ 10.

26. DHS placed Petitioner in removal proceedings before the Varick immigration court pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1229a. ICE charged Petitioner with, inter alia, being inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. §§ 1182(a)(6)(A)(i) as someone who entered the United States without inspection.

II. Petitioner Suffers Declining Health and Separation from Family While in ICE Custody

27. Petitioner was diagnosed with diabetes in or around 2003 and suffers from high cholesterol. Pet’s Decl. ¶ 9. Prior to being detained, he managed his symptoms with a combination of diet and medication. Id. at ¶ 12. At MDC, where poor conditions and diet are documented,² he no longer has control over his diet and went a month without his medications which resulted in elevated glucose levels causing him dizziness, shakiness and fatigue. Id. Much of his diet now consists of carbohydrates, rather than protein, which his doctor told him to prioritize. Id. Petitioner often feels unwell. Id.

28. In addition to his long-term health conditions, Petitioner also suffers from pain in his arm and shoulder area as a result of his ICE arrest. Id. ¶ 11. Petitioner is often unable to sleep due to the pain. Id. Following a month without medication, Petitioner is now taking a pain reliever and has been told that he will need a sling to aid in healing. Id.

29. Petitioner is not a danger to the community. He has no criminal record and other than receiving two tickets for municipal violations, his sole interaction with law enforcement was on February 01, 2026, when he was detained by ICE.

30. Petitioner is also not a flight risk. He has never fled or attempted to flee from law enforcement. See Pet's Decl. ¶ 5. Petitioner has built a life in New York. He's worked at the same restaurant for the last approximately ten years, where he's employed as a cook. Id. at ¶ 3. He has a Lawful Permanent Resident sister whose family he adores. Id. at ¶ 14. He supports his ex-spouse and children who currently reside in the Dominican Republic, and they've suffered both emotionally and financially since his detention. Id.

31. Pursuant to Matter of Yajure Hurtado, the IJ is unable to consider a bond request by Petitioner.

32. As a result, Petitioner will remain in detention. Without relief from this court, he faces the prospect of months, or even years, in immigration custody, separated from his family and community.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

I. Immigration Detention Framework

33. The INA prescribes three basic forms of detention for the vast majority of noncitizens in removal proceedings.

34. First, 8 U.S.C. § 1226 authorizes the detention of noncitizens in standard removal proceedings before an immigration judge. Section 1226(a) and the implementing regulations require an individualized determination as to the noncitizen's risk of flight and danger to the community. See 8 C.F.R. § 1236.1(c)(8); id. § 236.1(c)(8); Velesaca v. Decker, 458 F. Supp. 3d

224, 235 (S.D.N.Y. 2020). Noncitizens discretionarily detained pursuant to § 1226(a) are also generally entitled to a bond hearing at the outset of their detention. See 8 C.F.R. § 1003.19(a); id. § 1236.1(d). Whereas noncitizens who have been arrested, charged with, or convicted of certain crimes or fall under certain terrorism-related grounds of removability are subject to mandatory detention. See 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c).

35. Second, the INA provides for mandatory detention of noncitizens subject to expedited removal under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1) and for other recent arrivals seeking admission referred to under § 1225(b)(2).

36. Third, the INA provides for detention of noncitizens who have been ordered removed. See 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)–(b).

II. Due Process Constraints on Immigration Detention

37. “It is well established that the Fifth Amendment entitles [noncitizens] to due process of law in deportation proceedings.” Demore, 538 U.S. at 523 (quoting Reno v. Flores, 507 U.S. 292, 306 (1993)). “Freedom from imprisonment—from government custody, detention, or other forms of physical restraint—lies at the heart of the liberty” that the Due Process Clause protects. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 690.

38. Although civil immigration detention is authorized by statute, to comply with Due Process detention can serve only two legitimate purposes: mitigating flight risk and preventing danger to the community. See Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 690; Velasco Lopez v. Decker, 978 F.3d 842, 854 (2d Cir. 2020).

39. A person’s liberty cannot be infringed upon without “adequate procedural protections.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 690–91. The Second Circuit has held that the Mathews v. Eldridge balancing test is applicable to determine the adequacy of process in the context of civil immigration confinement. Velasco Lopez, 978 F.3d at 851 (citing Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S.

319 (1976)); see also Black v. Decker, 103 F.4th 133, 150-51 (2d Cir. 2024). The Mathews factors are: (1) “the private interest that will be affected by the official action”; (2) “the risk of an erroneous deprivation of such interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or substitute procedural safeguards”; and (3) “the Government’s interest, including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that the additional or substitute procedural requirement would entail.” Mathews, 424 U.S. at 335.

40. Due process requires, at a minimum, notice and an opportunity to respond prior to the deprivation of liberty at a hearing before a neutral adjudicator. See, e.g., Torres-Jurado v. Biden, No. 19-CV-3595 (AT), 2023 WL 7130898, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 29, 2023) (explaining that “due process, at a minimum” requires the government to afford meaningful notice and an opportunity to be heard and that the opportunity must be meaningful) (citing to Ying Fong v. Ashcroft, 317 F. Supp. 2d 398, 403 (S.D.N.Y. 2004)); Campos Jovel v. Bondi, No. 26-CV-01193 (NRM), 2026 WL 603573, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 4, 2026) (“Petitioner has established that his detention violates his Fifth Amendment right to procedural due process, because Petitioner has lived in the United States for over 20 years and is therefore entitled to an individualized, pre-detention bond hearing”); Ccorihuaman v. Genalo, No. 26-CV-00554 (HG), 2026 WL 328983 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 6, 2026) (finding that petitioner’s due process rights were violated by his detention after a street arrest following a prior entry without inspection, and ordering immediate release and a pre-deprivation bond hearing prior to any future detention); Lopez v. Sessions, No. 18-CV-4189 (RWS), 2018 WL 2932726, at *12 (S.D.N.Y. June 12, 2018) (“Petitioner’s re-detention, without prior notice, a showing of changed circumstances, or a meaningful opportunity to respond, does not satisfy the procedural requirements of the Fifth Amendment.”).

41. Where ICE detains individuals without conducting any individualized assessment as to their immigration status, let alone their flight risk, those individuals merit immediate release from custody. See Quintero Campos v. Deleon, No. 25-CV-10099 (LJL), 2025 WL 3514120, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 8, 2025) (ordering immediate release of individual ICE detained without “any individualized assessment or flight risk assessment” but could not identify any basis under § 1226(a) for his continued detention); see also Rocano Buestan v. McShane, No. 25-CV-8544 (JGLC), 2025 WL 3496361, at *1, *6 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 5, 2025) (same, for noncitizen who had lived in the U.S. approximately 15 years and “was driving around Newburgh with his partner when masked [ICE] officers surrounded them in unmarked vehicles”); Chipantiza-Sisalema v. Francis, No. 25-CV-5528 (AT), 2025 WL 1927931, at *5 (S.D.N.Y. July 13, 2025) (ordering release of petitioner re-detained after immigration hearing, finding that her detention “violates her Fifth Amendment right to due process because ICE detained her without notice, an opportunity to respond, or an individualized determination that she poses a flight risk or a danger to the community”); Morocho v. Jamison, No. 5:25-CV-05930, 2025 WL 3296300, at *1–3 (E.D. Pa. Nov. 26, 2025) (same, for noncitizen who had lived in the U.S. for 24 years and was detained by ICE officers “did not provide a reason for the stop; instead, they told him they were looking for another individual and directed him to exit the car”); Cuy Comes v. DeLeon, No. 25-CV-9283 (AT), 2025 WL 3206491, at *1, *6 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 14, 2025) (same, for noncitizen who had lived in the U.S. at least five years and was detained by over a half a dozen agents in front of his home); Lliguicota v. Cabezas, No. 25-CV-17216, 2025 WL 3496300, at *1–2 (D.N.J. Dec. 5, 2025) (same, for noncitizen who had lived in the U.S. for nearly thirteen years and was stopped, questioned, and arrested by federal officers “while walking with his family near their residence”); Lepe v. Andrews, No. 1:25-CV-01163, 2025 WL 2716910, at *1 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 23, 2025) (same, for noncitizen who had lived in the U.S. for the last 32 years and was stopped and interrogated “while he was walking his dog near his home”).

42. For individuals in immigration detention who are eligible for bond, at any bond hearing, due process requires the government to justify detention by a heavy burden. The Supreme Court has consistently held that when the government seeks to hold individuals in civil detention, the government must justify their detention with clear and convincing evidence. See, e.g., United States v. Comstock, 560 U.S. 126, 129–31 (2010); Foucha v. Louisiana, 504 U.S. 71, 80 (1992); Addington v. Texas, 441 U.S. 418, 432–33 (1979). The Supreme Court has applied that standard to hearings regarding initial detention. See Addington, 441 U.S. at 432–33 (applying clear and convincing standard to initial civil commitment hearing); United States v. Salerno, 481 U.S. 739, 751 (1987) (approving initial pretrial detention determination where justified by clear and convincing standard). Where the Supreme Court has dealt with custody redetermination, it has given no indication that the amount of time an individual had already been confined alters the burden placed on the government. See Foucha, 504 U.S. at 71; Comstock, 560 U.S. at 126. It is also the overwhelming consensus of judges within the Second Circuit is that the Due Process Clause requires the government to bear the burden of proof by clear and convincing evidence regardless of the length of detention. See, e.g., Roman v. Decker, 20-CV-6752 (AJN), 2020 WL 5743522, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 25, 2020); see also Darko v. Sessions, 342 F. Supp. 3d 429, 435 (S.D.N.Y. 2018) (collecting cases).

III. Petitioner’s Detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A) Violates the INA

43. The detention provisions at § 1226(a) and § 1225(b)(2) were enacted as part of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA) of 1996, Pub. L. No. 104–208, Div. C, §§ 302–03, 110 Stat. 3009–546, 3009–582 to 3009–583, 3009–585. Section 1226(a) was most recently amended by the Laken Riley Act, Pub. L. No. 119–1, 139 Stat. 3 (2025).

44. Following the enactment of the IIRIRA, EOIR drafted new regulations explaining that, in general, people who entered the country without inspection and who were not admitted were not considered detained under § 1225 and were instead detained under § 1226(a). See Inspection and Expedited Removal of Aliens; Detention and Removal of Aliens; Conduct of Removal Proceedings; Asylum Procedures, 62 Fed. Reg. 10312, 10323 (Mar. 6, 1997) (“1997 Regulation”).

45. In the decades that followed, most people who entered without inspection and were placed in standard removal proceedings received bond hearings, unless their criminal history rendered them ineligible for bond pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c). That practice was consistent with many more decades of prior practice, in which noncitizens who were not deemed “arriving” were entitled to a custody hearing before an immigration judge or other hearing officer. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a) (1994); see also H.R. Rep. No. 104-469, pt. 1, at 229 (1996) (noting that § 1226(a) simply “restates” the detention authority previously found at § 1252(a)).

A. ICE’s Unlawful Expansion of Mandatory Detention Under

§ 1225(b)(2)(A)

46. On July 8, 2025, ICE, “in coordination with” the Department of Justice (“DOJ”), announced a new policy that rejected the well-established understanding of the statutory framework and reversed decades of practice.

47. The new policy, entitled “Interim Guidance Regarding Detention Authority for Applicants for Admission,”³ claims that all persons who present in the United States without having been admitted shall now be subject to mandatory detention provision under

³ Available at <https://www.aila.org/library/ice-memo-interim-guidance-regarding-detention-authority-for-applications-for-admission>.

§ 1225(b)(2)(A). The policy applies regardless of when or where a person is apprehended and affects those who have resided in the United States for months, years, and even decades.

48. On September 5, 2025, the BIA adopted this same position in a published decision, Matter of Yajure Hurtado. There, the Board held that all noncitizens who are present in the United States without admission are subject to detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A) and are ineligible for bond hearings. 29 I&N Dec. at 229.

B. Petitioner's Detention Under § 1225(b)(2)(A) Violates The INA

49. Since the Government adopted its new policy and the BIA issued Matter of Yajure Hurtado, hundreds of federal courts, including in this District, have rejected the Government's new interpretation of the INA's detention authorities and Matter of Yajure Hurtado. See, e.g., Covelli-Chaparro v. Bondi, No. 2:26-CV-118 (NJC), 2026 WL 118842 (E.D.N.Y. Jan. 15, 2026) (granting petition and ordering immediate release from ICE custody); Crespo Tacuri v. Genalo, No. 25-CV-06896 (NCM), 2026 WL 35569 (E.D.N.Y. Jan. 6, 2026) (same); Ulloa Montoya v. Bondi, No. 25-CV-06363 (JMA), 2025 WL 3718694 (E.D.N.Y. Dec. 23, 2025) (same); Padilla Molina v. DeLeon, No. 25-CV-06526 (JMA), 2025 WL 3718728 (E.D.N.Y. Dec. 23, 2025) (same); Rodriguez-Acurio v. Almodovar, No. 2:25-cv-6065 (NJC), 2025 WL 3314420 (E.D.N.Y. Nov. 28, 2025) (same); Hyppolite v. Noem, No. 25-CV-4304 (NRM), 2025 WL 2829511 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 6, 2025) (same); Artiga v. Genalo, No. 25-CV-5208 (OEM), 2025 WL 2829434 (E.D.N.Y. Nov. 18, 2025) (granting preliminary injunction, in part, as petitioner was likely to succeed on the merits of his argument he was improperly detained under Section 1225(b)). Counsel is aware of only one decision in this District, agreeing with the Government's interpretation of § 1225. See Saamishvili v. Flanagan, No. 25-CV-6178 (BMC), 2026 WL 377574, at *4 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 11, 2026). Since Saamishvili, judges in this District have responded and declined to follow it. See, e.g., Peralta Acuapan v. Bondi, No. 26-CV-00384 (OEM), 2026 WL 507889, at *4 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 24, 2026) (“The Court also respectfully disagrees with Saamishvili, which is, to the Court’s knowledge, the only decision in this District that has adopted Respondents’ position on the scope of § 1225.”); Mejia-Pina v. Bondi, No. 2:26-CV-986 (NJC), 2026 WL 482635, at *3 n.4 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 20, 2026) (same). In addition, multiple judges in the neighboring district have also rejected the Government’s interpretation of Section 1225(b).⁴ This Court should do the same.

50. The plain text of § 1225(b)(2)(A) confirms that it cannot apply to Petitioner. Section 1225(b)(2)(A) provides that “in the case of an alien who is an applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall be detained for a” removal proceeding under § 1229a. 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A). “[T]he language of [§ 1225(b)(2)(A)] makes clear that it applies only if three criteria are met. The noncitizen must be (i) an ‘applicant for admission,’ (ii) ‘seeking admission,’ and (iii) ‘not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted.’” Barco

51. While Petitioner is an “applicant for admission,”⁵ he is not “seeking admission” under § 1225(b)(2)(A). “[T]he phrase ‘seeking admission’ ‘necessarily implies some sort of present-tense action.’” Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *5 (quoting Martinez v. Hyde, 792 F. Supp. 3d 211, 218 (D. Mass. 2025)); J.G.O., 2025 WL 3040142, at *3; Campbell v. Almodovar, No. 1:25-cv-09509 (JLR), 2025 WL 3538351, at *6 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 10, 2025); Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 489; cf. United States v. Wilson, 503 U.S. 329, 333 (1992) (“Congress’ use of a verb tense is significant in construing statutes.”). The INA “defines ‘admission’ as ‘the lawful entry of the alien into the United States after inspection and authorization by an immigration officer.’” J.G.O., 2025 WL 3040142, at *3 (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(13)(A)). “The requirement that an ‘applicant for admission’ be ‘seeking admission’ therefore limits the scope of [§ 1225(b)] to those noncitizens actively seeking ‘lawful entry . . . into the United States after inspection and authorization by an immigration officer.’” Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *5 (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(13)(A)). Put differently, “‘seeking admission’ requires an alien to continue to want to go into the country.” J.G.O., 2025 WL 3040142, at *3.

52. The plain text of the statute is buttressed by its “implementing regulations—which were ‘promulgated mere months after passage of the statute’ and have remained consistent over time.” Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 489 (quoting Martinez, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 219). “DHS’s own regulations understand an ‘applicant seeking admission’ to be synonymous with an ‘arriving alien.” Tumba, 2025 WL 3079014, at *4. “And an ‘arriving alien’ is ‘an applicant for admission coming or attempting to come into the United States at a port-of-entry.’” Id. (quoting 8 C.F.R. § 1001.1).

⁵ An “applicant for admission” is defined as “[a]n alien present in the United States who has not been admitted or who arrives in the United States (whether or not at a designated port of arrival and including an alien who is brought to the United States after having been interdicted in international or United States waters).” 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1).

53. Accordingly, § 1225(b) does not apply to Petitioner because “when DHS agents detained [him] in 2025, he was no longer seeking to enter the country. He was already in — and had been for several years.” Campbell, 2025 WL 3538351, at *6; see also J.G.O., 2025 WL 3040142, at *3 (Petitioner is not “seeking admission” because “he’s already here.”).

54. Nor would seeking asylum or other relief from removal mean that Petitioner is “seeking admission.” See, e.g., Lopez Benitez, 2025 WL 2371588, at *6 n.7; Garcia-Mendez v. Lynch, 788 F.3d 1058 (9th Cir. 2015); Matter of V-X-, 26 I&N Dec. 147 (BIA 2013) (finding grant of asylum is not an “admission”); Matter of Y-N-P, 26 I&N Dec. 10, 12 (BIA 2012) (finding a grant of cancellation is not an admission, and explaining that “being an “applicant for admission” under [INA] section 235(a)(1) [8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1)] is distinguishable from ‘applying . . . for admission to the United States’”).

55. By holding that § 1225(b)(2)(A) applies to all applicants for admission, Matter of Yajure Hurtado reads the “seeking admission” requirement out of the statute. See Campbell, 2025 WL 3538351, at *7. If, as the BIA has now concluded and the Government urges, “§ 1225(b)(2)(A) were intended to apply to all ‘applicant[s] for admission,’ there would be no need to include the phrase ‘seeking admission’ in the statute.” Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 488. Tellingly, the BIA in Yajure Hurtado did not provide any definition of “seeking admission” that would resolve this redundancy. See 29 I&N Dec. at 221. This interpretation of § 1225(b)(2)(A) “clearly ‘violates the rule against surplusage.’” Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 488 (quoting Martinez, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 218).

56. Looking beyond § 1225(b) to the larger statutory structure, Matter of Yajure Hurtado's holding creates even more surplusage problems when compared with other detention provisions. First, if § 1225(b) "mandated detention for all noncitizens who enter the country illegally, 'then it is not clear under what circumstances [§ 1226(a)'s] authorization of detention on a discretionary basis would ever apply.'" Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *6 (quoting Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 490); see also Tumba, 2025 WL 3079014, at *4 ("Respondents' reading of Section 1225 would also all but read Section 1226 off the books").

57. Second, "Respondents' reading of § 1225 would likewise render superfluous the mandatory detention provisions found in" § 1226(c). Campbell, 2025 WL 3538351, at *7. "Section 1226(c)(1)(A) mandates detention for 'any [noncitizen] who is inadmissible by reason of having committed an offense covered in section 1182(a)(2) of this title,' such as offenses related to controlled substances. '[T]his mandatory detention under § 1226(c) would be unnecessary if all persons who have not been admitted into the United States were already subject to § 1225(b)'s mandatory detention provisions.'" Id. (citations omitted) (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c)(1)(A); and J.U. v. Maldonado, No. 25-cv-04836 (OEM), 2025 WL 2772765, at *8 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 29, 2025)).

58. Matter of Yajure Hurtado also "render[s] Congress' recent amendment to § 1226(c) redundant." Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *7; Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 489-90; Tumba, 2025 WL 3079014, at *4. "When Congress adopts a new law against the backdrop of a 'longstanding administrative construction,' [courts] generally presume[] the new provision should be understood to work in harmony with what has come before." Monsalvo v. Bondi, 604 U.S. 712, 725 (2025) (quoting Haig v. Agee, 453 U.S. 280, 297-98 (1981)). Passed in January 2025, the Laken Riley Act "makes noncitizens subject to mandatory detention if (1) they are inadmissible under certain provisions of 8 U.S.C. § 1182 and (2) are charged with, arrested for, convicted of, or admit to having committed certain crimes.” Tumba, 2025 WL 3079014, at *4 (quoting Artiga v. Genalo, No. 25-CV-5208 (OEM), 2025 WL 2829434, at *7 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 5, 2025)); see also Laken Riley Act, 139 Stat. at 3, codified at 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c)(1)(E). “By [the Government’s] understanding, all noncitizens inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6) (which states that those like Petitioner who are present without admission are inadmissible) are already subject to mandatory detention.” Tumba, 2025 WL 3079014, at *4. Simply put, if Matter of Yajure Hurtado were correct, “the Laken Riley Act would have been largely unnecessary.” Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *7; Campbell, 2025 WL 3538351, at *7; Yao, 2025 WL 3653433, at *7.

59. In addition to traditional statutory interpretation tools, agency “interpretations issued contemporaneously with the statute at issue, and which have remained consistent over time, may be especially useful in determining the statute’s meaning.” Loper Bright Enters. v. Raimondo, 603 U.S. 369, 394 (2024). Helpfully, “[s]hortly after Congress enacted IIRIRA, [DOJ] issued an interim rule explaining IIRIRA and how it amended the INA.” Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *8. “There, the DOJ stated that ‘[d]espite being applicants for admission, noncitizens who are present without having been admitted or paroled . . . will be eligible for bond and bond redetermination.’” Id. (quoting 1997 Regulation). And the Government maintained this position for almost thirty years—until the July 2025 ICE Memo and Matter of Yajure Hurtado. Thus, “decades of practice” cuts against the BIA’s novel position and supports Petitioner’s interpretation and numerous district courts’ rulings. Lopez Benitez, 795 F. Supp. 3d at 490.

60. Finally, Matter of Yajure Hurtado is inconsistent with precedent. In Jennings v. Rodriguez, the Supreme Court explained that § 1225 “applies to ‘aliens seeking admission into the country,’ whereas [§ 1226] applies to ‘aliens already in the country pending the outcome of removal proceedings.’” Barco Mercado, 2025 WL 3295903, at *9 (quoting Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 28, 289 (2018)). “It went on in that same case to repeat that [§ 1226] ‘applies to aliens already present in the United States,’ like [Petitioner], and ‘creates a default rule for those aliens by permitting—but not requiring—the Attorney General to issue warrants for their arrest and detention pending removal proceedings.’” Id. (quoting Jennings, 583 U.S. at 303).

61. Therefore, as hundreds of districts courts have recently concluded, reading the plain text of § 1225(b)(2)(A), employing canons of statutory interpretation, consulting contemporaneous and longstanding agency interpretations of the statute, and applying precedent all lead to a single conclusion: noncitizens who present in the United States without having been admitted and were subsequently arrested inside the United States cannot be subject to mandatory detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A). Petitioner’s detention is therefore governed by § 1226(a).

IV. The Proper Remedy is Release

62. The proper remedy for the instant habeas petition is release. See Rodriguez-Acurio, 2025 WL 3314420, at *32 (“ICE caused Rodriguez-Acurio to be placed in custody in violation of her rights to procedural due process. The proper remedy for that unlawful detention is release.”); Covelli-Chaparro, 2026 WL 118842, at *9 (“As addressed at length in Rodriguez-Acurio, upon finding a constitutional violation, a district court ‘may’ grant a writ of habeas corpus and ‘dispose of the matter as law and justice require.’ 28 U.S.C §§ 2241(a), 2243. Release from detention is the ‘typical remedy’ for ‘unlawful executive detention’”) (quoting Munaf v. Green, 553 U.S. 674, 693 (2008); see also supra ¶ 49 (citing cases in this District similar to Petitioner’s here where courts ordered immediate release)).

63. The alternative, a bond hearing, cannot rectify the injury the Government has already done, and is doing now, to Petitioner’s Fifth Amendment rights. Lopez Benitez, 795 F.Supp.3d at 497 (“[A bond hearing is] no substitute for the requirement that ICE engage in a deliberative process prior to, or contemporaneous with, the decision to strip a person of the freedom that lies at the heart of the Due Process Clause.”); O.F.B., 2025 WL 3277677, at *8 (“Here, the nature of the constitutional violation Petitioner sustained—i.e., the government’s failure to conduct any kind of individualized assessment before detaining him, failure to make any showing of changed circumstances, and failure to provide him with an opportunity to respond—renders any post-deprivation review by an immigration judge inadequate.”); Campbell, 2025 WL 3538351, at *13 (“[B]oth DHS’s failure to follow its own regulations and its failure to afford Campbell the minimal process due under the Fifth Amendment violated Campbell’s due process rights. Because of those failures, Campbell is entitled to release.”).

64. Given that DHS has improperly concluded that Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under Section 1225, rather than discretionary detention under Section 1226(a), DHS failed to conduct any individualized custody determination and offer any due process before detaining Petitioner. “The suggestion that” the Government may detain noncitizens “without consideration of dangerousness or flight risk so long as the person will, at some unknown point in time, be allowed to ask some other official for his or her release offends the ordered system of liberty that is the pillar of the Fifth Amendment.” Chipantiza-Sisalema, 2025 WL 1927931, at *3 (ordering habeas relief to noncitizen); Rodriguez-Acurio v. Almodovar, 2025 WL 3314420, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Nov. 28, 2025) (ordering habeas relief where noncitizen petitioner’s “parole into the United States under Section 1182(d)(5)(A) was premised by law on the determination that she did not pose a safety risk. Nothing in the record before this Court shows any change in circumstances. No one at DHS or ICE ever made any individualized determination that Rodriguez-Acurio poses a flight or public safety risk before she was suddenly arrested and detained....”); O.F.B., 2025 WL 3277677 (ordering habeas relief after prior parole and without subsequent changed circumstances or review); Hyppolite v. Noem, 2025 WL 2829511 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 6, 2025) (same).

65. Irreparable injury has occurred and will continue to occur if Mr. C.A. is not released. “[A]s a general matter, there is a presumption of irreparable harm when there is an alleged deprivation of constitutional rights.” Donohue v. Mangano, 886 F. Supp. 2d 126, 150 (E.D.N.Y. 2012) (collecting cases).

66. In addition to the baseline harm of unlawful and arbitrary detention, Mr. C.A.’ physical health will deteriorate. He will also be unable to support his ex-wife and children, for whom he is the sole financial provider, as well as source of emotional support.

67. If this Court does not act, Petitioner’s detention will continue for months or longer. Only release will remedy the constitutional harms that Mr. C.A. has, and will continue to, suffer.

CAUSES OF ACTION

COUNT I

Violation of the Immigration and Nationality Act Unlawful Detention Under § 1225(B)(2)

68. Petitioner repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Petition as if fully set forth herein.

69. The mandatory detention provision at 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2) does not apply to all noncitizens residing in the United States who are subject to the grounds of inadmissibility. As relevant here, it does not apply to those who previously entered the country and have been residing in the United States prior to being apprehended and placed in removal proceedings by Respondents. Such noncitizens are detained under § 1226(a), unless they are subject to § 1225(b)(1), § 1226(c), or § 1231.

70. The application of § 1225(b)(2) to Petitioner unlawfully mandates his continued detention and violates the INA.

71. The appropriate remedy is Petitioner's immediate release.

COUNT II

Violation of the Due Process Clause

Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution – Procedural Due Process

72. Petitioner repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

73. The government may not deprive a person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. U.S. Const. amend. V. "Freedom from imprisonment—from government custody, detention, or other forms of physical restraint—lies at the heart of the liberty that the Clause protects." Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 690.

74. Petitioner has a fundamental interest in liberty and being free from official restraint.

75. The government's detention of Petitioner without a bond determination hearing to determine whether he is a flight risk or danger to others violates his right to due process.

76. More importantly, Respondents' misclassification of which statute Petitioner is detained under fundamentally violated his due process rights. At no time did DHS conduct an individualized assessment of the need for Petitioner's detention. Instead, he was subject to an unlawful arrest by ICE.

77. ICE's failure to conduct an individualized review prior to detention violates due process and necessitates his immediate release.

COUNT III

Violation of the Due Process Clause

Violation of the Fifth Amendment Right to Due Process — Substantive Due Process

78. Petitioner repeats and re-alleges the allegations contained in all preceding paragraphs of this Petition as if fully set forth herein.

79. The Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment protects all “person[s]” from deprivation of liberty “without due process of law.” U.S. CONST. AMEND. V. The only proper purposes for immigration detention are to protect against a risk of flight or danger to the community.

80. Petitioner is not a flight risk nor is he a danger to the community. He has had no criminal arrests in the United States. Respondent’s only other interaction with law enforcement was in April of 2023 when we received two tickets for municipal violations. Respondent appeared in court, paid all fees and fines associated with the violations, and the case was closed. He has lived at the same address for approximately six years and has family here, including his sister who is a Lawful Permanent Resident as well as several nieces and nephews. Respondents’ detention of Petitioner is therefore unlawful and unjustified. Accordingly, Petitioner’s detention is punitive and he is being detained in violation of his constitutional right to Due Process under the Fifth Amendment.

81. Petitioner’s detention without any individualized review of the need for his detention, a lack of consideration of any risk of flight risk or danger or medical issues that counsel against detention subjects him to serious risk of adverse health effects and serious harm violates substantive due process.

COUNT IV

Violation of the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution – Unlawful Arrest

82. Petitioner repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

83. ICE agents seized Petitioner in violation of his Fourth Amendment rights.

84. An immigration officer is authorized to “briefly detain [a] person for questioning” if they have “a reasonable suspicion, based on specific articulable facts, that the person being questioned is, or is attempting to be, engaged in an offense against the United States or is an alien illegally in the United States.” 8 CFR § 287.8 (b)(2) (emphasis added); see United States v. Brignoni-Ponce, 422 U.S. 873, 884 (1975) (“For the same reasons that the Fourth Amendment forbids stopping vehicles at random to inquire if they are carrying aliens who are illegally in the country, it also forbids stopping or detaining persons for questioning about their citizenship on less than a reasonable suspicion that they may be aliens.”). However, a stop may not be “prolonged beyond ‘the time needed to handle the matter for which the stop was made.’” Millan-Hernandez v. Barr, 965 F.3d 140, 147 (quoting Rodriguez v. United States, 575 U.S. 348, 350 (2015)).

85. Here, it is clear that ICE stopped Mr. C.A. without reasonable suspicion, as Petitioner was stopped walking in a residential area with nothing to trigger the stop apart from his apparent race or ethnicity. However, even assuming, arguendo, that they did have reasonable suspicion, ICE had no authority to continue to hold Petitioner beyond this initial interaction in which he was asked to provide identification. 8 C.F.R. § 287.8(b)(2). Petitioner did not make statements or voluntarily provide documentation that could have justified extending the stop. Petitioner presented state-issued identification when asked and never stated that he was unlawfully residing in the country or that he was born outside the country. ICE therefore had no authority under the statute or the Constitution to continue to hold or question him, rendering their actions both ultra vires and unconstitutional.

COUNT V

Violation of the APA, 5 U.S.C. §§ 702, 706, and the Accardi Doctrine

86. Petitioner repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

87. ICE arbitrarily and capriciously arrested Petitioner without a warrant, absent any probable cause to believe he was in the country illegally or that he would flee and thereby violated agency regulations and the Administrative Procedure Act (APA).

88. Absent a federal warrant, ICE agents have “have more limited authority” and may arrest a noncitizen “only where the alien ‘is likely to escape before a warrant can be obtained.’” Arizona v. United States, 567 U.S. 387 (2012) (quoting 8 U. S. C. §1357(a)(2)).

89. In 2022, as part of a settlement, ICE issued a nationwide policy that included a set of requirements that are relevant here. See Castanon Nava v. Dep’t of Homeland Sec., No. 18-CV-3757, 2025 WL 2842146 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 7, 2025). The policy stated that, to assess the likelihood of escape, ICE officers are “required to consider the totality of the circumstances, including the officer’s ability to determine the person’s identity; knowledge of that individual’s prior escapes or evasions of immigration authorities; attempted flight from an ICE officer; and the person’s ties to the community (such as a family, home, or employment).” Id.

90. ICE lacked probable cause that Petitioner was in the country unlawfully for the same reasons that it lacked reasonable suspicion: Petitioner had not made any statements or provided any documentation that could reasonably lead ICE to suspect that he was violating the country’s immigration laws. Petitioner also has never been convicted or even charged with committing a crime outside of his two tickets for municipal violations. ICE also lacked probable cause that Petitioner would likely escape before a warrant could be obtained.

91. All of the relevant factors cut against Petitioner being likely to escape before a warrant could be lawfully obtained. ICE was able to determine Petitioner’s identity using his state-issued driver's license. ICE also had no reason to believe that Petitioner had previously evaded or fled from immigration authorities. ICE also failed to properly consider the community-ties factors ("family, home, or employment") that weighed in Petitioner's favor. Agents knew Petitioner had a home because Petitioner had provided them with a New York state driver license. To the extent that any individualized assessment of Petitioner's likelihood of escape was performed at all, it was clearly erroneous and thus violated the policy.

92. Similarly, Respondents' failure to comply with their nationwide policy constitutes an Accardi violation.

93. Under the Accardi doctrine, a foundational principle of administrative law, agencies must follow their own procedures, rules, and instructions. See United States ex rel. Accardi v. Shaughnessy, 347 U.S. 260, 268 (1954) (setting aside an order of deportation where the Board of Immigration Appeals failed to follow procedures governing deportation proceedings); see also Morton v. Ruiz, 415 U.S. 199, 235 (1974) ("Where the rights of individuals are affected, it is incumbent upon agencies to follow their own procedures . . . even where the internal procedures are possibly more rigorous than otherwise would be required.").

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, the petitioner respectfully requests that this Court:

- a. Assume jurisdiction over this matter;
- b. Immediately enjoin Respondents from transferring the Petitioner outside the jurisdiction of this Court or removing him from the United States pending the resolution of this case, pursuant to the All Writs Act;
- c. Declare that the Petitioner's arrest and detention violate the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment, the Immigration and Nationality Act, the Fourth Amendment, and the Administrative Procedure Act;
- d. Issue a Writ of Habeas Corpus requiring that Respondents release Petitioner immediately, returning him to the status of liberty he enjoyed prior to the recent detention, and that he not be re-detained without notice and an opportunity to be heard at a pre-deprivation hearing, where the government will have the burden of showing that his detention is authorized under § 1226(a);

- e. In the alternative, this Court should conduct a constitutionally adequate, individualized bond hearing for the Petitioner within fourteen days. If, instead, Respondents are ordered to carry out such a hearing in front of an impartial adjudicator, the Court should direct that at that hearing:
 - (1) ICE must bear the burden of establishing by clear and convincing evidence that continued detention is justified;
 - (2) The adjudicator must meaningfully consider alternatives to imprisonment such as release on recognizance, parole or electronic monitoring; and
 - (3) The adjudicator must meaningfully consider Petitioner's ability to pay if setting a monetary bond.
- f. If, in the alternative, a bond hearing is afforded before an immigration judge, enjoin Respondents from invoking the automatic stay provision at 8 C.F.R. § 1003.19(i)(2);
- g. Award Petitioner attorney's fees and costs under the Equal Access to Justice Act ("EAJA"), as amended, 28 U.S.C. § 2412, and on any other basis justified under law; and
- h. Grant Petitioner any other relief this Court deems just and proper.
