Respondents.

Case No.

PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

1. This is a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed on behalf of Josue David Teletor Jimenez seeking relief to remedy his unlawful detention. Respondents are currently detaining Mr. Teletor Jimenez subject to initiation of immigration proceedings.

INTRODUCTION

2. Petitioner, Josue David Teletor Jimenez is in the physical custody of Respondents at the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center. He now faces unlawful detention as the Respondents, Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the Executive Office of Immigration Review (EOIR) have placed into operation procedures which meaningfully deprive Petitioner of release.

3. This case presents a troubling example of the increasingly opaque detention practices employed by Respondents, practices which have the effect—whether by design or by indifference—of obstructing a detained individual’s ability to access counsel and to seek judicial review of his detention.

4. Petitioner was detained on or about March 12, 2026 by Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”) Enforcement Removal Operations (“ERO”) officers near his home in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

5. At the time of his arrest, Petitioner was sitting in his vehicle ordering supplies for his work as a construction worker. ICE ERO officers approached Petitioner, removed him from his vehicle, and took him into custody without prior notice to family.

6. Following a detention by ICE, attorneys and family members ordinarily rely upon the Online Detainee Locator System (“ODLS”), a publicly available database maintained by the Department of Homeland Security that allows counsel and relatives to determine whether a noncitizen is in ICE custody and where the individual is detained. The ODLS is intended to serve as the primary mechanism through which detained individuals may be located so that they may communicate with counsel and family members and pursue legal relief.¹

7. In this case, however, the ODLS fails to reflect Petitioner's detention altogether. Searches of the system using Petitioner's full name, date of birth, and country of origin produce no results indicating that Petitioner is presently in ICE custody.² This absence of information stands in stark contrast to publicly available information from the Federal Bureau of Prisons inmate locator system, which reflects that Petitioner is being held in ICE custody at the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center under BOP registration number ³

8. This discrepancy creates a profound lack of transparency regarding the location and custodial authority over Petitioner, making it exceedingly difficult for counsel to determine the proper venue for judicial review and to communicate with the facility where Petitioner is being held.

9. Indeed, when the ODLS fails to identify a detainee's location, attorneys are often left to spend hours contacting multiple detention facilities, administrative offices, and government phone lines, many of which are unlikely to be answered by an ICE ERO officer willing or able to provide clarification regarding the detainee's whereabouts.

10. The practical consequence of this failure is severe. Without accurate and accessible location information, Petitioner is effectively cut off from meaningful access to counsel and family, undermining fundamental procedural protection and the ability to pursue relief from unlawful detention.

11. The government’s failure to accurately reflect Petitioner’s custody status in the very system designed to facilitate detainee location creates an immediate barrier to legal representation and judicial review, warranting this Court’s intervention.

12. When Respondents fail to provide accurate and verifiable information regarding the location of a detainee, they effectively frustrate the ability of detained individuals to access the courts and seek relief from unlawful detention.

13. Under these circumstances, the “great writ” remains the final and essential mechanism through which Petitioner may seek judicial review of his detention.

14. Nevertheless, Respondents now seek to subject him to a sweeping mandatory detention framework more appropriately reserved—by statute and longstanding interpretation—for individuals who are entering at the border. Petitioner’s detention is not an isolated deviation; it reflects a broader enforcement posture that courts across the country have repeatedly scrutinized and rebuked.

15. On January 20, 2025, the President issued several executive actions relating to immigration, including the Executive Order entitled “Protecting the American People Against Invasion,” which articulated an expansive interior enforcement agenda. That Order directed the Secretary of Homeland Security “to take all appropriate action to enable” ICE, CBP, and USCIS to prioritize civil immigration enforcement procedures, including through the use of mass detention.⁴

16. In late May 2025, Respondent Kristi Noem and White House Deputy Chief of Staff Stephen Miller reportedly met with ICE leadership and imposed an arrest quota of 3,000

⁴ Exec. Order No. 14,159, Protecting the American People Against Invasion, 90 Fed. Reg. 8,447 (Jan. 20, 2025); Protecting the American People Against Invasion, The White House (Jan. 20, 2025), <https://www.whitehouse.gov/presidential-actions/2025/01/protecting-the-american-people-against-invasion/>.

individuals per day, threatening job consequences if officials failed to meet arrest quotas.⁵ Deputy Chief of Staff Miller remarked that “[u]nder President Trump’s leadership, we are looking to set a goal of a minimum of 3,000 arrests for ICE every day, and President Trump is going to keep pushing to get that number up higher each and every single day.”⁶

17. Following these directives, ICE personnel were reportedly instructed to “turn the creativity knob up to 11,” to “push the envelope,” and to pursue “collateral” arrests—stating that “[i]f it involves handcuffs on wrists, it’s probably worth pursuing.”⁷

18. When the executive branch has announced daily numerical arrest targets, encouraged aggressive collateral apprehensions, and reshaped detention classifications to maximize custody, the promise of neutral adjudication becomes illusory. Habeas corpus exists precisely to safeguard against such structural distortions of liberty.

19. The gravity of these concerns is further amplified by sworn testimony presented before Congress. On February 23, 2026, former Assistant Chief Counsel Ryan Schwank testified regarding internal ICE practices.⁸ He stated that DHS representation about officer training were misleading, that graduates were rapidly deployed with minimal supervision, and that internal directives authorized conduct inconsistent with constitutional protections. (Feb. 23, 2025) (statement of Ryan Schwank) (“ICE is teaching cadets to violate the Constitution, and they were attempting to cloak it in secrecy by demanding that I like about it. I am here to convey the public danger that is being created at the ICE Academy.”), video recording available at <https://youtu.be/v6HkNJ1Iwvc?si=5TS43gXbZzvreMmt>.

Schwank described being instructed to review a memorandum asserting that ICE officers could enter homes without a judicial warrant—conduct he characterized as “the chief evil against which the wording of the Fourth Amendment is directed.” He further testified that he was required to review the memorandum in secret and made to understand that disobedience could jeopardize his employment, concluding that ICE was teaching cadets to violate constitutional safeguards while attempting to cloak such directives in secrecy.⁹

20. Petitioners continued detention must be evaluated within this broader context. When executive directives emphasize mass arrests, when long-settled statutory interpretations are recast to expand mandatory detention, when experienced immigration judges report institutional intimidation, and when sworn testimony raises concerns about constitutional compliance within enforcement ranks, meaningful relief before the agency becomes structurally compromised. Under these circumstances, habeas review by this Court is not merely appropriate—it is indispensable to ensure that executive detention tethered to statute, the Constitution, and the rule of law itself.

JURISDICTION

21. Petitioner is in the physical custody of Respondents. Petitioner is presently being held at the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

22. This Court has jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 2241(c)(5) (habeas corpus), 28 U.S.C. § 1331 (federal question jurisdiction), and Article I, section 9, clause 2 of the United States Constitution (the Suspension Clause). This Court may grant relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241, the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201 et seq., and the All Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651.

⁹ Supra, fn. 9.

23. This Court may grant relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241, the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201 et seq., and the All Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651.

VENUE

24. Pursuant to Braden v. 30th Judicial Circuit Court of Kentucky, 410 U.S. 484, 493-500 (1973), venue lies in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania, the judicial district in which Petitioner currently is detained.

25. Venue is also properly in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(e) as Respondent are employees, officers, and agencies of the United States, and because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claims occurred in the Western District of Pennsylvania.

REQUIREMENTS OF 28 U.S.C. § 2243

26. The Court must grant the petition for writ of habeas corpus or order Respondents to show cause “forthwith,” unless the petition is not entitled to relief. 28 U.S.C. § 2243. If an order to show cause is issued, the Respondent must file a return “within three days unless for good cause additional time, not exceeding twenty days, is allowed.” Id.

27. Habeas corpus is “perhaps the most important writ known to the constitutional law...affording as it does a swift and imperative remedy in all cases of illegal restraint or confinement.” Fay v. Noia, 372 U.S. 391, 400 (1963) (emphasis added). “The application for the writ usurps the attention and displaces the calendar of the judge or justice who entertains it and receives prompt action from him within the four corners of the application.” Yong v. I.N.S., 208 F.3d 1116, 1120 (9th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted).

PARTIES

28. Petitioner Josue David Teletor Jimenez is a citizen and national of Guatemala who is presently in physical custody of Respondents. Following the arrest of Petitioner in Pennsylvania, ICE placed Petitioner into custody in the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center pending removal proceedings.

29. Respondent, Brian McShane is the Director of the Field Office of ICE's Enforcement and Removal Operations division which oversees the Philadelphia Office and immigrant detention at the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center. As such, Director McShane is Petitioner's immediate custodian and is responsible for Petitioner's detention and removal. He is named in his official capacity.

30. Respondent Kristi Noem is the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security. She is responsible for the implementation and enforcement of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA"), and oversees ICE, which is responsible for Petitioner's detention. Secretary Noem has ultimate custodial authority over Petitioner and is sued in her official capacity.

31. Respondent Department of Homeland Security ("DHS") is the federal agency responsible for implementing and enforcing the INA, including the detention and removal of noncitizens.

32. Respondent Pamela Bondi is the Attorney General of the United States. She is responsible for the Department of Justice, of which the Executive Office for Immigration Review and the immigration court system it operates is a component agency. She is sued in her official capacity.

33. Respondent Executive Office for Immigration Review ("EOIR") is the federal agency responsible for implementing and enforcing the INA in removal proceedings, including for custody redetermination in bond hearings.

34. Respondent J.L. Jamison, as Warden of the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center, where Petitioner is detained is named in their official capacity having immediate physical custody of Petitioner. He is sued in their official capacity.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

35. The Fourth Amendment protects “[t]he right of the people to be secure in their persons...against unreasonable searches and seizures.” U.S. Const. amend. IV.

36. Immigration detention is a form of civil confinement that “constitutes a significant deprivation of liberty that requires due process protection.” Addington v. Texas, 441 U.S. 418, 425 (1979).

37. Immigration officers may arrest an individual without a warrant in limited circumstances. See Arizona v. United States, 567 U.S. 387, 407-08 (2012) (conferring the preference of Congress, as expressed in the INA, for immigration arrests to be based on warrants).

38. The INA permits warrantless arrest if an immigration officer has reason to believe that a noncitizen (1) is in the United States in violation of the immigration laws and (2) “is likely to escape before a warrant can be obtained for his arrest.” 8 U.S.C. § 1357(a)(2); 8 C.F.R. § 287.8(c)(2)(i)-(ii).

39. ICE officers are bound not only by statute and due process, but also by its national policy adopted pursuant to settlement agreement in *Castanon Nava et al. v. Dep’t of Homeland Sec.*¹⁰ Under this poly, ICE officers must consider a delineated list of factors before making an arrest, including (a) the officer’s ability to determine the individual’s identity; (b) knowledge of the individual’s prior escapes or evasions of immigration authorities; (c) the individual's attempts to flee to avoid being discovered by immigration; and (d) the individual's ties to the community, such as a family, home, or employment.¹¹

40. Civil immigration detention must rest on lawful, individualized determination that detention is justified under the statutory framework as established by Congress. It cannot be imposed as the byproduct of a generalized enforcement campaign or arbitrary numerical targets. Yet the circumstances surrounding Petitioner's arrest and detention strongly indicate that his custody is not the result of a particularized assessment, but rather flowed from a broader enforcement posture designed to maximize arrests and detention irrespective of individualized risk.

41. Such seizures raise serious constitutional concerns. When enforcement practices become quota-driven, the risk of arbitrary detention increases substantially, eroding the constitutional boundary between permissible civil enforcement and impermissible dragnet policing.

42. The facts of this case reflect the predictable consequences of that policy environment. Petitioner has been present in the United States for approximately 7 years. He is the father to two U.S. citizens, and the long term partner of a legal permanent resident. The Petitioner has no history which would support a finding that he is a risk to the community or a risk of flight.

43. The constitutional concerns raised by Petitioner's arrest are not merely theoretical; they are compounded by the government's subsequent misapplication of the statutory detention scheme in what is now a nationwide issue of mass mandatory detention.

44. Even assuming arguendo that Petitioner’s initial apprehension was lawful, his continued detention must still comport with the framework Congress enacted in the Immigration and Nationality Act (“INA”). That framework requires individualized custody determination and carefully distinguishes between discretionary and mandatory detention.

45. Rather than adhere to those statutory limits, DHS and EOIR have attempted to reclassify broad categories of long-term resident as “applicants for admission,” thereby subjecting them to mandatory detention and stripping immigration judges of their traditional custody authority.

46. Understanding the structure of the INA’s detention provisions is therefore essential, as it demonstrates that Petitioner’s ongoing confinement is not only constitutionally suspect, but also contrary to the plain text, history, and settled application of the governing statute.

47. The INA prescribes three basic forms of detention for the vast majority of noncitizens in removal proceedings.

48. First, 8 U.S.C. § 1226 authorizes the detention of noncitizens in standard removal proceedings before an Immigration Judge (“IJ”). See 8 U.S.C. § 1229a. Individuals in § 1226(a) detention are generally entitled to a bond hearing at the outset of their detention, see 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.19(a), 1236.1(d), while noncitizens who have been arrested, charged with, or convicted of certain crimes are subject to mandatory detention. See 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c).

49. Second, the INA provides for mandatory detention of noncitizens subject to expedited removal under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1) and for other recent arrivals seeking admission referred to under § 1225(b)(2). This case concerns the detention provisions at §§ 1226(a) and 1225(b)(2).

50. The detention provisions at § 1226(a) and § 1225(b)(2) were enacted as part of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (“IIRIRA”) of 1996.¹²

51. Following the enactment of the IIRIRA, EOIR drafted new regulations explaining that, in general, people who entered the country without inspection were not considered detained under § 1225 and that they were instead detained under § 1226(a).¹³

52. Thus, in the decades that followed, most people who entered without inspection and were placed in standard removal proceedings received bond hearing, unless their criminal history rendered them ineligible. That practice was consistent with many more decades of prior practice, in which noncitizens who were not deemed “arriving” were entitled to a custody hearing before an IJ or other hearing officer.¹⁴

53. On July 8, 2025, ICE, “in coordination with” DOJ, announced a new policy that rejected well-established understanding of the statutory framework and reversed decades of practice.

54. The new policy, entitled “Interim Guidance Regarding Detention Authority for Applicants for Admission,” claims that all persons who entered the United States without inspection shall now be deemed “applicants for admission” under 8 U.S.C. § 1225, and therefore are subject to mandatory detention provision under § 1225(b)(2)(A). The policy applies regardless of when a person is apprehended and affects those who have resided in the United States for months, years, or in the instant Petitioner’s case, even decades.

¹³ See Inspection and Expedited Removal of Aliens; Detention and Removal of Aliens; Conduct of Removal Proceedings; Asylum Procedures, 62 Fed. Reg. 10312, 10323 (Mar. 6, 1997).

¹⁴ See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a) (1994); see also H.R. Rep. No. 104-469, pt. 1, at 229 (1996) (noting that § 1226(a) simply “restates” the detention authority previously found at § 1252(a)).

55. In a May 22, 2025, unpublished decision from the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA), EOIR adopted the same position. That decision holds that all noncitizens who entered the United States without admission or parole are considered applicants for admission and are ineligible for immigration judge bond hearings.

56. ICE and EOIR have adopted this position even though federal courts have rejected this exact conclusion.

57. DHS's and DOJ's interpretation defies the INA. As the Rodriguez Vazquez court explained, the plain text of the statutory provisions demonstrates that § 1226(a), not § 1225(b), applies to people like Petitioner.

58. Section 1226(a) applies by default to all persons “pending a decision on whether the [noncitizen] is to be removed from the United States.” These removal hearings are held under § 1229a. to “decid[e] the inadmissibility or deportability of a[] [noncitizen].”

59. On September 5, 2025, the Board of Immigration Appeals (“BIA”) took this misapplication of law a step further, issuing a precedential decision, binding on all immigration judges, holding that the immigration judge does not have authority to consider bond redetermination requests to any individual who entered the United States without inspection.¹⁵

60. In effect, the BIA transformed the government's contested enforcement position into a categorical jurisdictional bar, foreclosing individualized custody determinations for a broad class of noncitizens historically deemed bond-eligible under § 1226(a).

61. Federal district courts have rejected this sweeping reclassification. In Maldonado Bautista v. Santacruz, the Central District of California certified a nationwide “Bond Eligible Class” and granted declaratory relief, holding that DHS's interpretation “runs counter to the plain language of the INA, foundational principles of statutory interpretation, and the INA's statutory scheme," and that class members are entitled, at minimum, to individualized bond hearings.¹⁶

62. On November 20, 2025, the district court granted partial summary judgment on behalf of individual plaintiffs and on November 25, 2025, certified a nationwide class and extended declaratory judgment to the certified class.¹⁷

63. Despite the District Court's findings and relief ordered, the Executive Office for Immigration Review and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) have continued to refuse to abide by the declaratory relief and have continuously appealed lawful orders of release granted by immigration judges, forcing non-citizens to remain detained despite an issued order of bond.

64. Respondents have now operationalized that defiance through a coordinated litigation strategy that ensures continued detention even where an Immigration Judge has lawfully exercised jurisdiction, conducted an individualized custody analysis, and ordered release on bond. This practice directly undermines the relief granted by federal courts, including the declaratory judgment issued in Maldonado Bautista v. Santacruz, and renders that relief functionally meaningless for detained individuals.

65. Under DHS's current posture, even when a petitioner succeeds in obtaining a bond hearing and prevails before an Immigration Judge—often by establishing members in the generally recognized Bond Eligible Class and eligibility for discretionary detention under § 1226(a)—DHS responds by reflexively filing an appeal to the BIA.

¹⁶ Maldonado Bautista v. Santacruz, No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3288403, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025).

¹⁷ Maldonado Bautista v. Santacruz, No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, ---F. Supp. 3d ---, 2025 WL 3288403, at *9 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025) (order certifying Plaintiffs-Petitioners' proposed nationwide Bond Eligible Class, incorporating and extending declaratory judgment from Order Granting Petitioners' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment).

66. This strategy does not reflect case-specific judgment, but rather, it presents yet another blanket policy by the Respondents to appeal bond grants in all cases where it has been ordered, circumventing the Immigration Judge's lawful authority and nullifying the effect of federal court relief recognizing bond eligibility. The Respondents have transformed discretionary appellate review into a mechanism of categorical detention—achieving through procedure what it cannot lawfully obtain through statute.

67. Compounding this issue, Respondents appeal these bond grants to the very adjudicatory body that has already aligned itself with the Department's contested interpretation of the detention statutes. The BIA has issued precedential decisions adopting Respondents' position and depriving judges of jurisdiction over custody redeterminations for individuals who entered without inspection.

68. As a result, the appeals process offers no meaningful opportunity for relief, rather, it serves as a foregone conclusion that prolongs detention while preserving the appearance of administrative process.

69. The cumulative effect of this regime acts to trap petitioners in a procedural loop: a lawful bond order is issued, DHS appeals as a matter of course, detention continues automatically, and the appeal is adjudicated by a body that has already endorsed DHS's position.

70. This closed circuit—self-reinforcing and outcome-determinative—functions as a form of administrative ouroboros, consuming the very relief federal courts have declared petitioners are entitled to receive. Petitioners are left to run a short and futile race toward administrative relief while standing on a plank that has been deliberately shortened by agency design.

71. Habeas corpus exists precisely to address this type of structural deprivation of liberty. Where the government's coordinated use of stays, appeals, and binding precedent ensures continued detention regardless of individualized findings or federal court declarations, administrative remedies are not merely inadequate—they are illusory.

72. This is not an isolated incident. Counsel for Petitioner has observed this same coordinated enforcement and litigation posture repeatedly in other matters involving similarly situated noncitizens.

73. In those cases, Respondents have effectuated arrests without meaningful individualized inquiry, pursued detention despite the absences of criminal history or flight risk, and then operationalized a uniform strategy of opposing release through jurisdictional challenges and automatic appeals. The attached redacted exhibits further demonstrate that this pattern is systemic rather than anecdotal, reflecting an agency practice those functions to deprive noncitizens of any realistic avenue for custody review, release, or ultimate relief in immigration court.¹⁸

74. Evidence of such a pattern is highly probative of the constitutional infirmities present here, as it confirms that Petitioner's detention did not arise from a particularized determination, but from an enforcement architecture designed to maximize detention while minimizing the effectiveness of procedural safeguards guaranteed by statute and due process.

¹⁸ See Attached Exhibits 3-4

EXHAUSTION AND FUTILITY OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES

75. Immigration judges are now uniformly instructed to refuse jurisdiction over custody proceedings despite the district court's ruling. This instruction renders any request for bond before the Immigration Court functionally meaningless. Where adjudicators are instructed in advance that they lack jurisdiction and must deny relief, exhaustion is excused because the outcomes is foreordained.¹⁹

76. Any appeal by Petitioner to the Board of Immigration Appeals is equally futile. The Board has already articulated its binding position in Matter of Yajure-Hurtado, which EOIR continues to enforce nationwide notwithstanding contrary federal district court rulings.²⁰ There is no indication that the Board is reconsidering or retreating from that holding as it continues to overturn bond orders issued by immigration judges..

77. Thus, even if Petitioner were to navigate the procedural barriers to reach the Board, the governing precedent compels denial of relief. Exhaustion is not required where the agency's controlling precedent forecloses relief as a matter of law.²¹

78. Taken together, EOIR's directive that Immigration Judges lack jurisdiction to conduct bond hearings for individuals like Petitioner, DHS's systematic practice of staying and appealing any bond grants, and the Board's continued adherence to Matter of Yajure-Hurtado establish that administrative processes are incapable of providing Petitioner with timely or effective relief from detention.

²⁰ See Attached Exhibits 3-4.

²¹ See El Rescate Legal Servs., Inc. v. EOIR, 959 F.2d 742, 747 (9th Cir. 1991).

79. Under these circumstances, further administrative pursuit of relief is not merely inadequate—it is futile.

80. Accordingly, this Court should expeditiously grant this petition, and order Petitioner’s release from detention.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

81. Petitioner, Jose David Teletor Jimenez is a citizen and national of Guatemala who has been present in the United States for approximately seven (7) years. During this time, Petitioner has established deep family, economic, and community ties. He is the parent of two (2) United States citizen children and has long supported his family through consistent employment. Petitioner has supported his children alongside his long-term partner, a U.S. Lawful Permanent Resident preparing for naturalized citizenship.

82. On or about March 12, 2026, Petitioner was apprehended by officers of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”), Enforcement and Removal Operations (“ERO”), while preparing for a construction job near his home. He was taken into immigration custody and is presently being held at the Philadelphia Federal Detention Center.

83. Prior to this arrest, Petitioner had not been the subject of any immigration enforcement action for decades despite his long-term presence in the United States. Petitioner has no criminal history that would render him subject to mandatory detention.

84. He is not subject to mandatory detention under any provision of the Immigration and Nationality Act (“INA”), including INA § 236(c) or INA § 241, 8 U.S.C. §§ 1226(c), 1231.

85. Petitioner’s continued detention is not based on any statutory mandate, any criminal history, or any individualized finding of danger or flight risk, but solely on the government’s present political posture.

CLAIM FOR RELIEF

COUNT I

Violation of the Fourth Amendment of the United States Constitution Unreasonable Seizure

1. Petitioner repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.
2. Except at the border and its functional equivalents, the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution prohibits Respondents from conducting a detained stop to question a person without reasonable suspicion that a person is a noncitizen unlawfully in the United States. Moreover, the Fourth Amendment prohibits Respondents from making an arrest without probable cause to believe that a person is a noncitizen unlawfully in the United States.
3. Petitioner was detained by Respondents despite a lack of reasonable suspicion based on articulable facts that Petitioner was unlawfully in the United States. Further, Petitioner was arrested despite lack of probable cause to believe that Petitioner was a flight risk.

COUNT II

Violation of the INA:

Violation of the INA 8 U.S.C. § 1226

1. Petitioner repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.
2. Where Respondents have seized and detained a noncitizen whom Respondents have previously released from an initial period of detention pursuant to INA § 1226, Respondents are required by § 1226 to make an individualized determination as to the noncitizen's risk of flight and danger to the community.

3. The mandatory detention provision at 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2) does not apply to all noncitizens residing in the United States who are subject to the grounds of inadmissibility. As relevant here, it does not apply to those who previously entered the country and have been residing in the United States prior to being apprehended in the interior. Such noncitizens are detained under § 1226, unless they are subject to § 1225(b)(1), § 1226(c), or § 1231.
4. Respondents' failure to make individualized determinations regarding Petitioner's possible risk of flight, and possible danger to the community violates the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1226.

COUNT III

Violation of Due Process

1. Petitioner repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.
2. The government may not deprive a person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. U.S. Const. amend. V. "Freedom from imprisonment—from government custody, detention, or other forms of physical restraint—lies at the heart of the liberty that the Clause protects." Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 690, 121 S.Ct. 2491, 150 L.Ed.2d 653 (2001).
3. Petitioner has a fundamental interest in liberty and being free from official restraint.
4. The government's detention of Petitioner without meaningful access to bond redetermination to determine whether he is a flight risk or danger to others violates his right to due process.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that this Court grant the following relief:

- a. Assume jurisdiction over this matter;
- b. Issue a writ of habeas corpus requiring that within one day, Respondents release Petitioner;
- c. Award Petitioner attorney's fees and costs under the Equal Access to Justice Act ("EAJA"), as amended, 28 U.S.C. § 2412, and on any other basis justified under law; and
- d. Grant any other and further relief that this Court deems just and proper.

DATED this 13th of March, 2026.

ANTONIO A. MATURANO, III
Counsel for Petitioner

Locate the whereabouts of a federal inmate incarcerated from 1982 to the present. Due to the First Step Act, sentences are being reviewed and recalculated to address pending Federal Time Credit changes. As a result, an inmate's release date may not be up-to-date. Website visitors should continue to check back periodically to see if any changes have occurred.

If an individual is listed as "Released" or "Not in BOP Custody" and no facility location is indicated, the inmate is no longer in BOP custody, however, the inmate may still be in the custody of some other correctional/criminal justice system/law enforcement entity, or on parole or supervised release.

MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Respondent

FILED

Oct 31, 2025

ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT: Alexis M. Price, Esquire

ON BEHALF OF DHS: John D. Staples, Assistant Chief Counsel

IN BOND PROCEEDINGS

On Appeal from a Decision of the Immigration Court, Elizabeth, NJ

Before: Gemoets, Appellate Immigration Judge

GEMOETS, Appellate Immigration Judge

The respondent is a native and citizen of [REDACTED]. The Department of Homeland Security appeals from the Immigration Judge's July 30, 2025, bond order granting the respondent a $12,000 bond. On August 15, 2025, the Immigration Judge issued a bond memorandum memorializing his decision. The respondent opposes the appeal. The appeal will be sustained, and the Immigration Judge's order will be vacated.

We review the findings of fact, including the determination of credibility, made by the Immigration Judge under the "clearly erroneous" standard. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(3)(i). We review all other issues, including issues of law, discretion, or judgment, under the de novo standard. 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(3)(ii).

In intervening precedent, we held that, pursuant to section 235(b)(2)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA"), 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), Immigration Judges lack authority to hear bond requests or to grant bond to aliens who are present in the United States without admission. Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216, 225 (BIA 2025). We find no error in the Immigration Judge's finding that the respondent is present in the United States without admission (IJ Bond Mem. at 1; Exh. B2 at 1). On this record, the Immigration Judge lacked jurisdiction to hear the respondent's motion for a bond because he is an applicant for admission and therefore subject to mandatory detention.

We disagree with the respondent's argument that Matter of Yajure Hurtado cannot be retroactively applied to his case because it was issued after the Immigration Judge's bond order (Respondent's Br. at 7-10). The application of our interpretation of the INA's detention statutes in Matter of Yajure Hurtado "is not subject to retroactivity concerns because an alien's eligibility (or continued eligibility) for release on bond should be considered a form of prospective relief in the context of" Landgraf v. USI Film Products, 511 U.S. 244 (1994). Matter of Valdez, 21 I&N Dec. 703, 710 (BIA 1997). The INA “does not give detained aliens any right to release on bond.” Matter of D-J-, 23 I&N Dec. 572, 575 (BIA 2003) (citing Carlson v. Landon, 342 U.S. 524, 534 (1952)). As such, application of Matter of Yajure Hurtado to the respondent does not “impair rights [he] possessed when he acted, increase [his] liability for past conduct, or impose new duties with respect to transactions already completed.” Matter of Valdez, 21 I&N Dec. at 709-10 (quoting Landgraf, 511 U.S. at 280). The respondent’s inability to seek release on bond before an Immigration Judge does not have any effect on the immigration consequences of his unlawful entry into the United States, such as whether he is removable from the United States or eligible for relief from removal. It “at most creates a practical disadvantage, not an impairment of protected rights.” Id. at 711.

Accordingly, the following orders will be entered.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.

FURTHER ORDER: The Immigration Judge’s July 30, 2025, custody order is vacated, and the respondent is ordered detained without bond.
