INTRODUCTION

1. This is a Writ for Habeas Corpus. Petitioner Alejandro OREGON MERCADO, is a 23-year-old native and citizen of Mexico, who Respondents have detained since March 1, 2026 at the Otay Mesa Detention Center [OMDC], located at 7488 Calzada De La Fuente, San Diego, California 92154. A Notice to Appear was filed with the Immigration Court at Otay Mesa, charging him with removability under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i)[present without admission or parole]. He has filed a motion for bond hearing and the Immigration Judge held a hearing on March 13, 2026, but denied bond citing a stay issued by the 9th Circuit on March 6, 2026 (pausing the enforcement of the district court's judgment in Maldonado Bautista et al. v. Ernesto Santacruz Jr. et al., No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3288403 (C.D. Cal.) while the government's appeal is pending). The Immigration Judge's decision is consistent also with a January 13, 2026 Agency [EOIR] memorandum finding that Maldonado Bautista, is not a nationwide injunction and did not vacate, stay, or enjoin the Board of Immigration Appeals' holding in Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216, 229 (BIA 2025), infra. See Maldonado Bautista et al. v. Ernesto Santacruz Jr. et al., No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3288403 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025). Though there was optimism that he could obtain a bond hearing, in light of EOIR recent memo, he has been denied a bond.

2. Petitioner is being unlawfully detained because the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) of the Department of Justice (DOJ) have erroneously concluded he is subject to mandatory detention, and not eligible for bond.

3. DHS issued a directive on July 8, 2025, instructing all Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) employees to consider anyone inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i)—i.e., those, like Petitioner, who are alleged to have entered the United States without inspection—to be an “applicant for admission” under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) and therefore subject to mandatory detention.

1 Consistent with this policy, DHS and EOIR have denied Petitioner release from 2 immigration custody.

3 4. The Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) of the Department
4 of Justice (DOJ) has recently affirmed that view. In a published decision, dated 5 September 5, 2025, the Board of Immigration Appeals held that “Immigration
6 Judges lack authority to hear bond requests or to grant bond to [noncitizens] who are 7 present in the United States without admission.” Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N
8 Dec. 216, 229 (BIA 2025)(“no admission, no bond.”). Further, on January 13, 2026,
9 Respondents of the Executive Office for Immigration Review [EOIR] issued
10 guidance to its Judges that Maldonado Bautista, is not a nationwide injunction and 11 did not vacate, stay, or enjoin the Board of Immigration Appeals holding in Yajure
12 Hurtado. See Maldonado Bautista et al. v. Ernesto Santacruz Jr. et al., No. 5:25-
13 CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3288403 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025).

14 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

15 5. At the time this Petition is filed, and through the present day, Petitioner has 16 been detained at the Otay Mesa Detention Center, which is located in San Diego, 17 California. The Immigration Court is at that same location. He is in the physical 18 custody of Patrick Divvan, Field Office Director of Enforcement and Removal
19 Operations San Diego Field Office.

20 6. This court may grant relief under the habeas corpus statutes, 28 U.S.C. §
21 2241 et. seq., the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201 et. seq., the All Writs
22 Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651, and the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 23 1252(e)(2).

24 7. Under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 and § 1391(b), (e), venue is proper in this district 25 because, when this case was initiated and through the present day, Petitioner has 26 been in Respondents’ custody at Otay Mesa Detention Center, within the Southern 27 District of California. See, e.g., Braden v. 30th Judicial Circuit Court of Kentucky, 28 410 U.S. 484, 493-500 (1973). Venue is further proper because a substantial part of

1 the events or omissions giving rise to Petitioner's claims occurred in this district.

2 REQUIREMENTS OF 28 U.S.C. § 2243

3 8. The court must grant the petition for writ of habeas corpus or order
4 Respondents to show cause "forthwith," unless Petitioner is not entitled to relief. 28
5 U.S.C. § 2243. If an order to show cause is issued, the Respondents must file a return 6 "within three days unless for good cause additional time, not exceeding twenty days, 7 is allowed." Id.

8 9. Habeas corpus is "perhaps the most important writ known to the 9 constitutional law . . . affording as it does a swift and imperative remedy in all cases 10 of illegal restraint or confinement." Fay v. Noia, 372 U.S. 391, 400 (1963). "The 11 application for the writ usurps the attention and displaces the calendar of the judge 12 or justice who entertains it and receives prompt action from Petitioner within the 13 four corners of the application." Yong v. I.N.S., 208 F.3d 1116, 1120 (9th Cir. 2000)
14 (citation omitted).

15 PARTIES

16 10. Petitioner Alejandro Oregon Mercado is a 23-year-old native and 17 citizen of Mexico who entered the United States in the company of his parents a 18 toddler [on or about March 15, 2006] – over 20 years ago. He is held detained
19 without bond pursuant to a Notice to Appear asserting his removability under 8
20 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i)(present without admission or parole) and/or 8 U.S.C. § 21 1182(a)(7)(A)(i)(I)(not in possession of valid entry documents). Based on the 22 charge(s), he has been denied bond.

23 11. Respondent Patrick Divver is the Director of the San Diego Office of 24 Enforcement and Removal Operations, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, 25 Department of Homeland Security. As such, Mr. Guadian is Petitioner's immediate 26 custodian. He is named in his official capacity.

27 12. Respondent Todd Lyons is the Acting Director of U.S. Immigration and 28 Customs Enforcement, and he has authority over the actions of respondent Robert

1 Guadian, and ICE in general. Respondent Lyons is a legal custodian of Petitioner.
2 He is named in his official capacity.

3 13. Respondent Kristi Noem is the Secretary of the Department of Homeland
4 Security (DHS) until March 31, 2026, and has authority over the actions of all other
5 DHS Respondents in this case, as well as all operations of DHS. Respondent Noem
6 is a legal custodian of Petitioner and is charged with faithfully administering the 7 immigration laws of the United States. She is named in her official capacity.

8 14. Respondent Pamela Bondi is the Attorney General of the United States, 9 and as such has authority over the Department of Justice and is charged with 10 faithfully administering the immigration laws of the United States. She is named in 11 her official capacity.

12 15. Respondent Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is the federal 13 agency responsible for implementing and enforcing the INA, including the detention
14 of noncitizens.

15 16. Respondent U.S. Immigration Customs Enforcement is the federal 16 agency responsible for custody decisions relating to non-citizens charged with being 17 removable from the United States, including the arrest, detention, and custody status
18 of non-citizens.

19 17. Respondent Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) is the 20 federal agency responsible for implementing and enforcing the INA in removal 21 proceedings, including for custody redeterminations in bond hearings.

22 FACTUAL BACKGROUND

23 18. Petitioner Alejandro Oregon Mercado is a 23-year-old native and citizen of 24 Mexico who entered the United States in the company of his parents a toddler [on 25 or about March 15, 2006]. He has had all his primary schooling in the United 26 States, is an English speaker, and graduated high school. He has habitually resided 27 in California for over 20 years, and currently resides in Fallbrook, California in the 28 company of his sister, Dania Oregon Mercado, a lawful permanent resident. He

1 has been detained by Respondents since March 1, 2026. He has no criminal record 2 that would subject him to mandatory detention, or that would disqualify him from 3 relief from removal in the form of DACA [Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals]
4 or asylum, withholding of removal, or protection under the Torture Convention. He 5 is held detained without bond pursuant to a Notice to Appear asserting his 6 removability under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i)(present without admission or parole)
7 and/or 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(7)(A)(i)(I)(not in possession of valid entry documents).
8 Based on the charge(s), he has been denied bond.

9 19. Any request for bond redetermination before EOIR is futile as the BIA
10 recently held in a published decision that persons, like Petitioner, who are charged
11 under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i) are subject to mandatory detention as applicants
12 for admission under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A). See Mosqueda v. Noem, 2025 WL 13 2591530, at *7 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 8, 2025) (noting that BIA's decision in Yajure
14 Hurtado renders prudential exhaustion futile). Further, on January 13, 2026,
15 Respondents of the Executive Office for Immigration Review [EOIR] issued
16 guidance to its Judges that Maldonado Bautisa, is not a nationwide injunction and
17 did not vacate, stay, or enjoin the Board of Immigration Appeals holding in Yajure
18 Hurtado. Pursuant to Respondents' interpretations, Petitioner remains in mandatory 19 detention. Absent relief from this court, Petitioner faces the prospect of months, or 20 even years, in immigration custody in violation of the Immigration and Nationality
21 Act, and Due Process.

22 EXHAUSTION

23 20. No statutory requirement of administrative exhaustion applies to 24 Petitioner's case. Moreover, the judicially created "general rule that parties exhaust 25 prescribed administrative remedies before seeking relief from the federal courts"
26 does not apply to Petitioner's present challenge, as there are no prescribed
27 administrative remedies to which Petitioner could resort. McCarthy v. Madigan, 503
28 U.S. 140, 144–45 (1992), superseded by statute on other grounds as recognized in

1 Woodford v. Ngo, 548 U.S. 81 (2006).

2 21. In particular, DHS has taken the position that noncitizens like Petitioner
3 who entered without inspection are subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 4 1225, and the Executive Office for Immigration Review has affirmed that view. In 5 a published decision, the Board of Immigration Appeals recently held that 6 “Immigration Judges lack authority to hear bond requests or to grant bond to 7 [noncitizens] who are present in the United States without admission.” Matter of 8 Yajure Hurtado, 29 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025). Under the BIA’s interpretation, 9 Petitioner is ineligible for bond as a noncitizen who entered the United States
10 without inspection. Accordingly, there are no administrative remedies that Petitioner
11 could exhaust before seeking habeas relief. See Singh v. Lewis, No. 4:25-CV-96-12 RGJ, 2025 WL 2699219, at *3 (W.D. Ky. Sept. 22, 2025) (“[t]he United States has 13 made clear their position on Section 1225, and it is being applied at all levels within 14 the DHS. Therefore, it is unlikely that any administrative review would lead to the 15 United States changing its position and precluding judicial review”); Lopez-Campos
16 v. Raycraft, No. 2:25-CV-12486, 2025 WL 2496379, at *4 (E.D. Mich. Aug. 29, 17 2025) (“Because exhaustion would be futile and unable to provide [petitioner] with 18 the relief he requests in a timely manner, the court waives administrative exhaustion 19 and will address the merits of the habeas petition.”).

20 22. Further, neither an immigration judge nor the Board of Immigration
21 Appeals can rule on a petitioner’s constitutional claims. See Matter of R-A-V-P-, 27
22 I. & N. Dec. 803, 804 n.2 (B.I.A. 2020) (holding that IJs and the BIA lack any 23 authority to consider the constitutionality of the statutes or regulations governing 24 immigration detention that they administer and are bound to follow); Matter of C--, 25 20 I. & N. Dec. 529, 532 (B.I.A. 1992) (“[I]t is settled that the immigration judge
26 and this Board lack jurisdiction to rule upon the constitutionality of the Act and the 27 regulations.”); see also Gonzalez v. O’Connell, 355 F.3d 1010, 1017 (7th Cir. 2004)
28 (noting that “the BIA has no jurisdiction to adjudicate constitutional issues”).

23. Further, despite the recently certified class action in Maldonado Bautista et al. v. Ernesto Santacruz Jr. et al., No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3288403 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025), Respondents of the Executive Office for Immigration Review [EOIR] issued guidance to its Judges that Maldonado Bautista, is not a nationwide injunction and did not vacate, stay, or enjoin the Board of Immigration Appeals holding in Yajure Hurtado. Therefore, the court should find administrative exhaustion would be futile. See Vasquez- Rodriguez v. Garland, 7 F.4th 888, 896 (9th Cir. 2021) (“where the agency’s position appears already set and recourse to administrative remedies is very likely futile, exhaustion is not required.”). BIA decisions are binding on immigration judges, and Yajure Hurtado thus precludes an IJ from finding jurisdiction over noncitizens like Petitioner to hold a custody redetermination hearing. Therefore, judicial intervention enjoining Respondents from preventing Petitioner from having a bond hearing, or being granted a bond if considered eligible, pursuant to the holding in Yajure Hurtado is necessary to enable Petitioner to avail himself of his administrative remedies.

24. Therefore, the court should consider the merits of this Petition.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

I. Detention Authority and Respondent’s Efforts to Expand Mandatory Detention

25. The Immigration and Nationality Act [INA] prescribes three basic forms of detention for the vast majority of noncitizens in removal proceedings.

26. First, 8 U.S.C. § 1226 authorizes the permissive detention of noncitizens “already in the country.” See Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 289 (2018). 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) “sets out the default rule: The Attorney General may issue a warrant for the arrest and detention of a[] [noncitizen] ‘pending a decision on whether the [noncitizen] is to be removed from the United States.’” Id. at 288 (quoting § 1226(a) (emphasis added)).

27. Individuals in Section 1226(a) detention are generally entitled to a bond

1 hearing at the outset of their detention. See § 1226(a)(2); 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.19(a),
 2 1236.1(c)(8), (d)(1); Rodriguez Vazquez v. Bostock, 779 F. Supp. 3d 1239, 1247
 3 (W.D. Wash. 2025) (“those detained under Section 1226(a) are entitled to a bond
 4 hearing before an [immigration judge] at any time before entry of a final removal 5 order.”).

6 28. Section 1226(c) “carves out a statutory category” of noncitizens from 7 Section 1226(a) for whom detention is mandatory, comprised of individuals who 8 have committed certain “enumerated ... criminal offenses [or] terrorist activities.”
 9 Jennings, 583 U.S. at 289 (citing § 1226(c)(1)). Among the individuals carved out
 10 and subject to mandatory detention are certain categories of “inadmissible”
 11 noncitizens. § 1226(c)(1)(A), (D), (E). Reference to such inadmissible noncitizens 12 makes clear that, by default, people who are applicants for admission but 13 encountered in the interior are afforded a bond hearing under subsection 1226(a).
 14 Courts have recently confirmed this understanding of Section 1226. See Rodriguez
 15 Vazquez, 779 F. Supp. 3d at 1257 (citing Shady Grove Orthopedic Assocs., P.A. v.
 16 Allstate Ins. Co., 559 U.S. 393, 400 (2010)) (“When Congress creates ‘specific 17 exceptions’ to a statute’s applicability, it ‘proves’ that absent those exceptions, the 18 statute generally applies.”); see also, e.g., Gomes v. Hyde, No. 1:25-CV11571-19 JEK, 2025 WL 1869299, at *6 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025) (“inadmissibility on one of 20 the three grounds specified in Section 1226(c)(1)(E)(i) is not by itself sufficient to 21 except [a noncitizen] from Section 1226(a)’s discretionary detention framework”).

22 29. Second, the INA provides for mandatory detention of certain categories of 23 noncitizens “seeking entry into the United States” under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b).
 24 Jennings, 583 U.S. at 297; see § 1225(b) (“Inspection of applicants for admission”).
 25 In Jennings, the Supreme Court explained that this mandatory scheme applies “at 26 the Nation’s borders and ports of entry, where the Government must determine 27 whether a[] [noncitizen] seeking to enter the country is inadmissible.” Jennings, 583
 28 U.S. at 287 (emphasis added). Noncitizens subject to mandatory detention under

1 Section 1225 may not be released except “for urgent humanitarian reasons or 2 significant public benefit” under the parole authority provided by 8 U.S.C. §
3 1182(d)(5)(A). See id. at 300.

4 30. Section 1225 has two subparts requiring mandatory detention: subsection 5 (b)(1) mandates detention of noncitizens charged with enumerated grounds of 6 inadmissibility and placed in expedited removal proceedings, and subsection (b)(2)
7 mandates detention of recently arrived noncitizens seeking entry at a border or port 8 of entry. See infra.

9 31. Third, the INA provides for detention of noncitizens who have been 10 ordered removed, including individuals in withholding-only proceedings, see 8
11 U.S.C. § 1231(a)–(b).

12 32. This case concerns whether Petitioner may be detained with a right to a 13 bond hearing pursuant to Section 1226(a) (as the law requires) or whether he falls
14 within mandatory detention as an “arriving alien” under Section 1225(b)(2) as DHS 15 policy erroneously requires.

16 33. Respondents have recently taken various steps seeking to expand their use 17 of mandatory detention under Section 1225(b)(2) beyond its plain language.

18 34. On July 8, 2025, ICE, “in coordination with” DOJ, announced a new 19 policy that rejected well-established understanding of the statutory framework and 20 reversed decades of practice. See U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement,
21 Interim Guidance Regarding Detention Authority for Applicants for Admission
22 (July 8, 2025), https://www.aila.org/ice-memo-interimguidance-regarding-
detention-authority-for-applications-for-admission.

23 35. The new policy claims that all persons who entered the United States
24 without inspection shall now be deemed “applicants for admission” under 8 U.S.C.
25 § 1225 and therefore are subject to mandatory detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A). The 26 policy applies regardless of when a person is apprehended and affects those who 27 have resided in the United States for months, years, and even decades.

1 36. On September 5, 2025, the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA)
2 published a decision adopting this same position. See Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29
3 I&N Dec. 216 (BIA 2025). That decision holds that all noncitizens who entered the 4 United States without admission or parole are considered applicants for admission
5 and are ineligible for immigration judge bond hearings. On January 13, 2026,
6 Respondents of the Executive Office for Immigration Review [EOIR] issued
7 guidance to its Judges that Maldonado Bautisa, is not a nationwide injunction and
8 did not vacate, stay, or enjoin the Board of Immigration Appeals holding in Yajure
9 Hurtado.

10 II. Respondents' Policy on Section 1225(b)(2) Is Incorrect

11 37. Respondents' policy that all undocumented noncitizens who entered 12 without inspection are considered applicants for admission and subject to mandatory
13 detention under Section 1225(b)(2)(A) is incorrect. Statutory text, statutory 14 framework, Congressional intent, longstanding practice of the agency, and decisions
15 of many federal courts across the nation – including this one – all limit Section 16 1225(b)(2)'s scope to recently arrived noncitizens seeking admission at a border or 17 port of entry.

18 a. Statutory Text

19 38. The text of Section 1225, along with its placement in the overall detention 20 scheme of the INA, make clear that the terms “applicant for admission” and “seeking 21 admission” in Section 1225(b)(2) do not include individuals who have entered 22 without inspection and are apprehended when already inside the United States.

23 39. Section 1225 is titled: “Inspection by immigration officers; expedited 24 removal of inadmissible arriving aliens; referral for hearing.” (emphasis added). As 25 courts have recognized, “[t]he added word of ‘arriving’ indicates that the statute 26 governs ‘arriving’ noncitizens, not those present already.” Beltran Barrera v. Tindall, 27 No. 3:25-CV-541-RGJ, 2025 WL 2690565, at *4 (W.D. Ky. Sept. 19, 2025) (citing 28 Pizarro Reyes v. Raycraft, No. 25-CV-12546, 2025 WL 2609425, at *5 (E.D. Mich.

1 Sept. 9, 2025)). This limitation is particularly clear when compared to Section
2 1226's general title: "Apprehension and detention of aliens."

3 40. Further, Section 1225(b)(2)'s specific subheading, "Inspection of Other
4 Aliens," subsection 1225(b)(2)(B)'s mention of "crewm[e]n" and "stowaway[s]," 5 and subsection 1225(b)(2)(C)'s use of the active language "arriving," reinforce the 6 limited scope of Section 1225(b)(2)'s applicability to those who have recently 7 arrived at a border or port of entry.

8 41. Finally, the term "seeking" in "seeking admission" "implies action –
9 something that is currently occurring, and in this instance, would most logically
10 occur at the border upon inspection." Lopez-Campos, 2025 WL 2496379, at *6 (E.D.
11 Mich. Aug. 29, 2025); see also Beltran Barrera, 2025 WL 2690565, at *4.
12 Noncitizens who are present in the country for years are not "seeking admission."
13 Lopez-Campos, at *6; Beltran Barrera, at *4.

14 b. Statutory Framework

15 42. The statutory framework further supports that Section 1225(b)(2) does not 16 apply to noncitizens, like Petitioner, who has lived in the United States for years and 17 who was apprehended and placed in detention while residing within the United 18 States.

19 43. The INA's entire framework is premised on Section 1225 governing 20 detention of "arriving [noncitizens]" while Section 1226 "applies to [noncitizens]
21 already present in the United States." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 288, 301; see also Lopez
22 Benitez v. Francis, No. 25 CIV. 5937 (DEH), 2025 WL 2371588, at *8 (S.D.N.Y.
23 Aug. 13, 2025) ("[T]he line historically drawn between sections 1225 and 1226,
24 which makes sense of their text and the overall statutory scheme, is that section 1225 25 governs detention of non-citizens 'seeking admission into the country,' whereas 26 section 1226 governs detention of non-citizens 'already in the country.'") (citing 27 Jennings, 583 U.S. at 288-89); Martinez v. Hyde, 2025 WL 2084238, at *8 (D. Mass.
28 July 24, 2025) ("The idea that a different detention scheme would apply to non-

1 citizens ‘already in the country,’ as compared to those ‘seeking admission into the 2 country,’ is consonant with the core logic of our immigration system”) (citing
3 Jennings, 583 U.S. at 289).

4 44. A fundamental principle of statutory construction is that courts must 5 interpret statutes to give meaning to all provisions and avoid reading out or rendering
6 superfluous any single provision. Corley v. United States, 556 U.S. 303, 314 (2009)
7 (“one of the most basic interpretive canons . . . [a] statute should be construed so that 8 effect is given to all its provisions, so that no part will be inoperative or superfluous,
9 void or insignificant[.]”). The government’s current reading of Section 1225(b)(2)
10 violates this principle.

11 45. Section 1226(c) includes carve outs for certain categories of inadmissible
12 noncitizens, who would otherwise fall under Section 1226(a), that are instead subject 13 to mandatory detention. 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c)(1)(A), (D), (E). The inclusion of these 14 carve outs in Section 1226(c) indicates that, contrary to Respondents’ interpretation, 15 there are noncitizens who have not been admitted and that are not governed by 16 Section 1225’s mandatory detention scheme. Indeed, if the government’s
17 interpretation were correct, it would render these portions of Section 1226(c)
18 superfluous since those same individuals would already be subject to mandatory
19 detention under Section 1225(b)(2).

20 46. The recent amendment to Section 1226(c) confirms this statutory 21 framework. Just this year, Congress passed the Laken Riley Act, which added
22 additional categories of Section 1226(a) carve outs that are now subject to mandatory
23 detention under Section 1226(c). Laken Riley Act, Pub. L. No. 119-1, 139 Stat. 3 24 (2025); 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c)(1)(E). Specifically, the Laken Riley Act mandates the 25 detention of noncitizens who are inadmissible under §§ 1182(a)(6)(A) (noncitizens 26 “present in the United States without being admitted or paroled”), 1182(a)(6)(C) 27 (misrepresentation), or 1182(a)(7) (lacking valid documentation) and who have been 28 arrested for, charged with, or convicted of certain crimes. Id. If Section 1225(b)(2)

1 were already meant to subject these groups of inadmissible noncitizens to mandatory
2 detention, it would render this portion of the Laken Riley Act redundant. See Beltran
3 Barrera, 2025 WL 2690565, at *4; LopezCampos, 2025 WL 2496379, at *8.

4 c. Congressional Intent and Longstanding Agency Practice

5 47. Congressional intent and longstanding historical practice underscore 6 Petitioner's reading of the statute.

7 48. The current detention system has been in place since the passage of the 8 Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA) of 1996,
9 Pub. L. No. 104--208, Div. C, §§ 302--03, 110 Stat. 3009-546, 3009-582 to 3009-10 583, 3009-585.

11 49. Following the enactment of the IIRIRA, the Executive Office for 12 Immigration Review drafted new regulations explaining that, in general, people who 13 entered the country without inspection were not considered detained under Section
14 1225 and that they were instead detained under Section 1226(a) and eligible for bond
15 and bond redetermination. See 62 Fed. Reg. 10312, 10323 (Mar. 6, 1997).

16 50. In the decades that followed, most people who entered without inspection
17 and were apprehended inside the United States were detained under Section 1226(a)
18 and received bond hearings, unless their criminal history rendered them ineligible.
19 That practice was consistent with many more decades of prior practice, in which 20 noncitizens who were not deemed "arriving" were entitled to a custody hearing
21 before an immigration judge or other hearing officer. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a) (1994);
22 see also H.R. Rep. No. 104-469, pt. 1, at 229 (1996) (noting that Section 1226(a) 23 simply "restates" the detention authority previously found at Section 1252(a)).

24 d. Recent Federal Court Decisions Affirming Petitioner's Position

25 51. Numerous federal courts have reached conclusions consistent with 26 Petitioner's position, with more reaching the same conclusion nearly every day.

27 52. For example, after immigration judges in Tacoma, Washington, stopped 28 providing bond hearings for persons who entered the United States without

1 inspection, the U.S. District Court in the Western District of Washington found that 2 such a reading of the INA is likely unlawful, and that Section 1226(a), not Section
3 1225(b), applies to noncitizens who are not apprehended upon arrival to the United 4 States. Rodriguez Vazquez v. Bostock, 779 F. Supp. 3d 1239 (March 20, 2025).

5 53. Other courts in California and beyond have reached the same conclusion,
6 rejecting Respondent's erroneous interpretation of the INA both prior to, and since,
7 ICE implemented its July 8, 2025, interim guidance. See, e.g., Maldonado Bautista
8 et al. v. Ernesto Santacruz Jr. et al., No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL
9 3288403 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025); Arrazola-Gonzalez v Noem, 5:25-cv-01789-

28 54. The BIA's decision in Yajure Hurtado on September 5, 2025 has also not

1 impacted the District Courts' decisions rejecting Respondents' position. See Patel v.
2 Crowley, No. 25 C 11180, 2025 WL 2996787, at *1 (N.D.Ill. Oct. 24, 2025) (finding

4 the BIA's inconsistent view, its conflict with implementing regulation, and district
5 courts' overwhelming rejection of its expansive interpretation of 1225(b)); Patel v.

19 III. Petitioner's Detention Violates the Immigration and Nationality Act

20 55. Petitioner's detention is not authorized under Section 1225(b)(2). As 21 discussed above, mandatory detention under Section 1225(b)(2) applies only to 22 recently arrived noncitizens seeking admission at a border or port of entry, not 23 individuals like Petitioner who entered without inspection, were released or were 24 never encountered, and were later detained inside the country. As such, Petitioner is 25 not subject to mandatory detention under Section 1225(b)(2).

26 56. Petitioner's detention is not authorized under Section 1226(a), either. As 27 discussed above, Section 1226(a)'s discretionary detention framework requires a 28 bond hearing to make an individualized custody determination based on Petitioner's

1 risk of flight or dangerousness. Here, Respondents have failed to provide such a 2 hearing. Further, there is no information indicating that Petitioner is a flight risk or 3 danger to the community.

4 57. Lacking any statutory basis for this detention, Respondents must release
5 Petitioner or hold a bond hearing on the merits to determine whether he should 6 remain detained.

7 IV. Due Process Clause

8 58. Noncitizens are entitled to due process of the law under the Fifth
9 Amendment. Demore v. Kim, 538 U.S. 510, 523 (2003) (quoting Reno v. Flores, 507
10 U.S. 292, 306 (1993)). To determine whether civil detention violates a noncitizen's 11 Fifth Amendment due process rights, courts apply the three-part test in Mathews v.
12 Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976).

13 59. Under Mathews, courts weigh these three factors: 1) "the private interest 14 that will be affected by the official action;" 2) "the risk of an erroneous deprivation 15 of such interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of 16 additional or substitute procedural safeguards;" and 3) "the Government's interest, 17 including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that the 18 additional or substitute procedural requirement would entail." 424 U.S. at 335.

19 a. Private Interest

20 60. As to the first Mathews factor, "[t]he interest in being free from physical 21 detention" is "the most elemental of liberty interests." Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S.
22 507, 529, 531 (2004). Petitioner has been detained at ICE's Otay Mesa Detention
23 Center in San Diego, California, away from his family. This detention prevents him 24 from supporting himself, and deprives him of any privacy and freedom of movement.

25 b. Risk of Erroneous Deprivation

26 61. As to the second Mathews factor, courts must "assess whether the 27 challenged procedure creates a risk of erroneous deprivation of individuals' private 28 rights and the degree to which alternative procedures could ameliorate these risks."

1 Gunaydin v. Trump, No. 25-CV-01151 (JMB/DLM), 2025 WL 1459154, at *8 (D.
2 Minn. May 21, 2025). The current procedures cause an erroneous deprivation of 3 Petitioner's liberty interest in remaining free from detention.

4 62. As discussed above, the statutory text, statutory framework, Congressional 5 intent, the longstanding practice of the agency, and the decisions of many federal 6 courts across the nation leave no doubt that Section 1225(b)(2) applies only to 7 recently arrived noncitizens seeking entry at a border or port of entry, not noncitizens
8 who entered without inspection and were detained inside the country.

9 63. Here, Petitioner was not arriving at a border or port of entry when he was 10 detained, nor was he seeking admission. Instead, Petitioner entered without 11 inspection in the company of his parents over 20 years ago, as a toddler, and lived
12 in the United States for over 20 years prior to being detained. As such, he is not 13 subject to mandatory detention under Section 1225(b)(2).

14 64. It is clear based on the foregoing that the government's current procedure
15 of subjecting Petitioner to mandatory detention under Section 1225(b)(2) creates a 16 substantial risk of erroneous deprivation of Petitioner's interest in being free from 17 arbitrary confinement.

18 65. Additionally, there are reasonable alternatives available for Respondent to 19 pursue. As discussed above, 8 U.S.C. section 1226(a) applies to noncitizens facing 20 charges of inadmissibility, including noncitizens like Petitioner who entered without 21 inspection, were released or never apprehended, and were later detained while 22 residing inside the country. As such, proper application of the INA's detention 23 scheme allows for the possibility of detaining Petitioner under Section 1226(a), but 24 first requires a bond hearing to make an individualized determination of flight risk, 25 or dangerousness. Such a hearing has not occurred. Without it, the risk of erroneous
26 deprivation of Petitioner's freedom is high. See Singh v. Lewis, 2025 WL 2699219, 27 at *9 ("the risk of erroneously depriving him of his freedom is high if the IJ fails to 28 assess his risk of flight or dangerousness.").

1 c. Government Interest

2 66. As to the third Mathews factor, the government's interest in maintaining 3 the current procedure is minimal. The new interpretation of Section 1225(b)(2) –
4 that people like Petitioner who have resided in the United States for years are now
5 subject to mandatory detention – flies in the face of the statutory text, statutory 6 framework, Congressional intent, almost three decades of prior practice, and the 7 decisions of federal courts across the nation. Any government interest in public
8 safety or ensuring that Petitioner attend future immigration proceedings would be 9 satisfied through proper application of Section 1226(a), which requires a bond
10 redetermination hearing where an immigration judge will consider Petitioner's 11 individualized facts and circumstances to determine whether he is a danger to the 12 community or a flight risk.

13 CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

14 COUNT I - Violation of the Immigration and Nationality Act

15 67. Petitioner incorporates by reference the allegations of fact set forth in the 16 preceding paragraphs.

17 68. The mandatory detention provision at 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2) does not 18 apply to all noncitizens residing in the United States who are subject to the ground
19 of inadmissibility for entering the U.S. without inspection. As relevant here, it does 20 not apply to those who previously entered the country without inspection, and, if 21 issued NTAs, were released without bond, and have been residing in the United 22 States prior to being detained by Respondents. Such noncitizens are detained under 23 § 1226(a), unless they are subject to § 1225(b)(1), § 1226(c), or § 1231. Respondents'
24 actions also violate § 1226(a) because, to date, Respondents have denied Petitioner
25 bond or release on his own recognizance without ever establishing that Petitioner is 26 a flight risk or danger to others.

27 69. The application of § 1225(b)(2) to Petitioner unlawfully mandates
28 Petitioner's continued detention, and violates the Immigration and Nationality Act.

COUNT II - Violation of Due Process

70. Petitioner repeats, re-alleged, and incorporates by reference each and every allegation in the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

71. The government may not deprive a person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. U.S. Const. amend. V. “Freedom from imprisonment—from government custody, detention, or other forms of physical restraint—lies at the heart of the liberty that the Clause protects.” Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 690 (2001).

72. Petitioner has a fundamental liberty interest in being free from restraint.

73. Petitioner may only be subject to discretionary detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1226, which provides for release on bond. Respondents now erroneously detain Petitioner under the mandatory provision in § 1225(b)(2). Respondents’ detention of Petitioner without a bond hearing to determine flight risk or danger to others violates his due process rights.

74. BURDEN SHIFTING: While Petitioner has an excellent case for bond, when DHS has unconstitutionally detained him, an overwhelming consensus of courts place the burden on the government to prove by clear and convincing evidence that the detainee poses a danger or is flight risk to justify further detention. See Gonzalez v. Barr, 955 F.3d 762, 772 (9th Cir. 2020); Ochoa Ochoa v. Noem et al, 1:25-cv-10865 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 16, 2025); Sanchez v. Holt, Case No. 1:25-cv-12453, ECF No. 16 (N.D. Ill. Oct 24, 2025); G.Z.T. et al v. Smith et al, Case No. 25-C-12802, ECF No. 14 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 21, 2025); Velasco Lopez v. Decker, 978 F.3d 842, 855 (2d Cir. 2020); Hernandez-Lara v. Lyons, 10 F.4th 19 (1st Cir. 2021); Lopez-Arevelo v. Ripa, 2025 WL 2691828 (W.D. Tex. Sept. 22, 2025) (ordering a prompt bond hearing or release); Kostak v. Trump, 2025 WL 2472136 (W.D. La. Aug. 27, 2025) (same); Roman v. Noem, 2025 WL 2710211 (D. Nev. Sept. 23, 2025) (same). This modified the typical burden of proof at an immigration bond hearing where the noncitizen often bears the burden of proof. See 8 C.F.R. § 236.1(c)(8).

75. “The burden shifting [to the government] reflects the concern that a noncitizen ‘should not have to share the risk of error equally’ in the context of a due process violation and Petitioner’s ‘loss of liberty.’” Ochoa Ochoa v. Noem et al., 1:25-cv-10865 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 16, 2025) citing German Santos v. Warden Pike Cnty. Corr. Facility, 965 F.3d 203, 214 (3d Cir. 2020) and Lopez Santos v. Clesceri, 2021 WL 663180, at *5 (N.D. Ill. Feb. 19, 2021). Accordingly, if Petitioner is not granted release, he should be granted a bond hearing before an immigration judge, and the Government should bear the burden of justifying ongoing detention by clear and convincing evidence of dangerousness or flight risk.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that this Court grant the following relief:

- a. Assume jurisdiction over this matter;
- b. Immediately enjoin Respondents from moving any Petitioner outside of the United States or transferring Petitioner to any other federal judicial district.
- c. Issue a writ of habeas corpus requiring Respondents provide Petitioner a bond hearing before the Immigration Court pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a), within five (5) days, in which the government shall bear the burden by clear and convincing evidence of dangerousness or flight risk to justify continued detention;
- d. Declare that Petitioner’s continued detention violates the Immigration and Nationality Act, and the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment;
- e. Award Petitioner attorney’s fees and costs under the Equal Access to Justice Act (“EAJA”), as amended, 28 U.S.C. § 2412, and on any other basis justified under law; and
- f. Grant any other relief that this court deems just and just and proper.
