Case No. 26-cv-22617-GAYLES

BRAYAN GRAMAJO-ZABALETA,

Petitioner,

v.

TODD BLANCHE, et al.,

Respondents.

RESPONDENTS' RETURN TO WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Respondents,[1] through the undersigned Special Assistant U.S. Attorney, consistent with this Court's Order [DE 4], respectfully submit this response to petitioner Brayan Gramajo-Zabaleta's Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 (Petitioner and Petition) [DE 1]. Respondents maintain that Petition should be dismissed or denied.

I. BACKGROUND

Petitioner is a native and citizen of Guatemala who entered the United States without inspection or parole in or about December 2016. See Petition, at ¶ 31. Petitioner is currently in removal proceedings under 8 U.S.C. § 1229a. See Petition, at ¶ 3. He is detained without bond under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A). That section provides that aliens present in the United States

[1] A writ of habeas corpus must "be directed to the person having custody of the person detained." 28 USC § 2243. In cases involving present physical confinement, the Supreme Court reaffirmed in Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426 (2004), that "the immediate custodian, not a supervisory official who exercises legal control, is the proper respondent." Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426, 439 (2004). Petitioner is currently detained at Krome North Service Processing Center. See Petition at ¶ 2(a). The only appropriate respondent named is Assistant Field Office Director, Charles Parra, in his official capacity. All other respondents should be dismissed.

without having been admitted or paroled, and who are not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, shall be detained for a removal proceeding under 8 U.S.C. § 1229a. See 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A).

Petitioner argues his detention without a bond hearing is in violation of his Fifth Amendment right to Due Process (Count I), the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) (Count II), and the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) (Count III). As demonstrated below, Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) and his Petition should be denied accordingly.

[2] The government submits the following arguments in good faith, supported by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals' decision in See Buenrostro-Mendez v. Bondi, No. 25-20496, 25-40701, ___F. 4th ___, 2026 WL 323330 (5th Cir. Feb. 6, 2026), the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals' decision in Herrera Avila v. Bondi, No. 25-3248 (8th Cir. Mar. 25, 2026), and decisions rendered in this District. See, e.g., Iraheta Morales v. Noem, et al., Case No. 25-62598-CIV-SINGHAL, ECF No. 10 (S.D. Fla. Jan. 29, 2026) (concluding that habeas petitioner who entered the United States without inspection in 2004 is an "applicant for admission" governed by 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b) and rejecting petitioner's argument the government must grant a bond hearing under 8 U.S.C. § 1226)); Perez Morales v. Noem, et al., No.26-60251-CIV DIMITROULEAS, ECF No. 15 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 9, 2026)(same, adopting the analysis of the Fifth Circuit majority opinion in Buenrostro-Medina); Mokanu v. Warden, Federal Detention Center Miami, No. 25-24121-ARTAU, ECF No. 19 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 19, 2026) (holding that 8 USC 1252(g) prohibits the Court in a habeas proceeding from reviewing the denial of bond to a person present without admission or parole who is detained pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225, and, on the merits, finding that petitioner who had been present in the country for years on humanitarian parole was an applicant for admission and subject to detention under 8 USC 1225(b)(2)); and Hernandez v. Miami Field Office Director, Case No. 26-20440-ALTMAN, ECF No. 8 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 27, 2026) ("The plain text of § 1225(a)(1) defines aliens, like our [p]etitioner, as "applicants for admission" notwithstanding their distance from the border or the time they've spent in the United States without admission").

Nevertheless, the government acknowledges that Judges in this District have reached the opposite conclusion on the legal issues presented. See, e.g., Aguilar Merino v. Ripa, No. 25-23845-CIV-MARTINEZ, 2025 WL 2941609, at *3, 8 (S.D. Fla. Oct. 15, 2025) ("§ 1226(a), not § 1225(b)(2), governs Petitioner's detention"); Gil-Paulino v. Assistant Field Office Director Krome, et al., No. 25-24535-CIV-ALTONAGA (S.D. Fla. Oct. 15, 2025) (concluding that "prudential exhaustion

A. Petitioner is an Applicant for Admission subject to Detention pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) and 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) is Inapplicable.

Petitioner is properly detained as an applicant for admission subject to mandatory detention pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A). *See Buenrostro-Mendez v. Feb. 6, 2026) (holding that noncitizen petitioners in removal proceedings were subject to mandatory detention under 28 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2) because they were present in the United States without being admitted or paroled, despite having entered illegally many years ago; Iraheta Morales v. Noem, et al., Case No. 25-62598-CIV-SINGHAL, ECF No. 10 (S.D. Fla. Dec. 22, 2025) (finding good cause to excuse Petitioner's failure to exhaust administrative remedies where it is evident the BIA will reject Petitioner's request for a bond hearing or release and that Petitioner is subject to detention under § 1226(a) and entitled to a bond hearing before an immigration judge); Penagos Quintero v. Ripa, et al., Case No. 25-25746-CIV-BECERRA, ECF NO.14 (Jan. 5, 2026) (concluding that jurisdiction is not barred by 8 U.S.C. § 1252, exhaustion was not required, and that the petitioner's detention is governed by 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a), not 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)); Martinez v. Secretary of Homeland Security, Case No. 26-60020-CIV-SMITH, ECF No. 7 (S.D. Fla. Jan. 27, 2026) ("Petitioner is being unlawfully detained due to his improper classification as "an alien who is an applicant for admission" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A)[;] . . .Petitioner's proper classification is a detainee pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a)").

§ 1226); Perez Morales v. Noem, et al., No.26-60251-CIV DIMITROULEAS, ECF No. 15 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 9, 2026)(same, adopting the analysis of the Fifth Circuit majority opinion in Buenrostro-Medina); Mokanu v. Warden, Federal Detention Center Miami, No. 25-24121-ARTAU, ECF No. 19 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 19, 2026) (same; and holding that 8 USC 1252(g) prohibits the Court in a habeas proceeding from reviewing the denial of bond to a person detained pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225); and Hernandez v. Miami Field Office Director, Case No. 26-20440-ALTMAN, ECF No. 8 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 27, 2026) ("The plain text of § 1225(a)(1) defines aliens, like our [p]etitioner, as "applicants for admission" notwithstanding their distance from the border or the time they've spent in the United States without admission").

The Fifth Circuit in Buenrostro-Mendez recognized that "[s]ince DHS began to detain unadmitted aliens under§ 1225(b)(2)(A), well over a thousand aliens have filed habeas corpus petitions seeking bond hearings[] [and,] [i]n most of these cases, the district court found in favor of the petitioner." Id. at *3. Nevertheless, the court concluded that presence without admission renders an individual like Petitioner to be both an "applicant for admission" and "seeking admission" under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2) and therefore subject to mandatory detention--regardless of how much time the individual has been present in the United States. Buenrostro-Mendez, at *4-9. Additionally, like the Fifth Circuit, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals recently held that "Because the text here is clear that an 'applicant for admission' is also an alien who is 'seeking admission,' see § 1225(a)(1), (b)(2)(A), we may not resort to legislative history to cloud a statutory text that is clear, Cont'l Res., Inc. v. N. Dakota Bd. of Univ. & Sch. Lands, 136 F.4th 778, 785 (8th Cir. 2025) (citation omitted). Accordingly, we find that the district court erred in holding that the Government could not detain [petitioner] without bond under § 1225(b)(2)(A) and in granting habeas relief on that basis." Herrera Avila v. Bondi, No. 25-3248 (8th Cir. Mar. 25, 2026).

"As with any question of statutory interpretation, [the] analysis begins with the plain language of the statute." Jimenez v. Quarterman, 555 U.S. 113, 118 (2009) (citing Lamie v. U.S. Tr., 540 U.S. 526, 534 (2004)). Section 1225(a)(1) defines an "applicant for admission" as an "alien present in the United States who has not been admitted or who arrives in the United States (whether or not at a designated port of arrival . . .) . . . ." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(1); see Buenrostro-Mendez, at 2 ("an alien's status as an applicant for admission does not turn on where or how the alien entered the United States"); Matter of Velasquez-Cruz, 26 I&N Dec. 458, 463 n.5 (BIA 2014) ("[R]egardless of whether an alien who illegally enters the United States is caught at the border or inside the country, he or she will still be required to prove eligibility for admission.").

By its very definition, the term "applicant for admission" includes two categories of aliens: (1) arriving aliens, and (2) aliens present without admission. See Dep't of Homeland Sec. v. Thuraissigiam, 591 U.S. 103, 140 (2020) (explaining that "an alien who tries to enter the country illegally is treated as an 'applicant for admission'"); Matter of Lemus, 25 I&N Dec. 734, 743 (BIA 2012) ("Congress has defined the concept of an 'applicant for admission' in an unconventional sense, to include not just those who are expressly seeking permission to enter, but also those who are present in this country without having formally requested or received such permission . . . ."); Matter of E-R-M- & L-R-M-, 25 I&N Dec. 520, 523 (BIA 2011) (stating that "the broad category of applicants for admission . . . includes, inter alia, any alien present in the United States who has not been admitted"). An arriving alien is defined, in pertinent part, as "an applicant for admission coming or attempting to come into the United States at a port-of-entry [("POE")] . . . ." 8 C.F.R. §§ 1.2, 1001.1(q).

All aliens who are applicants for admission "shall be inspected by immigration officers." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a)(3); see also 8 C.F.R. § 235.1(a) ("Application to lawfully enter the United States shall be made in person to an immigration officer at a U.S. [POE] when the port is open for inspection . . . ."). An applicant for admission at a United States POE "must present whatever documents are required and must establish to the satisfaction of the inspecting officer that the alien is not subject to removal . . . and is entitled, under all of the applicable provisions of the immigration laws . . . to enter the United States." 8 C.F.R. § 235.1(f)(1); see also 8 U.S.C. § 1229a(c)(2)(A) (explaining that an applicant for admission has the burden to establish that he or she is clearly and beyond doubt entitled to be admitted and is not inadmissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182 in removal proceedings pursuant to § 1229a). "An alien present in the United States who has not been admitted or paroled or an alien who seeks entry at other than an open, designated [POE] . . . is subject to the provisions of [8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)] and to removal under [8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)] or [8 U.S.C. § 1229a]." 8 C.F.R. § 235.1(f)(2).

Petitioner admits that he entered the United States without inspection. See Petition, at ¶ 31. Petitioner is, therefore, an alien present in the United States without admission or parole and, consequently, an applicant for admission – even though he appears to have resided in the country for several years. See Buenrostro-Mendez, at *2, 4-5. An alien's status as an applicant for admission does not turn on where or how the alien entered the United States; an alien present without inspection or admission is necessarily an "applicant for admission" and "seeking admission," as contemplated in 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2).

The Fifth Circuit's decision in Buenrostro-Mendez is consistent not only with the plain language of § 1225(b)(2), but also with the Supreme Court's decision in Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281 (2018), and subsequent caselaw post Jennings. Specifically, in Jennings, the Supreme Court explained that § 1225(b) applies to all applicants for admission, noting that the language of § 1225(b)(2) is "quite clear" and "unequivocally mandate[s]" detention. 583 U.S. at 300, 303.

Additionally, in Matter of Q. Li, 29 I&N Dec. 66 (BIA 2025), the BIA held that an alien who unlawfully entered the United States between POEs, was arrested and detained without a warrant while arriving, and was previously released from DHS custody pursuant to an 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)(A) parole is detained under § 1225(b) upon re-detention. 29 I&N Dec. at 70-71. This ongoing evolution of the law makes clear that all applicants for admission in various procedural postures are subject to detention under § 1225(b). Cf. Niz-Chavez v. Garland, 593 U.S. 155, 171 (2021) (stating that "no amount of policy-talk can overcome a plain statutory command"); see generally Florida v. United States, 660 F. Supp. 3d 1239, 1275 (N.D. Fla. 2023) (explaining that "the 1996 expansion of § 1225(b) to include illegal border crossers would make little sense if DHS retained discretion to apply § 1226(a) and release illegal border crossers whenever the agency saw fit"). Florida's conclusion "that § 1225(b)'s 'shall be detained' means what it says and . . . is a mandatory requirement . . . flows directly from Jennings." Florida, 660 F. Supp. 3d at 1273.

B. Petitioner is an Applicant for Admission in 8 U.S.C. § 1229a Removal Proceedings and, as such, his Detention Pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) is Proper.

Both arriving aliens and aliens present without admission or parole are applicants for admission and may be removed from the United States by expedited removal procedures under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(1) or removal proceedings before an immigration judge under 8 U.S.C. § 1229a. See 8 U.S.C §§ 1225(b)(1), (b)(2)(A); Jennings, 583 U.S. at 287 (describing how "applicants for admission fall into one of two categories, those covered by § 1225(b)(1) and those covered by § 1225(b)(2)").

Petitioner is currently in § 1229a removal proceedings and is subject to mandatory detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A). See Petition, at ¶ 3. Under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), "an alien who is an applicant for admission" "shall be detained for a proceeding under [8 U.S.C. § 1229a]" "if the examining immigration officer determines that [the] alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A) (emphasis added); 8 C.F.R. § 235.3(b)(3) (providing that an alien placed into § 1229a removal proceedings in lieu of expedited removal proceedings under 8 U.S.C. § 1225 "shall be detained" pursuant to § 1225(b)(2)). As the Supreme Court observed in Jennings, nothing in § 1225(b)(2)(A) "says anything whatsoever about bond hearings." 583 U.S. at 297. Further, there is no textual basis for arguing that § 1225(b)(2)(A) applies only to arriving aliens as no provision therein refers to "arriving aliens," or limits that paragraph to arriving aliens. Where Congress means for a rule to apply only to "arriving aliens," it uses that specific term of art or similar phrasing. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C. §§ 1182(a)(9)(A)(i), 1225(c)(1).

C. Section 1226 does Not Impact the Detention Authority that Governs with respect to Applicants for Admission in removal proceedings.

Petitioner urges the Court to find that his detention (and eligibility for release on bond) is governed by 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a), but that is incorrect. Section 1226(a) is the applicable detention authority for aliens who have been admitted and are subject to removal proceedings under § 1229, and it does not impact the directive in § 1225(b)(2)(A) that "if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall be detained for a proceedings under [8 U.S.C. § 1229a]." 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A). Section § 1226(a) "applies to aliens already present in the United States" and "creates a default rule for those aliens by permitting—but not requiring—the [Secretary] to issue warrants for their arrest and detention pending removal proceedings." Jennings, 583 U.S. at 289, 303; Q. Li, 29 I&N Dec. at 70; see also M-S-, 27 I&N Dec. at 516 (describing 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) as a "permissive" detention authority separate from the "mandatory" detention authority under 8 U.S.C. § 1225). As the Fifth Circuit observed in Buenrostro-Mendez, § 1226(a) "does work independent from § 1225(b)(2)(A) because only § 1226(a) applies to admitted aliens who overstay their visas, become deportable on many different grounds, or were admitted erroneously due to fraud or some other error." Buenrostro-Mendez, at *7.

Generally, such aliens may be released on bond or their own recognizance, also known as "conditional parole." 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a); Jennings, 583 U.S. at 303, 306. Section 1226(a) does not, however, confer the right to be released on bond; rather, both DHS and immigration judges have broad discretion in determining whether to release an alien on bond as long as the alien establishes that he or she is not a flight risk or a danger to the community. See 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(c)(8), 1236.1(c)(8); Matter of Guerra, 24 I&N Dec. 37, 39 (BIA 2006); Matter of Adeniji, 22 I&N Dec. 1102 (BIA 1999). To interpret § 1225(b)(2)(A) as not applying to all applicants for admission would render it meaningless. As explained above, Congress expanded § 1225(b) in 1996 to apply to a broader category of aliens, including those aliens who crossed the border illegally. There would have been no need for Congress to make such a change if § 1226(a) was meant to apply to aliens present without admission.

D. Applicants for Admission may Only be Released from Detention on an 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5) Parole.

DHS has the exclusive authority to temporarily release on parole "any alien applying for admission to the United States" on a "case-by-case basis for urgent humanitarian reasons or significant public benefit." 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5); see 8 C.F.R. § 212.5(b). In Jennings, the Supreme Court placed significance on the fact that § 1182(d)(5) is the specific provision that authorizes temporary release from detention under § 1225(b). 583 U.S. at 300.

Parole, like an admission, is a factual occurrence. See Hing Sum, 602 F.3d at 1098; Matter of Roque-Izada, 29 I&N Dec. 106 (BIA 2025) (treating whether an alien was paroled as a question of fact). The parole authority under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5) is "delegated solely to the Secretary of Homeland Security." Matter of Castillo-Padilla, 25 I&N Dec. 257, 261 (BIA 2010); see 8 C.F.R.

§ 212.5(a). Thus, neither the BIA nor immigration judges have authority to parole an alien into the United States under § 1182(d)(5). Castillo-Padilla, 25 I&N Dec. at 261; see also Matter of Arrabally and Yerrabelly, 25 I&N Dec. 771, 777 n.5 (BIA 2002) (indicating that "parole authority [under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)] is now exercised exclusively by the DHS" and "reference to the Attorney General in [8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)] is thus deemed to refer to the Secretary of Homeland Security"). Lastly, because DHS has exclusive jurisdiction to parole an alien into the United States, the manner in which DHS exercises its parole authority may not be reviewed by an immigration judge or the BIA. Castillo-Padilla, 25 I&N Dec. at 261; see Matter of Castellon, 17 I&N Dec. 616, 620 (BIA 1981) (noting that the BIA does not have authority to review the way DHS exercises its parole authority).

E. Petitioner failed to Exhaust his Administrative Remedies

The Court should dismiss the petition for writ of habeas corpus because Petitioner has failed to exhaust administrative remedies. A habeas petitioner must normally exhaust administrative remedies before seeking federal court intervention. The exhaustion requirement "aims to provide the agency with a chance to correct its own errors, 'protect[] the authority of administrative agencies,' and otherwise conserve judicial resources by 'limiting interference in agency affairs, developing the factual record to make judicial review more efficient, and resolving issues to render judicial review unnecessary." Beharry v. Ashcroft, 329 F.3d 51, 62 (2d Cir. 2003) (Sotomayor, J.).

Petitioner argues that he is not required to avail himself of the administrative remedies available to him (see Petition, at ¶ 23) and instead seeks an order requiring a bond hearing this Court. On March 23, 2026, Petitioner had a bond hearing where an Immigration Judge denied bond. See Petition, at ¶ 45. To date, Petitioner has not filed an appeal of the Immigration Judge's order denying bond. By regulation, the BIA has authority to review IJ custody determinations. See 8 C.F.R. §§ 1003.1(b)(7), 1003.19(f), 1003.38, 1236.1(d)(3). As set forth in the EOIR Policy Memo 25-45 the BIA and IJs can consider constitutional challenges to the INA. See https://www.justice.gov/eoir/eoir-policy-manual/memoranda-pm-list. Here, Petitioner's removal proceedings are pending, thus he has not availed himself of the administrative process and remedies available to him and instead sought relief from this Court. Accordingly, the Petition should be dismissed for failure to exhaust administrative remedies.

F. 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) bars review of Petitioner's claims.

Petitioner is essentially asking the Court to prohibit its commencement of removal proceedings, but the Court lacks jurisdiction to grant such relief. Section 1252(g) of Title 8, United States Code, categorically bars jurisdiction over "any cause or claim by or on behalf of any alien arising from the decision or action by the [Secretary of Homeland Security] to commence proceedings, adjudicate cases, or execute removal orders against any alien." 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) (emphasis added). The Secretary of Homeland Security's decision to commence removal proceedings, including the decision to detain an alien pending such removal proceedings, squarely falls within this jurisdictional bar.

In other words, detention clearly "aris[es] from" the decision to commence removal proceedings against an alien. See Mokanu, No. 25-24121-ARTAU, ECF No. 19 at 9 (S.D. Fla. Feb. 19, 2026) ("by seeking release from custody "pending removal proceedings," the "basis of [the petitioner's] claim" is a challenge to the decision to commence removal proceedings against him, which is plainly barred by § 1252(g); Alvarez v. ICE, 818 F.3d 1194, 1203 (11th Cir. 2016) ("By its plain terms, [§ 1252(g)] bars us from questioning ICE's discretionary decisions to commence removal" and also to review "ICE's decision to take [plaintiff] into custody and to detain him during removal proceedings"); Tazu v. Att'y Gen. U.S., 975 F.3d 292, 298 (3d Cir. 2020) ("The text of § 1252(g)... strips us of jurisdiction to review... [T]o perform or complete a removal, the [Secretary of Homeland Security] must exercise [her] discretionary power to detain an alien for a few days. That detention does not fall within some other part of the deportation process.") (cleaned up) (internal quotations and citations omitted); Valencia-Mejia v. United States, No. CV 08–2943 CAS (PJWx), 2008 WL 4286979, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 15, 2008) ("The decision to detain plaintiff until his hearing before the Immigration Judge arose from this decision to commence proceedings[.]") (emphasis added); Wang v. United States, No. CV 10-0389 SVW (RCx), 2010 WL 11463156, at *6 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 18, 2010) (citing Khorrami v. Rolince, 493 F. Supp. 2d 1061 (N.D. Ill. 2007) ("[Plaintiff's] detention necessarily arises from the decision to initiate removal proceedings against him.") (emphasis added); Herrera-Correra v. United States, No. CV 08-2941 DSF (JCx), 2008 WL 11336833, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 11, 2008) (citing Sissoko v. Rocha, 509 F.3d 947, 949 (9th Cir. 2007) ("The [Secretary] may arrest the alien against whom proceedings are commenced and detain that individual until the conclusion of those proceedings. ... Thus, an alien's detention throughout this process arises from the [Secretary]'s decision to commence proceedings[]" and review of claims arising from such detention is barred under § 1252(g)) (emphasis added). Put in the Supreme Court's words, detention pending removal is a "specification" of the decision to commence proceedings. See Reno v. Am.-Arab Anti-Discrimination Comm. ("AADC"), 525 U.S. 471, 485 n.9 (1999) ("§ 1252(g) covers" a "specification of the decision to 'commence proceedings'").

G. 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9) bars review of Petitioner's claims.

Under § 1252(b)(9), "judicial review of all questions of law . . . including interpretation and application of statutory provisions . . . arising from any action taken . . . to remove an alien from the United States" is only proper before the appropriate court of appeals in the form of a petition for review of a final removal order. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9); Reno v. American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Comm., 525 U.S. 471, 483 (1999) ("AADC"). Section 1252(b)(9) is an "unmistakable 'zipper' clause" that "channels judicial review of all [claims arising from deportation proceedings]" to a court of appeals in the first instance. Id.; see Lopez v. Barr, No. CV 20-1330 (JRT/BRT), 2021 WL 195523, at *2 (D. Minn. Jan. 20, 2021) (citing Nasrallah v. Barr, 590 U.S. 573, 579–80 (2020)). Moreover, § 1252(a)(5) provides that a petition for review is the exclusive means for judicial review of immigration proceedings. Notwithstanding any other provision of law (statutory or nonstatutory), . . . a petition for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals in accordance with this section shall be the sole and exclusive means for judicial review of an order of removal entered or issued under any provision of this chapter, except as provided in subsection (e) [concerning aliens not admitted to the United States]. 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(5). "Taken together, § 1252(a)(5) and § 1252(b)(9) mean that any issue—whether legal or factual—arising from any removal-related activity can be reviewed only through the [petition-for-review] process." J.E.F.M. v. Lynch, 837 F.3d 1026, 1031 (9th Cir. 2016) (emphasis in original); see id. at 1035 ("§§ 1252(a)(5) and [(b)(9)] channel review of all claims, including policies-and-practices challenges . . . whenever they 'arise from' removal proceedings"); accord Ruiz v. Mukasey, 552 F.3d 269, 274 n.3 (2d Cir. 2009) (only when the action is "unrelated to any removal action or proceeding" is it within the district court's jurisdiction); cf. Xiao Ji Chen v. U.S. Dep't of Justice, 434 F.3d 144, 151 n.3 (2d Cir. 2006) (a "primary effect" of the REAL ID Act is to "limit all aliens to one bite of the apple" (internal quotation marks omitted)).

Critically, "[§] 1252(b)(9) is a judicial channeling provision, not a claim-barring one." Aguilar v. ICE, 510 F.3d 1, 11 (1st Cir. 2007). Indeed, 8 U.S.C. § 1252(a)(2)(D) provides that

"[n]othing . . . in any other provision of this chapter . . . shall be construed as precluding review of constitutional claims or questions of law raised upon a petition for review filed with an appropriate court of appeals in accordance with this section." See also Ajlani v. Chertoff, 545 F.3d 229, 235 (2d Cir. 2008) ("[J]urisdiction to review such claims is vested exclusively in the courts of appeals[.]"). The petition-for-review process before the court of appeals ensures that aliens have a proper forum for claims arising from their immigration proceedings and "receive their day in court." J.E.F.M., 837 F.3d at 1031–32 (internal quotations omitted); see also Rosario v. Holder, 627 F.3d 58, 61 (2d Cir. 2010) ("The REAL ID Act of 2005 amended the [INA] to obviate . . . Suspension Clause concerns" by permitting judicial review of "nondiscretionary" BIA determinations and "all constitutional claims or questions of law.").

In evaluating the reach of subsections (a)(5) and (b)(9), the Second Circuit explained that jurisdiction turns on the substance of the relief sought. Delgado v. Quarantillo, 643 F.3d 52, 55 (2d Cir. 2011). Those provisions divest district courts of jurisdiction to review both direct and indirect challenges to removal orders, including decisions to detain for purposes of removal or for proceedings. See Jennings, 583 U.S. at 294–95 (section 1252(b)(9) includes challenges to the "decision to detain [an alien] in the first place or to seek removal[.]"). Here, Petitioner challenges the decision and action to detain him, which arises from DHS's decision to commence removal proceedings, and is thus an "action taken . . . to remove [him/her] from the United States." See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9); see also, e.g., Jennings, 583 U.S. at 294–95; Velasco Lopez v. Decker, 978 F.3d 842, 850 (2d Cir. 2020) (finding that 8 U.S.C. § 1226(e) did not bar review in that case because the petitioner did not challenge "his initial detention"); Saadulloev v. Garland, No. 3:23-CV-00106, 2024 WL 1076106, at *3 (W.D. Pa. Mar. 12, 2024) (recognizing that there is no judicial review of the threshold detention decision, which flows from the government's decision to "commence proceedings"). As such, the Court lacks jurisdiction over this action. The reasoning in Jennings outlines why the Petitioner's claims cannot be reviewed by the Court.

While holding that it was unnecessary to comprehensively address the scope of § 1252(b)(9), the Supreme Court in Jennings provided guidance on the types of challenges that may fall within the scope of § 1252(b)(9). See Jennings, 583 U.S. at 293–94. The Court found that "§1252(b)(9) [did] not present a jurisdictional bar" in situations where "respondents . . . [were] not challenging the decision to detain them in the first place." Id. at 294–95. In this case, the Petitioner does challenge the government's decision to detain him in the first place. Though the Petitioner frames his challenge as relating to detention authority, rather than a challenge to DHS's decision to detain him in the first instance, such creative framing does not evade the preclusive effect of § 1252(b)(9).

The fact that the Petitioner is challenging the basis upon which he is detained is enough to trigger § 1252(b)(9) because "detention is an 'action taken . . . to remove' an alien." See Jennings, 583 U.S. at 319 (Thomas, J., concurring); 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9). The Court should dismiss the Petitioner's claims for lack of jurisdiction under § 1252(b)(9). The Petitioner must present his claims before the appropriate court of appeals because he challenges the government's decision or action to detain him, which must be raised before a court of appeals, not this Court. See 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9).

H. Petitioner's Due Process Claim Fails because he is Detained Pursuant to a Valid Statutory Authority.

Petitioner's constitutional claim fails as a matter of law. Mandatory detention under § 1225(b) has repeatedly been upheld as constitutionally permissible. See Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. at 299–301. The Fifth Amendment does not require bond hearings for aliens detained pursuant to valid statutory authority, nor does Petitioner possess a protected liberty interest in release on bond where Congress has mandated detention. The Due Process Clause does not prohibit Congress from imposing categorical detention rules in the immigration context. See Demore v. Kim, 538 U.S. 510, 528 (2003).

I. Petitioner's Claims Concerning the Conditions of his Confinement Are Not Cognizable in Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

Petitioner's Petition challenges not only the fact of his confinement, but also the conditions under which he is confined. Petitioner alleges that he "has already experienced discomfort and unequal treatment in custody." See Petition, at ¶ 74. Such a claim is not cognizable in a habeas proceeding under 28 U.S.C. § 2241.

Claims challenging the fact or duration of a sentence fall within the "core" of habeas corpus, while claims challenging the conditions of confinement fall outside of habeas corpus law. Nelson v. Campbell, 541 U.S. 637, 644 (2004). Habeas relief is meant to restore liberty to those individuals whom the Government lacked the authority to imprison or detain in the first instance. See Boumediene v. Bush, 553 U.S. 723, 779, 128 S.Ct. 2229, 171 L.Ed.2d 41 (2008) ("the privilege of habeas corpus entitles the prisoner to a meaningful opportunity to demonstrate that he is being held pursuant to 'the erroneous application or interpretation' of relevant law" (citation omitted)). A petition for writ of habeas corpus is not the appropriate mechanism for contesting a prisoner's conditions of confinement. See Vaz v. Skinner, 634 F. App'x 778, 780 (11th Cir. 2015); Matos v. Lopez Vega, 614 F.Supp.3d 1158, 1168 (S.D. Fla. 2020); and A.S.M. v. Donahue, No. 20-cv-62, 2020 WL 1847158, at *1 (M.D. Ga. Apr. 10, 2020).

J. Petitioner Does Not Have Standing to Bring His Claim Under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA).

Petitioner also does not have standing to bring his APA claim. By the APA's terms, it is available only for final agency action "for which there is no other adequate remedy in court." 5

U.S.C. § 704. Thus, Petitioner's APA claim is independently barred by this limitation in 5 U.S.C. § 704. In Trump v. J.G.G., the Supreme Court held that where the claims for relief, as here, "necessarily imply the invalidity of their confinement" those claims "must be brought in habeas." 145 S. Ct. 1003, 1005 (2025) (cleaned up) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). As noted by Justice Kavanaugh in his concurrence in J.G.G., "given 5 U.S.C. § 704, which states that claims under the APA are not available when there is another adequate remedy in court, I agree with the Court that habeas corpus, not the APA, is the proper vehicle here." Id. at 1007 (Kavanaugh, J. concurring). Here, as in J.G.G., habeas is an "adequate remedy" through which Petitioner can challenge his detention. Even if Petitioner's APA claim had merit, which it does not, the result would be the same as that in habeas – release from detention. The Supreme Court's holding is consistent with well-established law that habeas is generally the only possible district court vehicle for challenges brought pursuant to the immigration statutes. Id. (citing Heikkila v. Barber, 345 U.S. 229, 234-35 (1953)).
