Attorneys for Respondents

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF ARIZONA

Jose Luis Antonio Escobar-Galdamez,

Petitioner,

v.

Luis Rosa Jr., et al.,

Respondents.

No. CV-26-02760-PHX-DWL (MTM)

RESPONSE TO PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Respondents by and through undersigned counsel, hereby respond to the Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (Doc. 1) and the Court's Order to Show Cause.

I. Factual background.

Petitioner is a native and citizen of El Salvador. Exhibit A at ¶ 4. In March 2006, Petitioner entered the United States without inspection. Id. at ¶ 5. Petitioner was released as a minor child to a family member.¹ Id. at ¶ 5. On September 22, 2022, Petitioner was sentenced in the Superior Court of Arizona in Yuma County, for Count Two: Offense: Possession of Drug Paraphernalia Involving Methamphetamine, a Class Six Felony. Id. at ¶ 17. Petitioner was turned over to ICE custody in 2025 during a probation inspection. . Id. at ¶ 18. Petitioner had been in removal proceedings since 2007 and was ultimately ordered removed in October 2025. Id. at ¶¶ 8-20. The Petitioner subsequently appealed to the Board

¹ Petitioner was never released on a formal OSUP, Parole, or OREC program.

1 of Immigration Appeals (BIA) where the case remains pending. Id. at ¶ 22. Currently, 2 Petitioner is being held at Florence Regional Processing Center. Id. at 1.

3 II. The Warden is the only proper Respondent.

4 Only Warden Lis Rosas Jr. is a proper respondent. See Doe v. Garland, 109 F.4th 5 1188, 1195-96 (9th Cir. 2024) (holding that neither an ICE Field Office Director nor the 6 Attorney General are proper respondents in a challenge to immigration detention); see also 7 Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426, 439-40 & n.13 (2004) (“In challenges to present physical 8 confinement, we reaffirm that the immediate custodian, not a supervisory official who 9 exercises legal control, is the proper respondent.”). A habeas petition may never have 10 multiple respondents, because the only “proper respondent is the warden of the facility where 11 the prisoner is being held, not the Attorney General or some other remote supervisory 12 official.” See Doe, 109 F.4th at 1195 (quoting Padilla, 542 U.S. at 435). The Court should 13 dismiss all Respondents other than Warden Luis Rosas Jr.

14 III. ZADVYDAS IS INAPPLICABLE.

15 Petitioner is appealing the IJ’s denial of asylum which is pending with the BIA.
 16 Exhibit A at 3. Because the appeal with the BIA is still ongoing and has not been dismissed 17 there is no final order of removal at this time.² As a result, Petitioner’s detention is not 18 governed by Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001) because Petitioner does not have a 19 final removal order and the government is not seeking removal while the appeal with the 20 BIA is pending.³ Respondent’s are complying with Petitioner’s appellate rights and not 21 removing Petitioner during appeal, but if the removal order is upheld Petitioner will 22 immediately be placed in the removal process.

23 IV. Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225.

24 Before 1996, the federal immigration laws required the detention of aliens who 25 presented at a port of entry but allowed aliens who were already unlawfully present in the 26 United States to obtain release pending removal proceedings. Congress passed the Illegal 27 Immigration Reform and Immigration Responsibility Act (“IIRIRA”) specifically to stop

28 ² See, 8 U.S.C. § 1241.1(a) Final Order of Removal.

³ The detention, release, and removal of aliens subject to a final order of removal is governed by § 241 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (“INA”), 8 U.S.C. § 1231.

1 conferring greater privileges and benefits on aliens who enter the United States unlawfully 2 as compared to those who lawfully present themselves for inspection at a port of entry.

3 As relevant here, Congress enacted what is now 8 U.S.C. § 1225, which requires the 4 detention of any alien “who is an applicant for admission” and defines that term to encompass 5 any “alien present in the United States who has not been admitted” following inspection by 6 immigration authorities. 8 U.S.C. § 1225(a), (b)(2)(A). The statute makes no exception for 7 how far into the country the alien traveled or how long the alien managed to evade detection.
8 Unless the Secretary exercises the narrow and discretionary parole authority, mandatory 9 detention is the rule for aliens who have never been lawfully admitted. See 8 U.S.C.
10 § 1225(b)(2)(A) (“Subject to subparagraphs (B) and (C), in the case of an alien who is an 11 applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an alien 12 seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted, the alien shall 13 be detained for a proceeding under section 1229a of this title [Section 240].” (emphasis 14 added)); 8 C.F.R. § 235.3(b)(1)(ii) (mirroring Section 1225(b)(2) detention mandate); 15 Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 302 (2018) (holding that Section 1225(b)(2) 16 “mandate[s] detention of aliens throughout the completion of applicable proceedings and not 17 just at the moment those proceedings begin”).

18 Recently, the Fifth Circuit decided this issue in Respondents’ favor. In Buenrostro-
19 Mendez v. Bondi, --- F.4th ---, 2026 WL 323330 (5th Cir. Feb. 6, 2026), the Fifth Circuit 20 held that unadmitted applicants for admission apprehended within the United States are 21 seeking admission and are subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A).
22 2026 WL 323330, at *1. The Fifth Circuit reversed the district courts’ orders granting the 23 habeas petitions, which directed the respondents to provide petitioners with bond hearings.
24 Id. The Seventh Circuit, deciding a motion to stay pending appeal in a matter arising in a 25 different context, and on the basis of a “preliminary record,” determined that the government 26 was “not likely to succeed on the merits” of its argument that aliens present in the United 27 States without admission are subject to mandatory detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A).
28 Castañon-Nava v. U.S. Dep’t of Homeland Sec., 161 F.4th 1048, 1061-62 (7th Cir. 2025).

1 The Ninth Circuit will hear argument on this issue on March 4, 2026, in Rodriguez Vazquez
 2 v. Bostock, No. 25-6842 (9th Cir.).

3 Judge Liburdi adopted Respondents' position in Chavez v. Noem, No. 26-cv-00323-
 4 PHX-MTL (D. Ariz. Feb. 9, 2026). In that decision, Judge Liburdi found persuasive the Fifth 5 Circuit's reasoning in Buenrostro-Mendez and adopted it, finding that "a person who entered 6 the United States illegally and is clearly and beyond a doubt not entitled to admission, is 7 subject to mandatory detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A)." Id. at 4. Judge Liburdi denied the 8 petition and directed the petitioner to seek relief in the Central District of California if he 9 believed he was entitled to further relief as a member of the Bautista class (discussed below).
 10 Id. at 5. Prior to the Buenrostro-Mendez decision, several other district courts had also agreed 11 with Respondents' position. See Chavez v. Noem, --- F. Supp. 3d ---, No. 3:25-cv-02325-

 (W.D.N.Y. Dec. 4, 2025).

27 Respondents acknowledge, however, that the majority of district courts, including this 28 one, have rejected their position. See, e.g., Echevarria v. Bondi, No. 2:25-cv-03252-PHX-

1 DWL, 2025 WL 2821282 (D. Ariz. Oct. 3, 2025); Barco Mercado v. Francis, No. 25-cv-
 2 6582 --- F. Supp. 3d ----, 2025 WL 3295903, at *13 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 26, 2025) (listing 350 3 decisions that found for the habeas petitioner).

4 V. Bautista has no preclusive effect outside the Central District of California.

5 On March 6, 2026, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals temporarily stayed the 6 application of the Bautista judgment beyond the Central District of California. Bautista v.
 7 US Department of Homeland Security, 9th Cir., No. 26-1044, 3/6/26. Earlier, On December
 8 18, 2025, a partial final judgment was entered in Bautista v. Santacruz, No. 5:25-CV-01873-
 9 SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3678485 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2025), a class action⁴ that sought a 10 declaratory judgment that class members such as Petitioner were unlawfully detained under 11 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2), rather than § 1226(a).⁵ This is core habeas relief that must be brought 12 as a habeas claim alone. As the Supreme Court made clear just last year, “[r]egardless of 13 whether [] detainees formally request release from confinement,” if “their claims for relief 14 necessarily imply the invalidity of their confinement[], their claims fall within the core of 15 the writ of habeas corpus and thus must be brought in habeas.” Trump v. J.G.G., 604 U.S.
 16 670, 672 (2025) (internal quotations omitted).

17 The Supreme Court has imposed two fundamental limits on federal court jurisdiction 18 over core habeas claims. First, “jurisdiction lies in only one district: the district of 19 confinement.” Rumsfeld v. Padilla, 542 U.S. 426, 443 (2004); see also J.G.G., 604 U.S. at 20 672. Second, a habeas petitioner must name the petitioner’s immediate custodian—i.e., the 21 custodian who has actual custody over the petitioner and can produce the “corpus.” Padilla, 22 542 U.S. at 435. “Failure to name the petitioner’s custodian as a respondent deprives federal 23 ⁴ The “Bond Eligible Class” certified in Bautista is defined as “[a]ll noncitizens in the United 24 States without lawful status who (1) have entered or will enter the United States without 25 inspection; (2) were not or will not be apprehended upon arrival; and (3) are not or will not 26 be subject to detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c), § 1225(b)(1), or § 1231 at the time the 27 Department of Homeland Security makes an initial custody determination.” Bautista v.

 28 Santacruz, --- F.R.D. ----, No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, 2025 WL 3288403, at *9 (C.D.
 Cal. Nov. 25, 2025).

⁵ The government has appealed the partial final judgment entered in Bautista. See Bautista, et al. v. United States Dep’t of Homeland Sec., et al., No. 25-7958 (9th Cir.).

1 courts of personal jurisdiction” needed to issue relief. Stanley v. Cal. Supreme Court, 21 F.3d
2 359, 360 (9th Cir. 1994); Padilla, 542 U.S. at 444. Thus, a federal district court is wholly 3 without authority to issue the writ in favor of a habeas petitioner who seeks habeas relief in 4 a judicial district in which he is not confined and the immediate custodian is not located.
5 Padilla, 542 U.S. at 442-43. And “[a] judgment entered without jurisdiction over the 6 defendant is void.” S.E.C. v. Ross, 504 F.3d 1130, 1139 (9th Cir. 2007).

7 Given that a challenge to the legality of detention is a core habeas claim, class-wide 8 declaratory relief is inappropriate in the habeas context. Calderon v. Ashmus, 523 U.S. 740, 9 747 (1998) (declaratory judgment action not appropriate to address “validity of a defense the 10 State may, or may not, raise in a habeas proceeding” in part because “the underlying claim 11 must be adjudicated in a federal habeas proceeding”); Fusco v. Grondolsky, No. 17-1062, 12 2019 WL 13112044, at *1 (1st Cir. June 18, 2019) (declaratory judgment action must be 13 dismissed when habeas available). Indeed, a class-wide declaratory judgment imposed from 14 outside the district of confinement cannot be squared with the district-of-confinement
15 requirement of habeas, where the relief is an order of release, 28 U.S.C. § 2241(a), not a 16 declaration of legal rights that can later be enforced. See Calderon, 523 U.S. at 747; Fusco, 17 2019 WL 13112044, at *1; LoBue v. Christopher, 82 F.3d 1081, 1082 (D.C. Cir. 1996)
18 (holding that the “availability of a habeas remedy in another district ousted us of jurisdiction
19 over an alien’s effort to pose a constitutional attack . . . by means of a suit for declaratory 20 judgment”); Monk v. Sec. of Navy, 793 F.2d 364, 366 (D.C. Cir. 1986) (“In adopting the 21 federal habeas corpus statute, Congress determined that habeas corpus is the appropriate 22 federal remedy for a prisoner who claims that he is ‘in custody in violation of the Constitution
23 . . . of the United States,’ This specific determination must override the general terms 24 of the declaratory judgment . . . statute.”).

25 Additionally, as this Court has observed, the Bautista order was explicitly non-26 coercive, because if it were otherwise, the Bautista court would have had no authority to 27 issue it under 8 U.S.C. § 1252(f). See, e.g., Tamarit-Ferrer v. Rivas, No. CV-25-04886-PHX-28 DWL (MTM) (D. Ariz. Dec. 31, 2025), ECF No. 5 at 2 n.2 (“Bautista explains that because the requested relief is limited to ‘classwide declaratory relief,’ the requested relief ‘is not ultimately coercive’ and does not implicate ‘Section 1252(l)’s prohibition of class actions.’”) (quoting Bautista v. Santacruz, No. 5:25-CV-01873-SSS-BFM, --- F.R.D. ----, 2025 WL 3288403, at *7-8 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 25, 2025)).

Here, the vast majority of Bautista class members are confined outside of the Central District of California by immediate custodians who are also outside the Central District of California and have not been named in the lawsuit. Therefore, the Bautista court lacked jurisdiction to issue habeas relief to all class members who are confined outside the Central District of California by immediate custodians outside that District, and a court’s judgment cannot be binding and preclusive against a party over which it lacked jurisdiction. Burnham v. Superior Court of Cal., 495 U.S. 604, 608 (1990). Indeed, another federal district court has already held that the Bautista decisions “are advisory opinions because they do not redress the alleged harm and are not preclusive.” Calderon Lopez v. Lyons, No. 1:25-CV-226-H, --- F. Supp. 3d ----, 2025 WL 3683918, at *1 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 19, 2025); see also Rodriguez v. Jeffreys, No. 8:25-CV-714, 2025 WL 3754411, at *8-10 (D. Neb. Dec. 29, 2025) (finding that the Bautista court lacked jurisdiction to apply injunction to detainees outside of the Central District of California and that Bautista does not have preclusive effect).

In sum, the Bautista court’s declaratory judgment purporting to grant relief that at its core sounds in habeas is a legal nullity outside that District. At the time of filing this habeas petition, Petitioner was detained at the Florence Regional Processing Center, which is not within the jurisdiction of the Central District of California. That ends the matter. But if more were needed, Petitioner’s immediate custodian is Warden Luis Rosas Jr., who was not a party in Bautista; subjecting Petitioner’s immediate custodian to the judgment of the Central District of California would be inconsistent with the immediate custodian rule. See Padilla, 542 U.S. at 439-40; Doe, 109 F.4th at 1196.

IV. Conclusion.

Petitioner is subject to mandatory detention, and Bautista has no preclusive effect outside the Central District of California. However, insofar as the Petition challenges Respondents’ detention of Petitioner pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A), Petitioner appears to be a member of the Bond Eligible Class. Bautista, 2025 WL 3288403, at *9.

1 To the extent the Petition seeks an order requiring Respondents to either immediately
2 release Petitioner or hold a bond hearing, Respondents oppose the request and request that 3 any order granting Petitioner relief direct the Respondents to provide a bond redetermination
4 hearing within fourteen (14) days or release Petitioner from custody under the same 5 conditions that existed before detention.

6 Respectfully submitted this 26th day of May 2026.
